Phase I Bids On Civic Center To Be Opened Here

Bids on construction of the first phase of Schaumburg's Civic Center Complex will be opened tonight at the village board meeting.

It is not known how many firms submitted bids on the $638,000 project, but village administrator John Ooste said yesterday about 15 companies had obtained information and specifications from the architect.

It is also expected Denis Ledgerwood will be formally appointed as a village trustee to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Jack Larsen.

The civic center has been the center of some controversy in the past month, since it was learned the estimated cost of the building had nearly doubled from initial projections.

Some village officials, including Mayor Robert O. Atcher, expressed concern over the increase.

APPARENTLY THE major reason behind the cost increase is the plan for extensive site development, including a small retention lake, which was not included in the original architects estimates.

Village officials decided to go ahead with construction of the facility, which will house most of the village's administrative offices, but to study the entire project to see what segments could be dropped or added at less expense.

Village Trustee Herb Aigner, chairman of the development committee which coordinated much of the planning for the facility, said an in-depth study of the entire project will be undertaken in an effort to reduce costs.

It is expected the village will use public works department personnel to do a larger portion of the landscaping and site development than had been originally planned.

The site for the new facility will eventually include a police building and a cultural center as well as potential expansion of the administrative offices.

THE ENTIRE complex will be located on a 40-acre site on the south side of Schaumburg road, just east of Roselle road.

In addition to the bid opening, the board also will receive a special request for permission to hold a carnival at the Town Square Shopping Center from Charles DePaul of the local VFW organization.

Postal Service Letter Stresses Safety Rules

A letter urging parents to stress safety rules to their children has been sent to homes in the Northwest suburbs by the U.S. Postal Service.

The National Association of Letter Carriers requested the service send the letter to warn parents of potential safety hazards around mail trucks.

"Children do play in the streets," the letter states. "They do gather around our vehicles and storage boxes when we are making a delivery, and of late we are finding this problem even more so."

The carriers wanted the letter sent as a courtesy to the public, said Hoffman Estates Station Supervisor Sheldon Galanter.

"I personally believe one of my most enjoyable duties is accepting that first letter a youngster writes, or delivering the awaited package which has taken many box tops or premiums to obtain," the carriers' letter says.

"If you, as an adult and parent, will help me by teaching your children the safe way to obtain their mail, and the danger presented when they crowd around a truck or car, then there can be no unfortunate accident," it concludes.

Cat With White Paws Is Sought

Bobby Kleckner, 5, may have to undergo rabies shots this week unless someone can identify a large gray cat with white paws and markings which bit him Saturday.

His mother, Mrs. Trudi Kleckner, 210 Dunbar Ct., said the boy was playing in an open area at Sheffield Towne between Dunbar and Bishop courts. Any information regarding the cat should be reported to the Schaumburg police department or to her, 894-0119.

Principal's Recipe For A Student

by JERRY THOMAS

For 30 years, Miss Susan McCann of Schaumburg, in her role as a school principal, has had to deal with other people's children.

Her years of experience don't make her an expert, she said, "But maybe I'm doing something right; my pupils and I have a mutual respect for one another."

As Miss McCann walked the empty corridors of Francis Campanelli School where she begins her seventh year as a principal with Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54, she gave this recipe for turning out a good student.

"LOVE THEM and season that love with good common sense, two things every child is in dire need of," she said.

Miss McCann approves of Dist. 54's curriculum and calls the open court reading method and creative writing classes for elementary students stimulating educationally.

"You could call me a traditional educator. I don't believe in a lot of excessive behavioral freedom for young children within these school walls. I run a tight ship," said Miss McCann. "However, curriculum wise, I believe each child should be given the freedom to expire and grow freely," said the principal.

Campanelli's classes are empty of students this summer, but the school is still a beehive of activity. Miss McCann, who works all year, takes interruptions in stride as she talks to parents of new students and confers with some of her

Slain Exec Was Upset: Landscaper

by DOUG RAY

Dan Palenske, a sandy-haired, part-time landscaper may have been the last person to talk to Barrington Hills executive Paul M. Corbett before he was murdered Friday night.

"I spoke to him at 7:25 that night," said Palenske. "He acted upset . . . or something, like he was shook up or drinking."

Palenske telephoned Corbett to apologize for not being able to work on the grounds Friday evening as Mrs. Corbett had requested.

"I was having a house full of people . . . so I couldn't do it," he said.

The 27-year-old man, who manages a service station in Arlington Heights during the day, and is a free-lance landscaper, mused on the chance he could have been at the scene during the mass murder Friday night. "She (Mrs. Corbett) asked if I could start that (Friday) night," he said. "But we had company so I told her no."

PALENESKE HAD toured the manicured grounds of Corbett's Barrington Hills estate Friday afternoon with Mrs. Corbett. "It was about 4:30 and she came outside and showed me the work to be done."

They walked to the front of the grey-brick home atop a steep hill and also viewed landscaping behind the house near a large patio area. "I arranged to do it Sunday," he said.

Palenske had last worked for the Corbett family about two years ago, he said, and had done a series of lawn work for the family amounting to some $3,000 over the past five years.

He attended Northwestern Military Academy in Wisconsin with Corbett's stepson Anthony Boand and thus met the Corbett family. Boand discovered the gangland-style murders Friday when he returned a borrowed car to the family home at about 9:30. Gunned down were Corbett, 67; his wife Marian, 57; Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 65, sister of Mrs. Corbett, and Mrs. Corbett's daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara Boand, 22.

Attempting to secure another tree-trimming job at the Corbett home, Palenske visited the estate about a week ago. "I went to the door and someone opened an eye hole and then there was no answer," Palenske then placed his business card in the door and left.

He contacted the Corbetts again Wednesday to inquire about the landscaping work and they accepted the offer.

He strode the grounds with Mrs. Corbett Friday afternoon to find out the details of the $200 landscaping job and said he would do it Sunday, rather than Friday evening as she had suggested.

Palenske said he was contacted by a law enforcement agency yesterday morning and was scheduled to appear at the Barrington Hills police station to recount his Friday visit to the Corbett home.

HAVING LAST been inside the 14-room mansion about four years ago, Palenske recalled "it was gorgeous . . . Mr. Corbett brought out a steak and offered it to me after I finished work."

His landscaping duties enabled him to know casually most of the wealthy homeowners on Bateman Circle where Corbett

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

It will cost the nation $187.1 billion in this decade — an average of $100 a year for every man, woman and child — to control pollution, the government's annual report on the environment said. The Council on Environmental Quality's report said the nation's air is getting a little cleaner but water pollution is probably as bad as ever.

The Senate decisively defeated a proposal to outlaw private possession of pistols and revolvers. The vote was 94 to 7 against an amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to a bill to ban the sale of so-called Saturday Night Specials, cheaply made handguns that have no sporting purpose.

The Justice Department filed civil suits charging the city of Los Angeles

with discriminating in the hiring of firemen and the city of Montgomery Ala., with discrimination in public jobs. The two suits are the first to be filed under the 1972 Equal Employment Opportunity Act.

In the face of heavy mail from Congress and the public, the Justice Department's Internal Security Division is "looking into" antiwar statements made by Actress Jane Fonda in Hanoi to determine if she violated the 1940 Sedition Act.

House Democrats unanimously endorsed Sen. George McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as vice presidential candidate. The Democratic National Committee will formally nominate Shriver to the ticket today.

The World

While British farmers warned they faced a critical shortage of animal feed, striking dockworkers called a temporary halt to their 11-day-old walkout to unload 15 rhinoceroses being shipped to English zoos. The National Farmers Union said it would ask the government to send in troops to unload cargo and get the docks operating again.

The State

A group of independent Democrats led by Chicago Ald. William Singer and the Rev. Jesse Jackson said it intends to continue the delegate challenge to forces led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. The challenge focuses on six Illinois representatives to the Democratic National Committee who were elected with the help of Daley and his followers during a caucus of the state's delegation to the national party convention at Miami Beach.

The War

Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving toward the market town of Kompong Trabeik in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak — the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said the United States will not halt its bombing campaign in North Vietnam until Hanoi ends its invasion across the Demilitarized Zone.

The Market

Stocks scored a slight gain as a late flurry of buying activity among glamor issues capped a mixed, sluggish trading pattern on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average moved ahead 1.36 to 953.12 as advances led declines 714 to 667 among the 1,745 issues on the tape. Volume fell to 13,220,000. Prices finished mixed to slightly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Satisfies The Mind And Body

Yoga — A Great Old Way To Relax

by MARILYN MEISER

The sweet smell of incense mixes with the sound of Indian music lightly playing. A man stretched out on yellow shag carpeting slowly raises his legs up over his head and bends them backwards until his knees touch the floor.

Contortion artist in a mystical Taj Mahal?

No, Jack Frankenthall, one of the owners of Yoga Here 'n' Now, is simply demonstrating a yoga posture called the "noose."

He and Ceil Wormley, co-owners of the center which recently opened in Schaumburg at Algonquin Plaza between Meacham and Roselle roads, quickly dispel any notion that there is anything mystical or religious about Yoga.

"Yoga is a science designed to keep the human body and mind in the best possible shape, mentally and physically," Frankenthall said.

Mrs. Wormley added that yoga, which began thousands of years ago in India, "doesn't have to be associated with Eastern culture. It can be part of the American way of life."

Hatha Yoga, the type emphasized at the center, focuses on physical well-being. Students are taught postures or asanas, which look like exercises.

Mrs. Wormley said, "Postures are not exercises. Exercises exert energy and just use the muscles. Postures bring energy into the body and work on the internal organs as well as the muscles."

How can postures affect internal organs?

For instance, Mrs. Wormley said, while the body is held in an inverted position, fresh blood circulates and nourishes the organs. In an upright position, gravity pulls on the body and dislocates certain muscles and organs. "An upside down position inverts the pull of gravity," she said.

Frankenthall said yoga is an excellent way to lose weight. Not only do the postures reduce body fat and strengthen muscles, but, he said, "If you train the body to do things, you learn self-control. The physical postures satisfy the body. The body no longer craves food beyond what it needs to function."

But yoga, in Frankenthall's view, does much more than improve the physical condition of the body. One of the keys to yoga is relaxation.

"Tension is built into American life. Relaxation of the body aids relaxation of the mind and helps relieve tension," he said.

As an example of this relaxation, Frankenthall said, "We've had people fall asleep in class in postures like the noose."

Yoga Here 'n' Now offers weekly classes which last for eight weeks. The course costs $18. Different levels are offered for beginners and more advanced students.

Both instructors have taught yoga in various schools, park districts, YMCAs and YWCAs. They are taught at their yoga center in Elgin.

Between 10 and 15 students are in each class. People from age 14 up through senior citizens are welcome. Classes are offered in the morning and evening, Monday through Friday.

Free demonstrations are given the last Friday evening of every month. The next demonstration will be Friday, Aug. 25.

Frankenthall said that the trend for businessmen, housewives, and students to practice yoga "is growing like a mushroom. As recently as five or six years ago, very few people even knew what yoga was."

Can yoga solve all mental and physical problems?

Of course not. But Frankenthall and Mrs. Wormley cite their own experience and that of their students:

"People have overcome irritability, insomnia, weight problems, sinus trouble, aching backs, arthritis, and other diseases."

Certainly no "miracle" drug or exercise program can make such claims.

THE SHOES LINE up outside the door to the yoga classroom. Jack Frankenthall and Ceil Wormley are trying to keep their yellow carpeting clean.

A YOGA CLASS, at Yoga Here 'N' Now, in Algonquin Plaza in Schaumburg, is holding a posture the student holding the position pictured. The posture is so-named because it resembles a cat stretching.

SCHAUMBURG JAYCEES struck pay dirt again with Schaumburg United Party's selection of Denis Ledgerwood to replace Jack Larsen, whose resignation from the village board became effective last week.

Over the past several years, the Jaycee chapter, though strictly non-political in nature, has proven excellent training grounds for village government. Larsen, who joined the village board by appointment in 1969, was a charter member and past president of the chapter.

Peter Justen, selected by SUP earlier this year to replace Gordon Mullins, was the Jaycees Outstanding Young Man of 1971. He was the first appointed trustee to have been given the nod by the local party since its establishment last year.

Interestingly, the Ledgerwood endorsement nearly coincided with SUP's first birthday, and is thought by many observers to have been a superlative move.

Also a Jaycees charter member, Ledgerwood is well known as a diligent and hard worker who has the ability to get almost any job done. In the past he has demonstrated a responsive attitude which should be valuable to the community and to himself in his new role as trustee.

SUP is to be congratulated on what appears to be an excellent nomination to round out its first year.

CONCERNING TRUSTEE nominee Ledgerwood's ability to get what appear to be impossible tasks accomplished, as chairman of the Airport Study committee he is confident that one of two consulting engineers who have refused to submit price proposals for a feasibility study will do an about face within the next couple of weeks.

Only one company under consideration has agreed to quote prices, with the other two firms indicating they are willing only to submit costs of a comparable job.

The committee is reluctant to limit consideration to only one consultant and is pressing the other two for compliance. But, if plans do not pan out, it would appear further delays may occur with the selection process forced to begin all over.

Concerning opposition to planned airport expansion, Mrs. Jane Murphy says she has reached one-quarter of her goal to obtain 2,000 signatures against the project from Schaumburg residents.

She is being assisted by Nicki Netter of Hoffman Estates, who is chairman of Conant High School's Youth for Environmental Salvation.

PARENTS ARE complaining about difficulty in getting their preschoolers OUT of the offices of Schaumburg pediatrician Howard Singer. A waiting room filled with every attractive toy in existence is the reason. It's like going to play at someone else's house... but nobody else has that many neat toys.

In his busy practice, the doctor reports he is often asked two questions. Parents, these days, wonder if he is related to the much in the news Chicago alderman of the same surname. He says he is not. The moppets, who look at things quite literally, ask if he is going to sing while he treats them. He says he hasn't yet.

IN A NOVEL move, Schaumburg real estate man Dick McArthur plans to celebrate the first anniversary of the opening of his offices next Sunday with a picnic for customers of the past year.

Hijinks are scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. at Meineke Community Center.

IN HOFFMAN ESTATES last week, more Leo birthdays were observed when Jerry Manzardo reached 18 and Lori Stepanek turned 12.

SEND CHEER to Elgin's Sherman Hospital where Emma Redker, wife of Hoffman Estates treasurer Elmer Redker, and Irene Gunderson, a village office employee, are both patients.

SCHOOL IS OUT for the summer in Schaumburg, but that does not mean it's vacation time for Principal Susan McCann and custodian Cliff White at Francis Campanelli School on Springinguth Road. The job for Miss McCann who starts her 30th year Getting ready for the new semester is all part of as a principal this fall.

"School might be out for the summer, but many of my teachers come in and set up their classes early," she said.

Kindergartners from Campanelli will attend class at Thomas Dooley, Blackhawk and Everett Dirksen Schools and two of the school's sixth grade classes will be at Jane Addams Junior High School. Miss McCann said parents in the area have been understanding about the busing.

"We just don't have room at Campanelli, but things are getting better," she said.

"FOUR YEARS AGO we were on double shift. In about two years this school should be able to handle all the youngsters here," said Miss McCann. "The neighborhood is stabilizing and not too much new construction is coming in," she added.

Miss McCann, a Chicago girl, came to Schaumburg to live several years ago and shares her home with "Stormy," a boxer dog. "Woodfield in Schaumburg is a favorite spot of the principal's."

"The shopping center has something for everyone and walking around the place is a favorite form of recreation for me," said Miss McCann. Travel and studies abroad usually take up her vacation time, she said.

A gardening and landscape course at Harper College didn't turn Miss McCann into an avid gardener "but it taught me a lot and I was able to make my garden interesting. I just don't like working in the yard every day," she said.

Miss McCann achieved a master's degree in music and administration and taught music in schools and at the American Conservatory for several years before becoming a principal.

"Being a principal is a job I like. I cannot imagine doing anything else or not being in this school," she said. "Dist. 54, one of the largest in the state, has been able to keep a good working relationship between the board of education, administrators and principals in spite of its huge size," said Miss McCann.

"BUT COOPERATION seems to be an attitude of the community too," said Miss McCann. "Of course I think my teaching staff and clerks here at the school are responsible for what one parent described as 'a nice feeling school,' but without the parents' support this would not be possible," she added.

"Maybe things will get a little noisier around here in September, but the first day of school won't be bedlam," promised Miss McCann.

"But you know, a little noise wouldn't be too bad right now. This is an empty place without my students."

MSD Defers Filing Suit Over Site Near Harper

Metropolitan Sanitary District officials have deferred filing a condemnation suit over a site adjacent to Harper College.

The MSD board of trustees asked for the delay until a report on the proposed development of the site, ownership of the property, and the size of the site is sent to the board.

The property, near Quinten and Algonquin roads, is the proposed location for a 23-acre lake that will be part of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Plan.

The over-all plan calls for a series of six lakes including a 600-acre lake in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

The site the MSD plans to condemn would be developed to drain the area north and west of Harper College.

THE BASIN to be constructed on the site will be 77 acres in size during peak flood periods.

The basin will have a permanent pool of 23 acres under normal weather conditions.

The MSD board has already enacted an ordinance allowing sanitary district attorneys to file an eminent domain suit to acquire the land.

But the board Thursday asked MSD employees to hold off on the actual filing of the suit until a report could be sent to the board giving details about the proposed basin and the property to be condemned.

MSD General Supt. Ben Sosowicz reported to the board of trustees Thursday that sanitary district attorneys have been unable to reach an agreement with the owners on purchasing the land.

SOSEWITZ TOLD the board that MSD Atty. Robert E. Wiss recommends the condemnation suit be filed because of title problems and an existing suit between several joint owners of the land.

The names of the actual owners of the property are hidden in a bank trust which holds legal title to the land.

Protest Dues Hike In State School Group

A 50 per cent increase in membership dues to the Illinois Association of School Boards has Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 Board of Education members concerned. The board approved payment of $1,200 for this year's dues Thursday but instructed the board secretary to send an accompanying letter to the IASB noting it was not happy with the increase.

Last year the district paid $840. Board Member Donnie Rudd said the IASB voted two years ago to allow the executive committee to set dues without going to the membership.

"I objected then in behalf of District 54 and let's do so again," urged Rudd. He added that the fee may be justified but insisted the IASB should know that Dist. 54 is concerned enough to complain about the big raise.

BOARD MEMBERS also approved paying $450 to the Ed-Red program, a cooperative legislative report program serving Districts 211, 15 and 54. An Ed-Red representative in Springfield keeps the districts informed of all pertinent legislative actions.

Complete cost of the service to all three districts is $1,800 with districts 15 and 211 paying the rest of the cost.

Member Gordon Thoren suggested the board take a serious look at the services the IASB provides next year when membership is due for renewal.

"Could it be that a lot of the things we expect from the IASB are things we are getting from Ed-Red?" asked Thoren.

Permanent Area X-Ray Facility Sought

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce together with the village health department is working toward the establishment of a permanent chest X-ray facility in Arlington Heights.

Efforts to locate an X-ray facility there come in the wake of a May announcement by the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanatorium District that all mobile X-ray vans would be pulled off the streets Sept. 2.

The mobile X-ray unit is regularly parked in front of the Ben Franklin store, 9 W. Campbell St., on the first and third Tuesday of the month between 12 noon and 8 p.m.

If the village board concurs, the X-ray van would be installed in the Municipal Building parking lot and be open to the public at least one day a week.

Chamber of commerce executive director Earl Johnson said the installation, if approved, would be of tremendous benefit to area restaurant operators because law requires that all professional food handlers receive a chest X-ray twice a year.

WITHOUT AN X-ray installation here, area residents would have to travel to 1999 Dempster St. in Park Ridge for a chest X-ray after the mobile units are discontinued next month.

Besides the inconvenience, Johnson said the trip to Park Ridge would mean a significant loss of man-hours to employers who would have to send their employees to the Dempster Street location.

If the village board approves the idea, the Arlington Heights X-ray office would be available to Northwest suburban residents in October.

Johnson said the unit would likely serve residents from as far north as Barrington and as far west as Schaumburg.

According to the field director of the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanatorium District, Dr. Edward A. Diszczek, the mobile units are being phased out because of a recently issued federal report which criticized radiation levels in and around mobile X-ray units.

DR. DISZCZEK has said that while he does not think that the federal report, prepared by the American College of Radiology and the National Tuberculosis Association, totally applies to mobile units in suburban Cook County, the roving units will be phased out.

Dr. Diszczek said yesterday that besides persons who may be afflicted with a chronic cough or cold, the X-ray installation would serve hundreds of people employed as barbers, food handlers, hospital and nursing home employees and other licensed professionals who are required to get a chest X-ray.

"The population area around Arlington Heights is growing intensely and the chest X-ray is still a good case finding technique," he said.

Last year there were 223 reported cases of tuberculosis in suburban Cook County out of a population of 2.2 million.

In addition to detecting tuberculosis, chest X-rays are useful in detecting other diseases or chest abnormalities such as cancer, emphysema and enlarged heart, Dr. Diszczek said.

Ogilvie Will Sign Paramedic Bill In Arlington Heights

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will come to Arlington Heights Aug. 13 to sign into law a bill allowing several Northwest suburbs to offer medical treatment to victims at the scene of an emergency.

The mobile emergency care unit, the first of its kind in Illinois, is expected to begin operating in September.

Based at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, the unit will serve residents of Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Hoffman Estates, Inverness, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and possibly Wheeling.

Firemen and ambulance attendants from these communities have undergone extensive training at the hospital under the direction of Dr. Stanley Zydlo, and equipment is being ordered to provide on-the-scene medical treatment.

The bill Ogilvie plans to sign removes liability from the paramedics and doctors participating in the program. Instructions to the trained firemen would be given by doctors over a two-way radio.

EXPECTED TO be present at the bill signing Aug. 13 are Dr. Zydlo; Mrs. Janet Schwettman of Inverness, who was instrumental in setting up the mobile unit; and local village officials and firemen.

Sponsor of the bill in the Illinois Senate was Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, Rep. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, and Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, steered it through the House.

Ogilvie will be in the Northwest suburbs next weekend to attend a 12th Congressional District Republican Seminar meeting in Des Plaines.

Schools Losing Millions: Cullerton

Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton filed suit yesterday charging that county school districts have been cheated out of more than $38 million in state aid in the past two years.

The suit accuses Gov. Richard D. Ogilvie and local Government Affairs Director Robert Lenhausen of "intentional fraudulent and illegal computation of the state multiplier used in Cook County assessments."

State aid distribution is set by a formula based in part on a school district's wealth or assessed valuation of property. In order to compensate for discrepancies in county assessment practices, the formula includes an equalizer. The equalizer multiplied by the county assessments sets an equalized assessed valuation which is used in state aid computations.

The equalizer, set by the state department of local government affairs, puts assessed valuation of property in Cook County at 50 per cent market value as compared to 43 per cent maximum in other counties of the state, according to Cullerton representatives.

AN INCREASE IN the equalizer increases the equalized assessed valuation and consequently lowers state aid. An increase also hikes tax revenue because the total tax collection is determined by multiplying a tax rate times the equal assessed valuation.

Cook County's high equalizer therefore produces a twofold penalty, charged Cullerton: a loss in state aid and an increase in the homeowners' tax burden.

Cullerton's suit was announced at a hearing yesterday held by Lenhausen's state department to investigate county assessment practices. Cullerton refused to appear at the hearing. However, his legal counsel, Assistant State's Atty. James Rooney, read a letter saying the assessor will not produce subpoenaed county assessment records. The letter also challenged the department's legal right to demand the records.

Parties Debate Cullerton's Charge

A News Analysis

Cook County Assessor P. J. Cullerton's charge that local school districts have been cheated out of state funds has stirred debate on both political and educational levels.

The controversy centers on the method used to determine a school district's wealth, or assessed valuation, which is in turn used to compute state aid.

On the one hand, Cullerton, a Democrat, has charged Cook County gets less aid because of a discrepancy in a state aid formula factor which is designed to equalize county assessment of property values.

Republicans, on the other hand, have said the real issue is not the level of the equalizer, but the actual assessment. If an assessment is low to begin with, a higher equalizer may not have a detrimental effect. According to Wheeling Township Assessor Marshall Theroux, a Republican, local districts are not penalized in state aid distribution.

Local school business managers are standing on the sidelines trying to stay clear of the political overtones, and yet at the same time determine which position produces the most school district income.

THE DEMOCRATS' argument claims Cook County is suffering a loss of state aid and a higher local tax burden because its equalizer is the highest in the state. Cullerton has filed suit against Republicans Gov. Richard Ogilvie and Robert Lenhausen, director of the department of local government affairs, which sets the equalizing rates.

Republicans contend the higher equalizer is necessary because Cook County assessments fall below those of other Illinois counties. Once the equalizer is multiplied by an assessed valuation for formula computations, Cook County comes out ahead, according to Theroux.

While Cook County's equalizer is designed to put property at 50 per cent market value, the actual equalized assessed valuation is closer to 34 per cent of market value, says Theroux. Other counties with a lower equalizer, he added, have an equalized assessed valuation totaling about 50 per cent of market value.

Theroux's figures are disputed by Dennis Dunne of Cullerton's staff, who claims "Theroux doesn't know what he is talking about. Our assessment of homes may be lower than others in the state, but industry pays a double rate."

As the Democrats point to the equalizer and the Republicans point to the as-essment, the real issue evolves as the product of the two, or the equalized assessed valuation.

AS FOR THE school business managers, they would like to see school finance taken out of the political arena. As with the recent state aid formula debate in the legislature, they feel the merits of the school proposals are sometimes overshadowed by political interests.

Furthermore, business managers can see advantages in both parties' positions. A reduction in the equalizer will mean more state aid, but it may also mean less tax revenue.

Consequently, if Cullerton wins his suit, local school budgets may not necessarily go up.

School officials say they are going to take a wait-and-see stance until they can determine which way the dollars fall.

Area School Districts Wary Of Cook County Break

Area school districts are not jumping on the bandwagon in support of Schaumburg Township Dist. 54's proposal that the Northwest suburbs break away from the control of the Cook County Superintendent of Schools.

Most of the superintendents of area districts last week indicated their boards had not yet taken a position on the issue, but said they felt they needed more information on the proposal.

Last month, the Dist. 54 board passed a resolution asking for legislation allowing groups of local school districts to form their own educational service region. County Supt. Richard Martwick is now head of the Educational Service Region serving all of Cook County.

EDUCATIONAL SERVICE regions are responsible for teacher certification, life safety inspection and high school degree equivalency examinations. In addition, they serve as a clearing house for paperwork destined for the state superintendent's office.

Under the Dist. 54 proposal, areas with at least 50,000 students could hold a referendum to form their own service region and then elect a superintendent.

Dist. 54 officials have indicated they feel a suburban educational service region could provide better services for the tax dollars expended. They have also said they feel the Northwest area would be large enough to run the office economically.

Supt. Ken Gill of Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 said, "There might be some merit in the idea, but knowing the political situation in Illinois, I think it's just a shot in the dark. I happen to know how much political power the county superintendents have in this state."

Supt. James Ervitt of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and Supt. Donald Strong of Arlington Heights Dist. 25 both said they needed more information on the issue. Ervitt said his board had discussed the proposal but had not taken any official position. "I personally need more information," he said. "I suppose it's a rather tricky political question."

SUPT. FRANK WHITELEY of Palatine Township Dist. 15 said he expected the issue to come up at a committee meeting last night.

The boards of High School Dist. 214 and 211 both discussed the proposal briefly, but took no position. Dist. 214 Supt. Edward Gilbert said he did not know what position the board will eventually take and added, "My reaction is that this approach is certainly deserving of study."

Supt. Edward Grodzky of Prospect Heights Dist. 23 said his board had not discussed the issue. He said, "I personally don't want to get involved with this because I have to work with this region. The situation in Dist. 54 is a lot different than in a district with 1,700."

Year-Round School Is Making The Grade

Ed. Note: The concept of the year-around school is one that is being increasingly debated — and tried — in education. In this area, High School Dist. 214 has given it the most serious look, but currently has its study shelved. A recent Herald article outlined the experiment under way in Atlanta. Today, another example.

by TOM TIEDE

DALE CITY, Va. — A little boy named Billy stopped at a frog pond here the other early morning. To reflect on the process of being a little boy named Billy. He stirred his foot at water's edge, chuckled a stone at a partially submerged log — and then, with a heart obviously heavy, he rubbed his hands on his trousers, picked up a looseleaf notebook, and trudged on down the rural road.

"I gotta go to school," he said.

School? No wonder the kid was sulking. Here it is the middle of summer, when the catfish are jumping, when the slingshot wood is ripe, when the sun warms the fluid of every lad in the land, and this boy named Billy has "gotta go to school."

And so do a lot of other children in this quiet farm and suburban region of Prince William County, Va. For the second summer running, some 4,300 youngsters, ages 6 to 14, are participating in an unusual and controversial experiment in year-round education. They have forsaken the traditional "nine months in — three months out" school schedule and substituted something called the 45/15 program. As the boy Billy puts it, grumpily: "We go to school 45 days, then stay home for 15. Then we go to school for 45 again. All year-round. We don't ever get no real big vacation."

IF TRADITION is the criterion, Billy has a right to grump. American school children demanded three months' summer vacation since the days when an agrarian society demanded its children be home for the growing season. Only now and then have people wondered about the tradition, and about the wisdom of closing down expensive school structures three months a year: 30 years ago a small town outside Pittsburgh changed to the year-round system; more recently a suburban district of Chicago has opted for the change. Yet, in general, tradition holds. More than 99 per cent of the nation's 89,370 schools and 46 million pupils cling to the old ways.

And Dale City probably would have hung on to the past also, had not necessarily mandated otherwise. A couple of years ago, says Dr. Ernest Mueller, assistant superintendent of Prince William County school, "We found ourselves between the rock and the hard place. Our county had emerged as the fastest-growing county of its size in the nation. It almost wrecked our school program. In 1960 we had 3,543 pupils, in 1970 we had 32,581 — a 920 per cent growth rate. We just couldn't keep up. We built schools as fast as we could — our present construction budget is more than $50 million — but we are still critically short of classrooms. We had only two alternatives: split shifts, which nobody wanted, or the year-round school program.

AS IT HAPPENED, early in the local debate, not many people wanted the year-round school either. Area educators stressed the experimental aspects of the plan and that only four of the county schools (three elementary, one secondary) would be tested. Still, well. "People are set in their ways," says Dr. Mueller. "They saw the 12-month school interfering with their way of life — summer vacation, etc." So, irate parents organized. Political wind-millers were quick to offer opposition. And at one depressing point the entire matter was thrown into a local court.

The measure was eventually approved. And now, after more than a year of the experiment, in this one tiny section of the country (Dale City is not an incorporated place, it is a development neighborhood), the opposition has disintegrated. "People have come to love it," says Dr. Mueller. In a recent community meeting, only one of 47 speakers condemned the idea ("She said she didn't like her kids home so often"), and one to her, Mrs. Ginger Hay, admitted "I wish we hadn't made the ruckus before. My children are happy with the new system. And I think it has worked fine."

If many of the doubters here have been won over, it's because the new 12-month system has functioned, interestingly and surprisingly, almost without hiccups. Dean Kilby, principal of Miles Godwin secondary school, says "I don't think we've had any real problems." Teacher complaints have been skirted by an option whereby they may (1) transfer to an old-style school, (2) retain a 193-day work year even in the experimental schools, or (3) shift to a 231- or 241-day year and receive a pay increase. Student complaints, for the most part, have been avoided by not altering or abbreviating any student body activities; athletes, for example, who are on 15-day vacation during their sport season simply attend all after-school practice anyway. And parental complaints have been softened by school guarantees that all students in a family will be assigned the same 45/15 schedule and thus vacation at the same time.

BUT THE REAL success of Dale City's experiment are not the problems avoided, so much as they are the benefits derived. Full utilization of buildings, says Principal Kilby, "saves about 7 per cent on operation costs." Full utilization of teachers, says Dr. Mueller, "keeps the per-pupil cost at what it was before and negates the need for crowded classrooms." Also, says almost everyone involved, student interest is higher: "We have found that many kids on their 15-day vacations want to come to school anyway. It's hard to believe, but it's true. Last year the Godwin School did not have one single retainer (failure), not one, in a body of 1,500 kids."

Indeed, the Dale City experiment seems to be making the grade. Even if there are some moans. Like the little boy named Billy. Trudging down the road. Notebook dragging as low as his chin. He doesn't know anything about building utilization, or per-pupil costs, or any of that junk. All he knows is that here the tadpoles have legs already, and the apples are getting green, and still he's gotta go to school.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, fresh from a shower after a relaxing tennis match, took time Sunday to discount charges by his reelection opponent, Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, Chicago Democrat, that he was involved in an effort to dump Vice President Spiro T. Agnew from the Republican ticket.

"I am constantly amazed and amused," said the senator, "that a man who seemingly has so little influence in the selection of candidates for his own party can be so expert in the selection of candidates in the opposition party."

Percy emphasized his support of President Nixon and the President's prerogative in selecting his vice presidential nominee.

"I have at no time engaged in a dump-Agnew movement," he declared. "And I

Following the picnic and brief remarks to the assembled party faithful, Percy enjoyed a welcome respite from the campaign with a tennis workout with three local experts.

Playing with high school athletic standout Barry Magee of Mount Prospect, Percy displayed considerable tennis prowess in a match against Rob Zimmack of Arlington Heights and Al Valiquet of Des Plaines, who were enlisted for the senator's recreation period by Ann Workman, assistant general manager of the River Trails Tennis Center.

RENA TREVOR of Rolling Meadows has been named chairman of the presidential election effort of Sen. George McGovern in the six Cook County townships making up the 12th Congressional District.

Mrs. Trever was area coordinator for the 1970 campaign of U.S. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III.

Floyd Fulle Calls Office 'Archaic'

Vote On Coroner's Office Sought

by ROGER CAPETTINI

The voters of Cook County may have the opportunity to decide, in November, whether the office of the county coroner should be abolished.

The possibility of the voters choosing between the elective coroner system and the appointive medical examiner system arose yesterday when County Comr. Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines suggested the question be included on the ballot for the Nov. 7 general election.

Fulle made the proposal in the form of a resolution at a meeting of the county board.

The Des Plaines commissioner, who said he first spoke in favor of the medical examiner system during Con-Con sessions in 1970, called the coroner system "archaic."

The resolution was referred to the board's finance committee and is expected to be called for a vote the next time the board meets, Aug. 16.

If the resolution eventually is adopted by the board, voters will be asked to choose between the coroner system and the medical examiner system, headed by a licensed forensic pathologist. The chief medical examiner would be appointed and governed by a commission composed of the chiefs of the pathology departments of the major medical schools in the county.

The effective date of the changeover, as proposed in the Fulle resolution, is Dec. 6, 1976.

FULLE OFFERED the resolution after two speakers from the audience urged the board to put the question on the ballot.

Mary Powers, a spokesman for Citizens' Alert, criticized the current coroner, Dr. Andrew J. Toman, while speaking in favor of the medical examiner system.

Mrs. Powers, of Winnetka, said Toman has not carried out any of the reforms he promised to make Feb. 1. She said Toman "asked for and received the names of more than 30 lawyers willing to volunteer as special deputy coroners in sensitive cases. To date, Dr. Toman has never asked any of these attorneys to serve."

She also said Toman, who was given permission to summon jurors from the list of citizens eligible for court duty, "has yet to summon his first juror. The same patronage 'employees' still serve on all coroner's juries."

Mrs. Powers charged, "Coroner Toman never intended to fulfill his public promises for across-the-board reform."

Loop attorney Donald G. Mulack also spoke in favor of placing the referendum on the ballot, charging that the practices of the coroner's office in recent years "presents a crying need for reform."

Mulack, 30, is the Republican candidate for the coroner's post in the November election. Curiously, he is running for a job he seeks to abolish.

Mulack cited several inequities in recent years which he said were mishandled by Toman's office as need for reform of the office. He said the implementation of the medical examiner system would remove investigations into the cause of death from political control, create greater respect for law enforcement, reduce the expenditure of tax dollars and, "bring Cook County in line with other major metropolitan areas of this country."

"THERE IS no reason that Cook County, which now has one of the best medical complexes in the world, should be saddled with such a political and wasteful coroner's system," Mulack said.

Hersey Majorettes Win First Place

The Hersey High School majorettes won first place in a recent training camp competition at Lake Forest College.

The Hersey Majorettes competed against 141 other girls from teams throughout the Midwest. In September, the girls will present the "Golden Baton" award to the school.

The majorettes will perform at this season's football games, displaying the routine that won them first place, twirling fire batons.

Court Aides Seek Bribes: Sklodowski

Court aides solicit bribes from lawyers practicing in Northwest suburban courts — or at least they have in the past — a candidate for clerk of the Cook County Circuit Court has charged.

Robert L. Sklodowski, Republican candidate for the clerk post, said yesterday his charges of bribes to speed up service in crowded courtrooms throughout the county circuit court system do include second and third municipal district residents.

Sklodowski, a Park Ridge attorney, said he knows from his own knowledge that such bribes of "$2 and up" have been taken by clerks in the Northwest suburban area.

He was quick to add that he does not have specific names of court aides involved, and said that transfers of aides have made it impossible to pinpoint which courtrooms in the suburban area are currently the scenes of such activity.

"The aides have been moved around since I was slated. The practice has become more undercover since I made my charges, but it still goes on," Sklodowski said.

Representatives of current clerk Matthew J. Danaher, who is seeking reelection, have criticized Sklodowski for not revealing his charges before he became a candidate for the clerk's post.

Danaher's office has already dismissed several persons for soliciting gratuities and has an internal investigations unit which polices such activities, the spokesman for Danaher said.

SKLODOWSKI'S ACCUSATIONS resulted from a lawsuit filed by a former deputy clerk last month.

The suit says the deputy clerk lost money from gratuities after he was fired in 1967.

In addition to suburban courtrooms, Sklodowski said court aides have accepted bribes to place cases on the court dockets sooner in both the traffic courtrooms and the criminal courtrooms in Chicago.

Sklodowski has promised to create a "surveillance team" to stop such activities if he is elected to the clerk post.

Area Police Projects' Funding Considered

Federal funding for projects and equipment for four Northwest suburban police departments will be considered by the Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission today.

A refresher course in the Spanish language for 10 Elk Grove Village policemen is one of the items before the commission for funding.

Also to be considered are equipment for the "Operation Identification" program for deterring burglaries in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

An application for funds to help pay for police communications equipment for the Hoffman Estates Police Department is also up for consideration.

THE COMMISSION is responsible for the review and approval of requests for federal funds under the 1970 Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act.

Final approval for the federal funding must also be processed through the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.

Elk Grove Police Chief Harry Jenkins explained that criminal justice commission approval makes ILEC approval "pretty much assured."

Elk Grove police are seeking $1,200 in federal funds to supplement local funding for a $3,300 Spanish language refresher course. Jenkins explained that 10 village policemen originally learned Spanish under a federally funded program in 1970. The policemen use the language in dealing with the 700 Spanish-speaking residents who live in the Elk Grove area and with an additional 800 families who come to the area for the summer to work on farms.

Jenkins said the refresher course is designed to keep the 10 policemen versed in the Spanish language.

HE SAID Elk Grove police use Spanish in court, in working with other police departments and in hospitals.

Elk Grove Village is also part of a joint project with Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights for a $2,200 grant for the "Operation Identification" program.

The program includes purchasing special equipment to mark articles belonging to community residents with their drivers' license numbers. The permanent marking makes it difficult for burglars to dispose of the articles if they are stolen. As a result, it deters burglaries of houses and businesses.

Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W.

Calderwood said marking tools will be purchased at the rate of one for each 1,000 residents of the three communities, a total of 141 etching pens. Jaycees in the three villages will provide the manpower to get the marking program under way. The equipment will then be available to residents at local libraries, he said.

The local communities will match federal funds with local funds to initiate the $4,356 "Operation Identification" project.

An application for federal funding for the communications console installed in the Hoffman Estates Police Department last year is also on the commission's agenda for today's meeting.

BUT HOFFMAN ESTATES Police Chief John O'Connell says the village does not expect federal funds for the equipment because it has already been purchased.

A moratorium on funding for communications equipment held up the processing of the application, O'Connell said.

He said he was doubtful that the village could be reimbursed for part of the cost of the communications equipment with federal funds.

A spokesman for the commission said yesterday that the Hoffman Estates application along with applications from 10 other suburban communities will be discussed by the commission before any final decision is made.

The commission meeting will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the Crystal Room of the Sherman House in Chicago.

Tax Assessment Hearings Continue Today

Hearings on classifying real estate in Cook County for tax assessment purposes will continue today in Chicago.

Scheduled to testify in today's session of the hearings, sponsored by county assessor P. J. Cullerton, are representatives of apartment building owners, schools, hotels and motels, and businesses.

The continuing hearings are being held to help Cullerton decide whether property developed with differing uses such as apartments, single-family homes, commercial or industrial development should be assessed at different percentages of true market value.

The new Illinois Constitution allows such classification of property for assessment and local tax purposes.

Representatives of the Apartment Council of Metropolitan Chicago and the Small Apartment Owners Committee will testify first in the morning session of the hearings, beginning at 10 a.m. in the county board chambers of the county building.

Lowell B. Fisher, representing the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools also will be present at the morning session.

The afternoon session, beginning at 1:30 p.m., will include testimony from representatives of the Greater Chicago Hotel and Motel Association, the Lincoln-Belmont-Ashland Business Association and the Chicago Residential Hotel Association.

Hanrahan Defense Motion Is Denied

by PAMELA REEVES

A judge Monday refused to dismiss charges that Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 codefendants conspired to alter and conceal evidence about a police weapons raid in which two Black Panther party leaders died.

Defense attorneys asked Cook County Circuit Court Judge Philip Romiti to dismiss the charges after a special week-long hearing on recently uncovered statements that seemed to contradict testimony by survivors of the Dec. 4, 1969, raid denying that Panthers fired on police.

Romiti said that although "some important and disturbing matters heretofore unknown" had been introduced "this motion to acquit is prematurely made."

Romiti then ordered the bench trial of Hanrahan, one of his assistants and 12 Chicago policemen to resume. The trial was suspended for hearings on the validity of the statements.

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS moved for acquittal on the grounds that the statements, taken 2½ years ago from three survivors of the raid, showed the defendants had been indicted on the basis of perjured testimony.

According to defense attorneys, one survivor admits in the statements to firing two shots at police and two other Panthers testified to seeing another party member fire at least one shot at the raiders.

Panthers testifying before grand juries denied that shots were fired on the raiders. One grand jury reported it found evidence of only one shot fired by the Panthers and more than 80 rounds fired by police.

Special Prosecutor Barnabas Sears, who discovered the statements and brought them into court last month, two weeks after the Hanrahan trial began, Friday refused defense requests that he join in the motion for acquittal.

"I DON'T KNOW that those statements are true," he said. If the case reaches a point where "we entertain a reasonable doubt," Sears said, "I will be the first to make a motion for acquittal."

Panther leaders Fred Hampton and Mark Clark were killed in the raid and four of seven other occupants of the apartment were wounded.

The trial resumed with cross examination of Deborah Johnson, 21, who was asleep beside Hampton when the raid began. In her direct testimony Miss Johnson said she did not see any Panther resistance to police.

Mosquito Problem Due To Rainfall

by BARRY SIGALE

The Northwest suburbs are in the midst of their worst mosquito problem in memory and prospects for relief in the next few months are unpredictable.

Because the area has had above average rainfall this summer, it has been increasingly difficult to effectively control the mosquito problem.

The area with the largest concentration of mosquitoes has been the western portion of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District's (NMAD) 245-square-mile radius, including Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Barrington.

According to Wilbur Mitchell, director of NMAD, the increased rainfall has created the worst mosquito problem he has seen since he became director of the district in 1956.

"I'VE BEEN in the mosquito control business for over 20 years," Mitchell said. "And I thought 1968 was bad. But this has got it topped. We've had several major rainfalls of five and six inches, and we've had deluges, plus (rain) in between. And we still have August and September to go."

Predicting whether the remainder of the summer will be as severe a problem as the first half is almost impossible.

"There are a lot of variables involved in determining what the problem will be like," Mitchell said. There's air and water temperatures, there's sunlight and, of course, rainfall.

According to data from the U.S. Weather Bureau in Chicago, May and June of this year showed slight decreases in the normal amount of precipitation, but July proved to be above normal. There were 4.25 inches of rain in July, .86 above the average, which is based on statistics covering several years. The 4.25 was the official area reading. Many portions of the suburbs had considerably more.

And, according to the forecast room of the bureau, the extended 30-day forecast for the month of August shows similarities with July. There is a good chance of above normal rainfall.

Mitchell says the mosquito district is "doing what we can, the best we can," in dealing with the problem. He said his crews, which normally are in the field five days a week, were utilized six days a week during one stretch.

ACCORDING TO Mitchell's statistics, the mosquito district is 95 per cent effective in its prevention program, but during the major rainfalls in June and July, the program was only 90 and 75 per cent effective respectively.

Prevention consists largely of spreading mineral oil on waters where mosquitoes breed and reproduce. Spraying to kill adult mosquitoes represents only a small portion of the NMAD's work.

Even that is too much to some critics, such as Dr. William Beecher of the Chicago Academy of Sciences.

Beecher, who spent 30 months in the South Pacific studying insects, said he is against killing mosquitoes and would rather see a form of dope used on them to render them ineffective against man.

"I don't think mosquitoes should be killed for convenience. Then you're risking your own environment. I'm willing to put up with them, rather than using poison sprays. Maybe we could use dope or less harmful sprays. The time has come to ask, 'Should we do this?'"

The common mosquito found in the Northwest suburbs is of the genus culex. Larvae laid by the female mosquito takes about a week to develop to adults and then reaches the adult stage. Mosquito prevention results from killing the larvae before they hatch. The use of mineral oil clogs up the long breathing tubes of baby mosquitoes, thus robbing them of their ability to breathe.

Mosquitoes live for an average of from 10 days to 2 weeks. When mosquitoes are adults it is the female that causes the problems, biting man as well as animals. According to Beecher, it is animals not man that the mosquito would rather attack. The male mosquito does not bite, but feeds on plant juices.

YOU CAN'T convince Mitchell, however, that mosquitoes would rather attack animals than human beings.

Mitchell tells several stories about unexpected and unwanted skirmishes he and his men have had in routing out mosquito breeding grounds and the pesky mosquitoes themselves.

Mitchell told about the time he was working in a field around Barrington when a large group of mosquitoes came out of nowhere and attacked him.

"You have to move and move fast when they come at you," Mitchell related. "I had my sprayer (hand sprayer) and I was spraying and running at the same time. And that's hard with hip boots on. You've heard of walking on water? Well this was running on water."

To prove a point on how tough it is to wage the battle against mosquitoes in the field, Mitchell said that most of the time, when attacked by mosquitoes, his men "just suffer. Sometimes they buy a can of 6-12."

Mitchell also tells about a field worker who was hand spraying the area that makes up the Wilke-Kirchoff retention basin in Arlington Heights.

"All of a sudden these mosquitoes came out of a clump of grass. He said he could hear them coming. He could hear them. He said he had never heard them before. Needless to say, he swatted and retreated."

His Job: Eliminate Pesky Mosquitos

The burden of protecting suburbanites from pesky mosquitoes falls almost solely on the shoulders of Wilbur Mitchell and the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District (NMAD).

With little help from the communities it services, NMAD provides prevention measures and mosquito control in a 245 square area from Elgin on the southwest, Northfield on the northeast, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove on the north and Elk Grove Village on the south.

The district works with a $430,000 budget and utilizes 40 vehicles to battle mosquitoes in 2,000 scattered locations.

Working on the premise that mosquitoes are a "detriment to human mankind" and "I hate to see people chewed up," Mitchell joined the district as director when it was formed in 1956, after working in the Freeport Mosquito Abatement District from 1949 to 1956. Today, he lives in Mount Prospect and earns an annual salary of $14,400 a year.

The district's yearly program begins in March and lasts through October. Townships are broken into specific working areas with major breeding locations getting special attention. During a five-day cycle, crews do larval inspections and try to eliminate breeding areas. Then the five-day cycle begins again.

THE BASIC activity of the field crews is to prevent a mosquito problem before it starts, according to Mitchell. He said areas that are holding water, especially after a rainfall, will be dried out. If there is evidence of larvae already there, field crews equipped with hand sprayers will kill them.

It is only after the adult mosquito is hatched that the mosquito district does any major spraying. This accounts for less than five per cent of the district's job, according to Mitchell.

The mosquito district is not aided too much by the various communities it services. Most communities try to eliminate standing water and clean up sewers and their outlets after a heavy rainfall, but most of the time they simply refer complaints and problems to the mosquito district.

Even the Cook County Forest Preserve District has a hands-off policy when it comes to the elimination of mosquitoes. And in the forest preserve's case, the mosquito district is not allowed to spray.

"When the forest preserve district was formed it was determined to leave it (the property and animal life within it) as mother nature intended it to be," according to David McGinty of the forest preserve district.

"WE HAVE NO controls of any kind at all. This has been a very, very bad year for mosquitoes but we intend to keep the land in its natural state. We can't have a sterile situation with mowed grass, for example," McGinty said.

McGinty said there hasn't been a drop-off in the use of forest preserve land this summer despite the mosquito problems, but he said people who use the sites are going there later in the morning and leaving at night when the problem is less severe.

While the mosquito outbreak this summer has been the worst in at least 20 years, area hospitals report few cases of severe mosquito bites.

Hospital spokesmen urge for treatment, Caladryl, a combination of calamine lotion and benzadryl, or the application of ice and baking soda paste. They say that if a bad case arises, call a doctor or go directly to the emergency room.

Air Is Cleaner; Water Pollution Bad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's air may be getting a little cleaner, but water pollution is probably as bad as ever, the government's annual report on the state of the environment said Monday.

President Nixon, in a preface to the Council on Environmental Quality's 450-page report, praised the progress it recorded but said "there should be a sober realization that we have not done so well as we might, that changes in laws and values come slowly, and that reordering our priorities is difficult and complicated."

Nixon added he was "pleased that the data . . . indicate that the quality of the air in many of our cities is improving. Across the nation, emissions from automobiles — a significant portion of total emissions — are declining."

"WE CAN EXPECT," he added, "these welcome trends to accelerate as the new standards and compliance scheduled called for by the Clean Air Act of 1970 become fully effective."

The report itself, largely a review of a 111 environmentally related developments during the past year, said:

"Available measurements show the quality of air in our cities improved between 1969 and 1970. This tells us that with sustained efforts such as some urban areas have already made and the strong federal law now covering the entire nation, real progress can be made in combating air pollution."

At another point it added: "It appears that we are winning the battle against air pollution."

On water, however, the report said "the data on water pollution . . . are less encouraging. Among other things they indicate that land runoff from farms and even urban land, as opposed to discharges from cities and factories, has a much greater impact on water pollution than we realized."

"IN ALL TYPES OF river basins, the concentration of nutrients which can eutrophy age and kill our lakes, is increasing."

It called for a greater effort to end the runoff from land of nutrients, fertilizers, pesticides, organic materials and the soil particles that often carry them.

"If we fail to do so," the report said, "our expenditures for water quality will not achieve maximum improvement."

The report quoted previous government efforts that the capital and operating costs of meeting the current environmental standards during the present decade will be $287.1 billion; but it said the industries spending those funds will do so with no substantial impairment to their viability.

State's Strip Mine Law Is Cited

Illinois' new law requiring an analysis of the potential environmental effects of strip mining before it occurs and requiring bonds to guarantee the cost of strip mine reclamation was cited today by the President's Council on Environmental Quality as an example of the "mounting commitment" of many state governments "to preserve and enhance the environment."

The council said that in the past year many states continued the "gradual process of experimentation, testing, and building" to protect the environment. The report noted that states invested more money and manpower in environmental programs, especially for air and water pollution control, and enacted legislation to deal with other environmental problems.

The CEQ report said the U.S. will have to spend an estimated $287 billion in public and private funds during the 1971-1980 period to meet current and proposed environmental standards. Of this total, $108 billion would be to meet air quality standards, $87 billion to meet water quality goals, $86 billion for collecting and disposing of solid wastes, and $8 billion for other programs.

IN A COMPILATION of recent actions by state governments, the report also listed Illinois' comprehensive new water pollution control regulations, the state's proposed permit program for new sewer connections, designed to forestall overloading of treatment facilities, and the state's proposed regulations to require a minimum five-cent deposit on soft drink and beer containers.

CEQ also cited the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Chicago for innovations in advanced water pollution abatement techniques, which it calls "probably the most comprehensive" in the nation.

The report added, however, that mention of a particular example is not intended as an endorsement. Moreover, said CEQ, "gaps still remain" in environmental programs in some states. "Cumbersome and duplicative laws, deficiencies in staffing — both in numbers and qualifications — and, in some cases, the hesitancy of some local enforcement officials to enforce their laws uniformly throughout their jurisdictions are weaknesses that need attention and strengthening."

Commenting on CEQ's estimate of environmental cleanup costs, Russell E. Train, chairman of the three-member council, said that "$287 billion is obviously a great deal of money." However, Train added, "I think it is terribly important to keep this in perspective. Our estimate is relatively small when compared to the Gross National Product and other measurements of total economic activity. The $287 billion represents just 2.2 per cent of estimated GNP for the ten-year period we're talking about. The price tag for pollution control does not pose any threat to the economic health of the nation."

"Furthermore," said Train, "we must also consider the cost of not cleaning up and protecting our environment — in terms of the effects of pollution on human health and property, and in terms of ecological damage to the basic life support systems which sustain us. The costs and risks of not cleaning up our environment are infinitely greater than the price of cleanup. There's no question about that in my mind, even though we are unable to put a dollar sign on the penalty we will pay if we fail to accomplish our environmental protection goals."

A study conducted for CEQ, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the Commerce Department indicated that some 200-300 plants out of 12,000 in industries studied will have to shut down because of pollution abatement requirements. Most of those 200-300 plants are in economic jeopardy for other reasons, says CEQ, and environmental factors will only accelerate their closing.

The Doctor Says:

Quart Of Milk A Day Won't Cause Arthritis

by LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have read that milk intake should be limited by adults because the calcium will accumulate in the system and form deposits in the joints causing arthritis, and that it will cause kidney stones. I have also read that adults require more milk because as a person grows older the bones tend to dissolve, causing them to become brittle and the joints to become arthritic because of the bone deterioration.

I am 46 years old and in excellent health. I have no trouble digesting milk and have no family background of arthritis. I drink a quart of milk a day and split a quart of buttermilk with a friend at lunch, and I have about a pint of low-fat milk which is split between breakfast and dinner. Milk is a good protein food and I enjoy drinking it, but I'm somewhat concerned about the apparent contradiction in the first sentences of my letter. From a medical point of view, considering all the factors, is a quart of milk a day too much for an adult?

Dear Reader — You have heard a lot of misinformation. That's fairly typical of what is going on with the food fads these days. I'll add to your list by saying that I have heard one popular, self-pointed expert say that nonfat milk was bad for you because you couldn't absorb Vitamin A because you needed the milk fat to absorb it. That is a lot of malarky because there is plenty of fat in all of the other foods that everybody eats.

There is no evidence whatever that drinking milk will cause calcium to deposit in the joints and cause arthritis. There are some people with basic medical problems who do tend to form kidney stones and they may require special diets; however, this doesn't apply to the vast majority of normal healthy people. If you are worried about kidney stones, just drink a little more water.

It is true that adults need approximately a quart of milk a day. This is particularly true for women since they are more susceptible to degeneration of the bone. The common buffalo hump of the spine seen in middle-aged women is caused by degeneration or decalcification of the spine. It is about five times as common in women who don't get enough calcium in their diet. I am an enthusiastic supporter of the idea that every adult should get the equivalent of one quart of milk a day in their diet. It doesn't matter whether the calcium is from fortified skim milk, buttermilk, or nonfat dry milk powder used in cooking. Uncreamed cottage cheese is also a good calcium source.

Milk is a good protein food but whole milk also contains a lot of fat and a lot of it is saturated fat. Milk fat does not contribute to the health in any way. You can still get all of the natural goodness of milk by using fortified skim milk, or if it is not available the next best thing is fortified 1 per cent fat milk and beyond that the next best thing is 2 per cent fat milk. If there is not enough calcium in the diet, one should take calcium tablets or capsules as is often done by pregnant women. Calcium deficiency is a frequent finding because weight-conscious people unwisely restrict their milk intake. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

He simply won the diamond lead and proceeded to rattle off his eight tricks in the black suits to chalk up the no-trump game.

The bidding was more scientific at the other table. North used Stayman and raised South to four spades after South bid two spades in response to the Stayman two clubs.

Four spades is a mighty good contract. It can only be beaten by a 4-1 or 5-0 break in trumps but suits break that way about 32 per cent of the time and this was one of those times. There was no way for South to make more than nine tricks at spades and the net profit of 700 points was worth 12 IMPs to the victorious mixed team. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Doctors Need Help To Deal With Death

When a doctor loses a patient because of death, the doctor, according to a Philadelphia psychiatrist, feels like he has lost the Super Bowl.

"Physicians have a hard time dealing with death," explained Dr. John Fryer, director of training at Eagleview Hospital in Philadelphia, "because they are charged with keeping people alive and they're not equipped to help them die."

"A physician should be honest about what's going on with his patient. If the patient is dying he must get accurate information first and the physician must realize he's lost the ball game and is now about to lose the Super Bowl. The patient, in turn, must be made aware of the fact that the physician is going to feel a sense of loss — a sense of failure."

"Often," Dr. Fryer continued, "the patient will feel the sense of loss his doctor has and he'll feel like he's done the doctor in. For instance the doctor may not come to see the patient and the patient will feel like he's failed the doctor — like he's done him a bad turn and he's no longer worth being documented as a person."

What happens then? According to Dr. Fryer the physician and the patient get involved in a game — they avoid what's happening. "In order to stop a game the dying patient must be honest with his physician or his family or his friends. He must talk honestly about what's happening to him even though it's not easy to do. If the patient acknowledges the fact that he's dying he will relive his life in his thoughts, fantasies and dreams. He will dig deeply and see all the things that have meaning for him."

"We carry with us a tremendous load of mental baggage and we don't have the techniques to get rid of that baggage. The death event may be a way of getting rid of or altering that baggage," Dr. Fryer continued. "Take the wife who did something at age 19 about which she feels guilty and has never told her husband. The situation now begins to pale in meaning and she may decide it's not important anymore or she may decide to talk about it and square away that event."

"A death event can define life from now on. The study of death is another way of helping us grow and achieve mental health and wholeness. Life has a beginning and a middle and of course an end — death. Death is part of life."

Dr. Fryer thinks that one of the things that happens when we find a person is dying is that we begin to treat him as a non-person. "We deal with all the other people around him and don't treat him as anything more than an object. People need help in dealing with the last few years of their lives constructively and well. The dying person also needs to help other people. He must avoid the feeling of helplessness and he must realize he still has choices. It's important to be able to make choices for your own existence and you need to feel like you have some control over your life yet."

"I know of a young man who had a serious illness and went home to die. He went to a hospital where he liked the nurses and doctors so much he wanted to be there when he died. One day the nurse came in and was giving him his bath. He asked her to call the doctor, which she did. The young man thanked them all very much — told them he was dying and he died."

"That doesn't always happen," Dr. Fryer added, "and we don't always have that much control but I think the medical profession in a kind of mysterious way has wanted to avoid looking at that."

"The physician must be helped to know what's going on with the dying person. The patient must help him know about his death so the physician can better understand and treat other people."

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Ray Blanton is disturbed by reports that the government plans to spend more than $100,000 in research on "why children fall off their tricycles."

"No doubt some bureaucrat buried in the anonymity of the millions of civil servants scattered about Washington will seek the stardom of Ralph Nader," the Tennessee Democrat wrote in his weekly newsletter.

"He will call for seat belts to be installed on all tricycles, and then we will have a massive recall of all the three-wheeled vehicles throughout America."

Surely, Blanton added, "there must be a better way to spend the taxpayers' hard-earned monies."

I'm not familiar with Blanton's voting record on appropriations bills and thus do not know what type of expenditure he considers meritorious.

I MUST SAY, however, that he certainly does not speak for all of us taxpayers when he puts down tricycle research.

For if the government can solve the age-old mystery of why children fall off tricycles, the project will make an invaluable contribution to man's understanding of basic human behavior.

ly his father's foot. I'm talking about a kid pedaling smoothly along with clear sailing ahead and then all of a sudden — Zop! Just like that, for no apparent reason, he falls off the blooming thing.

I've seen it happen I guess at least a hundred times.

"What did you do that for?" you ask, picking him up. "How come you fell off?"

"I dunno," the kid says. "Somebody must have pushed me."

Only there wasn't anybody within half a block of him when he hit the deck.

I can't explain the phenomenon but I am convinced there is more to it than simply a matter of being accident-prone. Some of the children I've seen plummet from tricycles were extraordinarily dexterous.

I also believe the tendency to fall off tricycles continues to manifest itself in other ways after one has outgrown that mode of locomotion.

Which may explain what happened to Senator Muskie.

Indeed, tricycle tumbling may very well hold the key to many governmental actions — including some by Blanton — that presently seem inexplicable.

Let us bear in mind that until Newton came along nobody saw the significance of falling apples either.

Dreamy Thoughts Of Love

Barbara A. Smith

Wendy Gaston

Yvonne LaMarre

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Smith of 405 Oriole Ln., Mount Prospect, announce their daughter Barbara's engagement to Christopher Manuele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Manuele of 620 Fairview Ave., Mount Prospect.

Barbara is a graduate of Prospect High School and received a B.S. in nursing from Northern Illinois University. She is employed by Lutheran General Hospital.

Her fiancé is also a graduate of Prospect High School and presently a student at Northern Illinois.

The couple will be married in summer, 1973.

Wendy Gaston's engagement to Wayne Honea was recently announced by Wendy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gaston of 906 Tower Dr. in Mount Prospect. Wayne is the son of M. L. Honea of Magnolia, Miss.

Employed by Japan Freight Consolidators at O'Hare Airport, Wendy is a 1969 graduate of Forest View High School.

Wayne is overseas aboard the U.S. Navy's USS Point Defiance.

The wedding will take place this fall when Wayne returns from overseas duty.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest LaMarre of Arlington Heights have announced the engagement of their daughter, Yvonne, to Terry Ray Bochany, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bochany of Detroit.

Yvonne is a supervisor of United Air Lines stewardesses at O'Hare Airport. She graduated from the University of Portland after spending her junior year at school in Madrid, Spain.

Her fiancé is employed by Xerox Corp. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

The couple will be married Sept. 9 at Holy Name Cathedral in Chicago.

Double Duty

Cutting down on the time for your beauty ritual requires some extra planning. If you must sit under a hair dryer, then give yourself a manicure while you're waiting. If you blow-dry your hair, it's the perfect time for doing those white bends or toe-touches. (Besides trimming the waistline, brushing your hair while you bend forward will help the circulation in your scalp.)

Thomas Stachelski Weds The Girl He Met At Work

While both were working for the Jewel Co. and attending college, Cynthia LaPalermo of Chicago and Thomas Alexander Stachelski, whose family lives in Hoffman Estates, met and fell in love. Cynthia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaPalermo, was a student at Northeastern Illinois University at the time, and Thomas, son of Col. and Mrs. A. C. Stachelski Jr. (ret.), 129 N. Washington Blvd., Hoffman Estates, attended Loyola.

On July 9 the couple were married in Queen of All Saints Basilica in Chicago. At home now at 6808 N. Wolcott, Chicago, Cynthia and Thomas still are working for Jewel, and Thomas, having completed his undergraduate work, is enrolled in graduate school at Loyola.

CYNTHIA'S SISTER, Maria LaPalermo of Chicago, was her maid of honor for the 4 p.m. double ring service. Her other attendants were her cousins Helen Panos of Glenview and Nancy LaPalermo of Chicago along with Susan Ferrone of Oak Park and Nikki Boehm and Barbara Solomon, both of Chicago, friends of the bride.

Terrance Busby of Carpentersville was best man. Groomsmen included the bridegroom's three brothers, David, Andy and Gary Stachelski, all of Hoffman Estates; Michael Bilas of Washington, D.C.; Michael O'Halloran of Schaumburg; Thomas Ryan of Chicago; and William Ewald of Des Plaines.

The reception was a dinner affair at the Fontana D'or in Chicago.

Diet Problem? Join TOPS

by MONICA WILCH

When your mouth begins to water at the sight of a chocolate layer cake and you decide it's hopeless to continue trying to lose weight — think again! Members of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) prove daily that dramatic weight loss is possible.

TOPS, which has local chapters in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg, and Wheeling, uses both psychological and financial weapons to help its members lose weight. Strictly enforced rules require attendance at all meetings, and the keeping of menu records and calorie counts. Diets are established by each member's doctor.

A ritual weighing-in precedes each meeting, after which members' weight problems are discussed and fines for failure to adhere to one's diet are collected. Penalties may hit a dieter's pocketbook for 25 to 50 cents, while the disapproval of fellow members shames her into improving her performance the next week.

MEMBERS PAY yearly national dues in addition to chapter dues, which are used for prizes and bonuses rewarding special weight losses. Members must consult a physician before entering any national competition.

The key to success in TOPS is total commitment. Those who can't tolerate the regimen drop out, but the club achieves success in 25 per cent of the cases.

Since obesity tends to be a recurring problem, TOPS has a follow-up program called KOPS — Keep Off Pounds Sensibly. Members who reach their weight loss goals graduate into KOPS in order to maintain their reduced weights.

To further aid members in dieting, TOPS clubs often invite experts in such fields as psychology and nutrition to discuss the problem of over-eating and ways to combat it. Members can learn new, low calorie recipes to liven up their diets, or come to a better understanding of the emotional hang-ups that may be causing their weight gains.

WHAT KIND of success can TOPS dieters look forward to? One member, Mrs. Beverly Landinger of Palatine, recently won the club's international division competition, having lost 199 pounds in a year. Mrs. Landinger's diet of 500 calories per day consisted of liver, chicken breasts, fruits and certain vegetables.

You may have to give up the chocolate layer cake to lose weight — but chances are you'll still be allowed to enjoy foods other than soda crackers and water!

Newlyweds Sweethearts Five Years

A five-year romance that began while they were students at Arlington High School culminated in marriage July 16 for Susan O'Dor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. O'Dor, 636 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights, and John Langhout, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. John Langhout, Manitowoc, Wis.

The candlelight double ring ceremony took place at five o'clock in the afternoon in First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights.

Susan and John first met at Arlington High from where they were both graduated in 1968. Susan continued her education at Arizona State University while John enrolled at Buena Vista College in Iowa. He transferred to Arizona State his sophomore year and both graduated from there, Susan with a degree in commercial art and John in elementary education.

THE NEWLYWEDS are living in Manitowoc until John begins teaching at Menomonee Falls, Wis.

The bride chose a gown of ivory English net appliqued with ivory Alencon lace for her wedding day. The dress had a duchess neckline, an Empire waist and capulet sleeves. With it Susan wore a floor-length mantilla of ivory Alencon lace held by a Juliet headpiece.

Around her neck was the 150-year-old watch given her as a graduation present by her grandmother, who had received the watch at her confirmation. She carried a bouquet of daisies, roses and baby's breath.

Susan's married sister, Mrs. Leslie Shepard of Aurora, Ill., was the matron of honor. Her gown was of chartreuse and white voile with which she wore a white straw picture hat trimmed in chartreuse. She carried a nosegay of yellow and white daisies.

THE THREE bridesmaids, Mary Ruth Anderson of Chicago, Mary Tierney of Arlington Heights and Kathy Silva of Tempe, Ariz., Susan's roommate, were gowned in green and white dresses like that of the matron of honor. They wore white picture hats and carried nosegays of white daisies.

Mr. and Mrs. John Langhout

Bill Langhout, the groom's 14-year-old brother, served as acolyte. Another brother, Michael, was best man.

Rob Johnson, John's college roommate from Tempe; Ken Koeneman of Arlington Heights and Mark Olson, a fraternity brother from Wilmette, seated the guests.

There was a reception for the 130 guests at Nordic Hills Country Club in Itasca.

TRAVEL LORE

by Clare Wright, TRAVEL EDITOR

Do you know the best time to plan for your next vacation trip?

The minute you come home from your last one!

We had a phone call the other day from a lady in Wheeling who had just arrived back from a delightful two weeks of touring the British Isles.

"Now we're all agog about taking a trip next spring. My husband is retiring in January, and we want to take another PERFECT vacation!"

WHEN SHE ASKED for suggestions, I told her about the "Reference Guide for Travelers," available at most libraries.

This handy bibliography includes travel guides, special guides, travel books and related volumes arranged by country. You'll also find addresses of government tourist offices listed — and a listing of foreign phrase books. There's a fine index which allows you to look up information by city.

Browsing through this may give you an idea about where you want to go. Of course you have to think about time, money and the kind of person you are.

If you're an experienced traveler, you may want to think about some of the more exotic places in the world. Be a farflung adventurer and do some dreaming about Africa or Asia or Australia.

Your first trip abroad? Maybe you should make it Europe. You'll probably feel more comfortable there your first time out of the continental U.S.

Whichever section of the world you decide on, be sure to find out what kind of weather there will be at the time you're thinking of traveling.

WRITE TO the government tourist offices of countries you're considering. (Many of these have branch offices in Chicago.) They'll send you all kinds of brochures and booklets with information on climate, hotels, sightseeing and transportation.

Check out travel books from the library — especially the pictorial ones — to get more information on foreign locations.

It's extremely helpful to start a travel notebook as you're gathering information. We find these looseleaf binders with handy pockets are great. As you're reading through the travel books, make a note of places that interest you — or particular things you'd like to do.

Now that you've done all your homework the next step is to see a travel agent. (We recommend any of these advertising in our travel section because we know most of them personally.)

Tell your travel agent the kind of trip you're thinking about and the research you've been doing. Be sure to take your notebook along with you!

Don't be surprised if the agent asks you a lot of questions. He does that to get to know you better — your tastes, your likes and dislikes, your background and your experience as a traveler. That way he can tailor a trip just for YOU!

Chances are after the first talk with the travel agent he'll bundle up a whole bunch of travel brochures and promotional packages and suggest you go home and do some more reading. By this time you will probably have narrowed down your choice of places so that you've pretty much decided on your hoped-for destination.

It's always surprising to me that some folks forget how valuable a travel agent can be in helping them plan their vacations.

A good agent can save you time and money and double the pleasure of your trip. And, because he receives his remuneration from the airlines, hotels and resorts, there's no charge to you whatsoever.

After your travel agent has set up your itinerary and started the ball rolling on making your arrangements, there are still a few things you can do on your own to add to the enjoyment of your upcoming trip.

FOR EXAMPLE, why not decide to master a bit of the language of the country (or countries) you're planning to visit? Study courses are put out in about 50 languages, and many of them are available on tapes and records which you can check out of your public library.

A friend of ours who is going to Mexico in a few weeks has been studying Spanish from a tape as he drives around in his car.

If you're planning some shopping sprees on your trip, do a little research on the good buys of each country. Also, list the ring, bracelet, glove and belt sizes of relatives and friends.

We've found in our family that planning a vacation trip is almost as much fun as going. One thing for sure — the trip that's planned carefully ahead of time is bound to give you the most pleasure.

Guide Lines

QUESTION — We are hoping to vacation in the Virgin Islands in December and are wondering what the weather is like then.

Mrs. T. R., Mount Prospect

ANSWER — The year-around average low is 69 to 72 degrees and the average high is 84 to 89 degrees. The Virgin Islands tourist office tells us that if the mean temperature goes below 70 degrees or above 88 degrees on any day you're there you don't have to pay for your room that day.

QUESTION — How many pairs of shoes will I need for a three-week tour of Europe?

Mrs. P. W., Des Plaines

ANSWER — You can get along with just two. Wear one, pack one. It's a good idea to have them both the same color. Walking shoes should have rubber soles to cushion your feet on sidewalks and cobblestones. It's a good idea to choose your dress shoes for comfort too.

QUESTION — Do you know where we could get a book on bus travel in Europe?

R. W., Arlington Heights

ANSWER — I think you'll appreciate the information in "Europe by Euroribus" which is free by writing Euroribus, 630 Fifth Ave., New York. It includes timetables and costs for over 70,000 miles of bus travel in Europe.

STATUE OF CHRIST on Corcovado, overlooking Rio de Janeiro, Brazil with its beautiful sand beach, Praia do Botafogo, and Sugar Loaf Mountain in the background.

This is one of the high points of Olson's 35-day luxury tour to four exotic corners of the world.

Cruise To Four Corners Of World

by MARJ ABRAMS

Throw away your idea that a trip to exotic and remote corners of the world is only for seasoned travelers. Start thinking about a 36-day, 25,000-mile, custom-designed house party.

That's really what the newest Luxury Air Cruise offered by the Olson Travel Organization is all about.

This tour, a four continent variation of Olson's Round the World Luxury Air Cruises which have been offered for the past seven years, will cover what the tour operator tabs "the four exotic corners of the world:" America, South America, Africa and the Near East.

And, also like their 'round-the-world air cruise tours, it's first class all the way.

This tour gives the travelers their own private Pan Am 707-jet, called "The President's Special," and their own crew which remain with them throughout the trip. The plane is all first-class, and only 84 passengers are accepted in a plane which seats 180. All flying is done during daylight hours, thus assuring convenient arrivals and departures.

Food aloft is prepared by Maxim's de Paris, and, on the ground, meals may be selected from a la carte menus at the finest eating places and private clubs in the country. Only luxury and deluxe hotels are used throughout the trip — not too easy to find in some of the remote areas visited.

THREE OLSON TOUR conductors will be along, so sightseeing is done in small groups of 25.

Departure date is Jan. 23, 1973, from Miami, and, during 36 days, leisurely visits are made in Venezuela, Argentina, Brazil, South Africa, Zambia, Rhodesia, Kenya, Tanzania, Ethiopia, Iran and Turkey. Cost is $7,195, a tab which pretty much restricts the tour to people who love to travel and can afford the fabulous.

Just about everything one looks for on a vacation can be found somewhere on this trip: shopping in the famous Bazaars in Istanbul, seeing the world-famous ruins at Persepolis and Ephesus, a "fly-in" safari in Tanzania where thousands of animals graze on the floor of Ngorongoro Crater, swimming and sunning on Rio's famous Ipanema Beach.

Quite a few gala parties with celebrities are planned, among which are a private, authentic Gaucho fiesta and cook-out in Buenos Aires, a visit to the swank Jockey Club in Rio de Janeiro and a luncheon at Bill Holden's Mount Kenya Safari Club on the slopes of Mount Kenya for ritualistic Kenyan tribal dances.

Hotels which will be used include the new Sheraton-Buenos Aires, Hotel Rio Nacional on Ipanema Beach in Rio de Janeiro, Nairobi Hilton, Hotel Shah Abbas in Isfahan, Iran, Istanbul Hilton, and Buyuk Efes, in Izmir, Turkey.

At every stop, Olson has planned sightseeing expeditions, geared to present the most exciting and noteworthy highlights.

Further information may be obtained from your travel agent or from the Olson Travel Organization, 1 N. LaSalle St., Chicago 60602.

Kay Leck Named Manager

Kay Toscano Leck has been named manager of Around the World Travel Inc., 100 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine.

She assumed her new position recently after nearly 11 years' association with Wayne Griffin Travel, Inc., Arlington Heights.

Announcement of her appointment was made by Robert A. Howey, vice president and general manager of the firm which also owns the Valley Travel agencies in Elgin.

"Our new manager's main function will be to make certain our clients receive the best possible personalized service and travel arrangements best suited to their individual travel needs," said Howey. "We are delighted to have Mrs. Leck join our staff. We are fortunate to have the benefit of her experience and skill in the travel service field."

MRS. LECK joined Wayne Griffin Travel as a travel counselor in 1961 and advanced to sales manager in 1966 before her appointment as agency manager in 1969.

To familiarize herself with places and accommodations where she sends clients, Mrs. Leck travels widely and makes an average of three major trips each year. In addition to North America, her travels have taken her to Europe, Iceland, Tahiti, and the Caribbean area as well as Hawaii.

Hawaii is her "specialty," and Mrs. Leck has made more than 16 visits to the Islands, including three as director of escorted tour groups.

She has been responsible for arranging Hawaiian trips for more than 200 area travelers, and in recognition of her "achievement in furthering knowledge of the Pacific island peoples and their cultures," she was presented the Explorer of the Pacific Award by the Bernice P. Bishop Museum in Honolulu.

As manager of Around the World Travel Inc., Mrs. Leck will head a staff of 12 travel specialists. Organized in 1971, the firm is a fully-appointed agency specializing in all forms of travel — individual itineraries, package tours, group travel and commercial accounts.

A Special Kind Of Service

"I've never been here when a child has died, but I've left one day and come back another and the child's been gone. It's something you live with."

The work that Art Clausen does is not a pleasant type of job. It is just not the type of job you'd expect a 17-year-old boy to be doing.

The "job" is working part-time for the Marklund Home for the Retarded in Bloomingdale in northern DuPage County. It is a home for children who are hopelessly retarded.

Put another way, most of the children Art Clausen works and plays with will never walk, never utter an intelligible word and will die before they are out of infancy.

If a child's retardation is more moderate than that of most of the rest of the patients, he may progress to another institution. The odds are about even on such a move occurring, however.

No, the work which Art Clausen of Hoffman Estates does is not your typical teenage part-time job. He's worked there for a year, and despite some initial reluctance, he came back after his first day on the job.

"The first day I was here, I really didn't like it. That night I called to say I wouldn't be back and nobody answered the phone. So I came back and the second day was different. There was a little girl named Susie who started to respond to me and after that I had a reason to come back."

The director of Marklund — Steve Haverkamp — is amazed by the boy's dedication:

"I had to fight to give him money. This kid is completely selfless. I've never seen one like him."

Art could, of course, have taken the easy way out. Jobs for teenagers may be scarce, but there's always something less demanding that can be done to raise some cash to pay for college, a new car, or just to provide some spending money.

But Art is like a number of teen-agers who today work for little money and long hours in homes for the mentally retarded, in institutions and in hospitals. It is often tragic work.

Yet, this kind of work is compelling, too, in that it offers a quiet, built-in satisfaction of helping persons in trouble — whether the trouble is mental illness, old age or physical disease.

Some kids find it easy to give of themselves to aid others. Some are at the other end of the spectrum, where self-interest and a lack of concern for others produces boredom and, quite often, vandalism and crime.

It is a simplistic but accurate understatement that we need many more persons such as Art Clausen, not only in the Northwest suburbs but everywhere.

It's Waterlogged

When a Minnesotan says he's going fishing on Long Lake, you might have trouble finding him. According to the Midland Cooperator, there are 156 different Long Lakes, and some of them aren't even long.

Minnesota also has 122 Rice Lakes, 83 Bass Lakes, 72 Twin Lakes, 70 Round Lakes and 91 whose names are Mud.

Name duplication is inevitable, of course, in a state which has over 15,000 bodies of water more than 10 acres in size. On the other hand, when a Minnesotan tells you he's going to Mawskiquawacunda Lake, you know he doesn't mean lakes Bashitanaqneba, Sisabagamah or Winnibigoshish, b'gosh.

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Fire Dept. 'Protects All'

Upon reading a letter to the editor titled, "Question For Fire Chief" and signed "Name Withheld by Request," I am inclined to respond even though I am not the fire chief of Elk Grove Village, or the village manager or a member of the board of trustees. The writer questioned the authority of the fire chief to send fire department personnel and to expend money to cover damaged factories with plastic (during) and after our most recent storm.

Taxpayers have the hope that someone will help when disaster strikes in any form. The people in the industrial park are taxpayers just as are the rest of us. They have a right to expect protection if any of us has that right. Certainly the burden and expense of ambulance-rescue and fire protection is not a small responsibility for our village government to carry. These functions cannot be carried on adequately by individuals and that is why the government must take on the responsibility.

Much time and energy was expended to save records, plans equipment and

He's Found 'Dilemma'

I recently read in the "Fence Post" that Mrs. Noah F. Glass had trouble finding a copy of Phil Crane's book, "Democrats Dilemma." I have read this book. It is everything that Mrs. Glass has said it is.

No Municipal Tax For Schaumburg

While not in agreement with what to me is a rather simplistic and somewhat petulant response by Nancy Cowger concerning Schaumburg's embroilment with Northwest Mosquito Abatement District and mosquitoes, this letter was not prompted by that disagreement. I take issue with the "irony" she found in Schaumburg residents "paying a village tax to pay the lawyer who is fighting NMAD." The FACTS are Schaumburg levies NO municipal tax, one of the few communities in the country with that distinction.

When someone is in a position where misinformation can be given wide credence, it is imperative that facts be verified as facts before scattered to the four winds. And that, Nancy Cowger, is responsible reporting in action.

Laud Brown's Column

Since returning from a camping trip out west, I've thought about writing to the Fence Post about that great Suburban American preoccupation, the plush-like, weed-free, clover-free precisely-bordered LAWN. I had intended to relate my feelings about the "easy, results-guaranteed" way of maintaining the yard and garden, with that ever present spray can and "only a thsp. to a gal. of water" formula.

Clayton W. Brown, however, expressed those feelings for me in his article, "Chemical Curbs Needed." This piece, along with Ms. Lurey's letter on mosquito abatement, is worthy of contemplation, not because each decries the use of chemicals, but rather that they both recognize the necessity of individual action. Each protest counts. Being dubbed foolish, naive or even crazy for refusing to go along with the crowd is harmless to one's physical and mental health. Can the same thing be said for that one thsp. of magic formula multiplied millions of times? Is one truly being a good neighbor and an asset to the community with that picture-perfect yard? Should this type of environment even be termed "natural?" Reevaluation of one's practices may be only considerate.

Dorothy Meyer's Column

The EIGHTH Driving Try

Every time I admit that I don't drive, people are as shocked as if I'd just announced that Wally and I have been living in sin for the past 28 years. The most common reaction somehow relates sex to driving — "How could you have three kids and not know how to drive?" — and the most reasonable but least heard is, "I don't blame you, there's enough idiots on the roads as is."

As far as I'm concerned, the worst part of being a non-driver is not being able to cash a check without showing a driver's license for identification.

So I'm learning to drive.

For the eighth time. The first time, I used a small inheritance to finance lessons from a driving school. Fortunately it was a very small inheritance because the instructor ran out of nerve about the same time I ran out of money and I never saw a guy so glad to see somebody go broke. His parting shot was, "You'll do fine, Mrs. Meyer, all you need is a little more confidence." Which I could have believed except his voice was shaking like Don Knotts'.

This time it's up to Wally and he says he doesn't have a doubt in the world that I'll make it. But he always takes a shower and puts on fresh underwear before we go out so that he'll be nice and clean when we get to the emergency room after the accident.

It would help, too, if the neighbors would quit tearing out of the house to grab their children and hide behind a tree whenever I start backing out of the driveway. Or screaming, "Get off the sidewalk, here comes Dorothy."

I don't like backing out of driveways either. My old driving instructor used to say not to worry about it as long as I didn't back into the living room across the street and I wish he'd kept his mouth shut. It was like a mother telling her child not to stuff beans up his nose. But the Winklemans were real nice about it, said they'd planned to put in a bigger picture window anyway.

Like all beginning drivers I tend to be over-cautious. During my current first time out I tried to hide in a ditch because there was a truck coming my way. And I kept braking for stop signs too soon and I'd end up at a standstill in the middle of the block. Once I stopped for a mailbox.

The mathematics of driving is confusing, too. While I was remembering that it takes 266 feet to stop when you're going 60 miles an hour and you should stay one car length behind the car in front of you for every ten miles of speed, I got so engrossed in my arithmetic that I forgot to steer and drove through a vacant lot. Wally said, "Oh my goodness, aren't we lucky it was vacant," or words to that effect.

When we finally got home he said, "You can relax now we're home you did fine but next time let's go more than eight miles an hour — for gossakes let go of the steering wheel."

About a half hour later — after he was able to pry my fingers loose from the wheel so I could hold a cigarette — we reflected that it wasn't such a bad first lesson after all. At least I hadn't hurt anything.

Like Wally said — how much damage can you do to a vacant lot at eight miles an hour?

An Ode To Mount Prospect

The Village in the West,
Out from the Windy City Where friendliness is a way of life.

People are busy doing their thing
But never too busy to say hello,
And lend a helping hand,
To the neighbor friend next door.

Village Officials are always near, when you have a problem, great or small,
The friendly policeman and Quick thinking fireman,
Are just a phone call away.

Mount Prospect, the Village
Out West, with highways, parks,
And lovely homes, schools and Churches, and the mighty Randhurst
Shopping Center, makes you a Noble place to live.

The Village is a safe place,
For both young and old alike,
No need to worry about your Child, if he is late for dinner,
He is not far away.

The new construction now in progress, houses large and small,
Are being built, especially, to meet the need of each and every family.

With all of this right here at home,
Who could dream of living away.

'Simplify Tax Forms'

I thoroughly agree with your viewpoint in a recent editorial titled "Is 1040 necessary?"

There is absolutely no reasonable answer why the government can't simplify the tax returns so the average taxpayer does not have to pay from $15 to $40 to get his tax report figured or disfigured.

Keep up the campaign for a simple tax form.

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Patent Development Co. recently brought out a new spray compound designed to treat tooth decay and remove plaque from the teeth.

Before that happens, the company will have to carry out prolonged clinical experimentation before the Food and Drug Administration rules on the worth of the compound and decides whether it can be marketed. The announcement, however, underlines the growth of interest in preventive dentistry and the business it generates.

In spite of all the claims of the toothpaste makers it has been 30 years since dentists claimed seriously that brushing the teeth could prevent decay. Brushing is good for the gums, eliminates some food particles, and makes your mouth feel better. Fluoride in toothpastes helps prevent cavities, but fluoride can be added to drinking water with the same effect.

MANY DENTISTS believe tooth decay could be largely prevented if people were sufficiently interested and if a way to finance the training in preventive were found. The preventive methods already in use include removing plaque by daily use of dental floss, following a low sugar diet, and regular gum massage.

Others disagree and want to put the main reliance on fluoridation. They claim the preventive training is too expensive — $350 or more for the course.

That can be cheap compared with the cost of repairing decayed teeth, fillings, inlays, root canal work, bridges and plates. Nevertheless, it seems like a lot of money to spend on teenagers and while people are in their teens is when successful prevention must be begun.

The problem in financing is to measure realistically the value of preventive training so it can be included in dental insurance or other prepaid health care packages. At present, most dental insurance policies pay only for services that can be measured accurately in value, such as extractions, fillings, treating diseased gums, bridge and plate work.

TWO LARGE insurance companies, Aetna Life & Casualty of Hartford, Conn., and Continental Casualty of Chicago, are preparing health insurance policies that will provide coverage for preventive dental training for major industrial clients. And the American Dental Association is trying to get preventive dental coverage included in the proposed national health insurance plan. The ADA also wants the federal government to encourage more fluoridation of municipal water supplies.

A number of dental management consultants firms, companies originally formed to help the dentist with the business management of his practice, recently put together training programs for the dentist to use in advising his patients on preventive tooth decay. These programs are said to vary greatly in professional value and the dentists who buy them pay substantial sums for them.

Some dentists praise the programs and say that patients who take the courses and follow them conscientiously get good results.

Ford Seeks Increase For 'Average' Models

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. said it has asked the federal Price Commission for permission to raise prices on "average equipped" 1973 model vehicles by $10 to help cover the cost of making selected optional equipment standard.

The increase, added on to an earlier request, would result in an average price hike of $102 for Ford's 1973 model cars.

Banks Lead Industry In Minority Hiring

Banking leads all American industry in hiring of members of minority groups, according to a Treasury Department official.

David A. Sawyer, director of the Treasury Department's Equal Opportunity Program, said that department studies showed that bank hiring of blacks rose 147 per cent during 1966-1970.

Addressing the American Bankers Association's second annual Governmental Affairs Conference, Sawyer said that bank employment of Spanish-Americans also rose 90 per cent during the same period, while hiring of American Indians increased 64 per cent and Orientals 63 per cent.

The study covered approximately 2,400 banks employing a total of 630,000 people. It revealed that minority employment at the banks studied rose from 8 per cent in 1966 to 14 per cent in 1970, from 40,493 to 88,166.

"Treasury was delighted," said Sawyer, "that the largest gains made by any industry in the country in the hiring and utilization of minorities has been by the banking industry." And, he went on, "Early indications from the 1971 minority employment records of the banks studied show continued increases in minority employment."

Sawyer also posed five challenges for the banking industry. He asked the industry to:

- Make significant move to train and upgrade minority employees to management levels.
- Move forward affirmatively with programs of equal opportunity for women.
- Bring smaller banks into the mainstream of activities in racial relations and equal opportunities.
- Encourage all of its members to determine their involvement and responsibility in community and national social problems.
- Devise a communications program to get recognition for activities and programs in equal opportunity and urban involvement.

COILED FOR action — Snake-like loop of stainless steel braid is severed by Paul Rogers. The reptilian appearance is produced by wires woven to form the braid at the Flexon-

Universal Oil Designs Pollution Control Units

The world's largest known devices to mechanically remove fly ash particulate from oil-fired boiler flue gas coming from an electric power generating station boiler are being built by the Air Correction Division of Universal Oil Products Co. (UOP).

Designed for the Virginia Electric and Power Co.'s Yorktown, Virginia unit, under contract with Brown & Root, Inc., a Houston, Tex. engineer-constructor, the air correction centrifugal collector units are designed to collect fly ash particulate from a power generating boiler now under construction.

More than 11,000 tubular "cyclone" devices to separate the fly ash from flue gas will be built into the two, large collector units. Flue gas is forced through the specially designed cyclone tubes in a spiral flow which separates the particulate from the gas, allowing gravity collection of the particulate which otherwise would be discharged through a stack to atmosphere.

Also incorporated into the design of the pollution control unit for the power company is an ash collection system which reinjects the fly ash back into the boiler furnace where 90 per cent of it is expected to be recombusted.

UOP's Air Correction Division said the two centrifugal collector units will require 16,800 feet or over three miles of 6-5/8-inch tubing and about 14,000 feet or nearly three miles of 4-1/2-inch diameter steel tubing to form the cyclonic devices.

Litton Gets Contract For Facsimile

A new facsimile system developed by Litton Industries to reduce the cost of transmitting magazine and newspaper pages to distant printing plants has been ordered by the W. A. Krueger Co., Brookfield, Wis.

Krueger, which prints numerous major national publications, including "Business Week," "Dun's" and "Time-Life Books," will install Litton's first Datalog Pressfax 501 DRR units in its headquarters plant in Brookfield, Wis., and at its new $6 million satellite facility recently dedicated in Jonesboro, Ark.

The application of these Litton systems which use digital technology will permit Krueger to transmit facsimile at as little as one-fifth the cost of similar systems now available. Until now, publishers had to truck or fly reproduction material to satellite printing plants or transmit over expensive wide-band communication channels in order to produce copies of a quality suitable for use in the printing process.

Krueger will set type and compose pages in Brookfield for four medical journals and then use the Litton system to transmit quality reproductions from those pages to Jonesboro for printing.

A SECOND CIRCUIT is planned between Brookfield and another major printing plant in Phoenix, Ariz. Krueger also has facilities in New Berlin, Wis., Reading, Mass., and Watford, England.

The Litton system works by compressing words and pictures on a printed page into digital pulse groups, allowing high-speed transmission of full-page reproduction quality facsimile over low-cost, privately leased telephone lines, according to Edgar L. Moore, general manager of Litton's Datalog division.

Soviets Seek To Even Balance Of Trade

Russia To Display Wares In Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Vladimir Pavlov cited a Russian proverb to explain why the Soviet Union is so enthusiastic about participating in the Washington State International Trade Fair set for Aug. 11-20.

"It is better to see one time than hear 100 times," said the deputy chief of the U.S.S.R. Department of Exhibitions Abroad.

There also is an axiom from the world of international finance that applies in this case: "Hold the gold."

Pavlov, who will direct the Soviet Union exhibit at the Seattle fair known as Unimart '72, said the Russians want to utilize it as a worldwide showcase for their increasing inventory of exportable wares. It ranges from toys to the 300-ton Bogastry floating crane.

THEY ALSO WANT to sell a lot of goods to alleviate the imbalance of trade that is causing a hardship on the Soviet Union's foreign exchange position and threatening to force the Russians to give up some of their gold reserves.

"I think this fair is one of the steps by which we can normalize things," said Pavlov, "... so your businessmen can see our goods. And it also gives us an opportunity to make contacts with the other 13 countries participating. It is for these reasons my country accepted the invitation to Seattle."

But Pavlov made it clear that Uncle Sam is the potential customer at which the Russian pitch is being directed.

The fair comes about a month after the United States agreed to sell $750 million worth of food grains to help develop the Russian livestock industry. This deal will further aggravate a Soviet trade deficit that has been seen by some specialists as a barrier to expansion of trade between the two great powers.

In 1971, the United States exported $162 million worth of goods to the U.S.S.R. Russia, on the other hand, sent only $58 million worth to the United States. This 3-to-1 gap since the first of the year probably has widened to about 5 to 1.

THE RUSSIANS thus have become increasingly dependent on credit arrangements which eventually must be paid in foreign exchange. Consequently, Unimart '72 comes at a time when the Russians are anxiously seeking new trade outlets. It also will be the first step in this direction since President Nixon visited Moscow this year. And it will be the first time since its one-country show in New York in 1959 that Russia has put on a trade display in this country.

Pavlov explained that the fact the exhibit will be in Seattle had special significance. The Soviets are anxious to develop trade among countries of the Pacific Rim, particularly on the West Coast of the United States which has not been exposed to Soviet goods previously.

TRACOR To Develop New Arms System

Under a new, $2.3 million contract for the MASSTERS Program at Fort Hood, Tex., TRACOR, Inc., will develop a system utilizing small, specialized computers and lasers for weapons effectiveness evaluation.

Marcel E. Gres, group vice president of TRACOR's Applied Technology Group, said the development of the new system will be done over the next 11 months by TRACOR's Military Products Division, headed by Vice President L. T. Cheung.

Called "WESS," for "Weapon Engagement Scoring System," the system will enable the U.S. Army to study the effectiveness of various weapons and tactics as they are deployed in several types of warfare.

Three Games Thursday

Arlington Opens With Kankakee In State Legion

The countdown continues toward one of the area's biggest sports stories this year — the American Legion baseball state finals Thursday through Sunday at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights.

Skies were still gray to start the week, but everyone is hoping for a break from the weatherman — especially hard-working Ninth District baseball Chairman Gene Sackett, who for weeks has been organizing the mountain of details in connection with the tourney.

By Monday, the six-team lineup was complete except for the winner of the Cook County finals, either host Northbrook or Giles.

Of interest to local fans is Arlington Heights' first opponent, which will be Kankakee of the Fourth District. That will be featured opening-day game, starting at 4 p.m.

Starting times each day will be 9 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. except for Sunday when the first game will be at 12:30 and the championship contest following if necessary. The tourney, of course, will be double-elimination as usual.

Other pairings for first-round games

Thursday will be Northbrook or Giles vs. Barrington at 9:00 and Limestone vs. Belleville at 12:30.

If Arlington Heights wins its first game it will be idle Friday, playing again at 9:00 Saturday. If Heights loses it will play at 4:00 Friday.

Friday's complete schedule will be the losers of the first and second games (from Thursday) at 9:00, the winners of the first two games at 12:30 and the winner of game 4 vs. the loser of game 3 at 4:00.

There will be quite a pre-game show Sunday before the championship finals, including appearances of U.S. Representative Phillip Crane, Arlington Heights Village President John Woods, Wheeling President Ted Scanlon and possibly Legion National Commander John Geiger of Des Plaines. There will be performances by the Cavaliers Drill team and the Fourth Marine Air Wing Color Guard and a brief eulogy for C. O. Michaelson, Legion baseball chairman for many years who passed away this summer.

(Watch the Herald throughout the week for more details.)

Legion Regular Season Slighted

THE AMERICAN LEGION'S Ninth District and Cook County playoffs now are history and with the state tournament stirring local interest (it starts Thursday at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights), there probably are not too many people still thinking back to the league season and its format.

But I couldn't help wondering many times this summer — and still wondering — just what was the reason for each team playing 18 Ninth District games over about seven weeks for so little reward? I'm sure players and coaches wondered the same thing.

The whole season hinges, really, on which team survives to advance into the County tournament. This is the number one goal of the season; it is what the boys are playing for. I'm sure they would agree.

Somehow it does not seem right that this goal is completely detached from regular-season play. The post-season tournament is the sole factor determining who goes to the County.

This season's tourney winner, the Logan Square Lions, certainly deserved their berth in the County playoffs when you consider that they took a 36-12-2 record into the tourney (and still had a chance for first place in the league anyway pending the outcome of a makeup game against Park Ridge). So there is no gripe here about how things turned out this season. That is not the point of this piece.

The point is that somehow, more importance should be placed on all those games from early June to late July. The way it has been set up in the last three seasons, with only the tournament meaning anything, teams can fully afford to experiment and play very loosely through most of the season, not going all-out to win until tourney time.

This same thought has been expressed by coaches before, including Logan Square's Larry Nomellini last year when his team easily took first place in the regular season only to be edged out in the league tourney and be excluded from County competition — even with a 47-10-1 record.

Although the situation was reversed for the Lions this year, that gripe remains a justifiable one.

So the question is: What other solution would be better? There are several alternatives which I feel the Ninth District should seriously consider.

One of the most obvious is the format followed by every other district in the state except ours. That is to forget about a tournament and simply send the regular-season's first-place team to the County meet. (The Ninth District is the only one in Illinois which holds a post-season elimination tourney.)

I am not in favor of doing away with the tourney and from past conversations with coaches I am sure they aren't either. As it has been correctly pointed out many times, the tourney is a very good thing for the league in terms of heightening interest of both players and fans and providing a climax to the season.

An idea I do like is exempting the regular-season winner from the tourney, then having the first-place team and tourney winner play off in a best-of-three series for the County berth. This seems fair to all concerned and would keep the tourney and its interest while also attaching much more importance to the whole season. Still, though, it would reward only first place and not second or third.

This last system, by the way, as used once — in 1969, when Palatine finished first, then rested up a few days and defeated tourney winner Park Ridge to advance.

Or how about this suggestion: Divide the season into halves and pit the first- and second-half winners against each other in a best-of-five series for the County bid.

This would make the season worth playing and keep up the interest at the end. Drawbacks are that all but two teams would be excluded and also that there would be no playoff series at all if the same team won both halves.

I have one other idea. A point system could be used, assigning equal importance to regular-season and tournament finishes. It could be the same type of system used by the Mid-Suburban League for high school wrestling or golf, for example.

Another change I would like to see that would make the long season more meaningful throughout would be to include only the top four — or at most five — teams in the tournament. The whole league was entered this year. I cannot agree that the bottom teams which do not even have winning records have any business in an elimination tourney.

Double elimination is the fairest way to determine a deserving winner. This has always been the rule except for this year — when understandably it had to be abandoned at the last minute for single-elimination because of rainouts and too many teams being included.

At any rate, I for one would like to see a change. As it stands now the only reward as for the team winning the regular season are pride, a trophy and a favorable seed in the first round of the tourney. But if that team does not win the tourney these do not mean much.

It's a difficult dilemma, but I hope the powers that be in the Ninth District will give it some serious thought.

Bank & Trust Of Arlington Holds Lead In 'Y' Action

Bank and Trust of Arlington Heights holds a one-half point lead after the latest play in the second round of YMCA Twilight Golf League action.

The leader owns 13 points while Mount Prospect State Bank is second with 12½. Kre-Ken Patterns has 12 points.

Low gross honors were shared by three 39s with Ed Nixon and Mike Gotham on the par 35 layout and Len Franklin on the par 36.

Franklin had low net of 31 while Jack Kemp had 32 and Nixon, Bruce Campbell and Gotham 34s.

(8), Ray Nelson (18), Herb Jensen (13), Dan Kaczmarek (13).

Billiard's Finest Visit Chicago For Annual Open

"Wimpy," "The Deacon," "Machinegun," and the "Meatman" will be gathering at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel to uncase the tools of their trade on Aug. 15.

They are not actors from "The Untouchables" or cartoon characters, however. Luther "Wimpy" Lassiter, Irving "The Deacon" Crane, Lou "Machinegun" Butera, and Joe "Meatman" Balis are all top challengers in the Seventh Annual U.S. Open Pocket Billiards Championships which will be held at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel from Tuesday, Aug. 15, until Saturday, Aug. 19. These players are just part of the field of 32 men and 16 women cue artists who will be competing for national honors and $25,000 in prize money.

Steve "Schoolteacher" Mizerak, 27, of Woodbridge, New Jersey, will be back to defend his men's title for the third consecutive year. Defending women's champion Dorothy Wise, 57, of San Francisco, California, who has held her crown since 1967, when the Billiard Congress of America first sponsored a championship women's event, will be competing for her sixth straight title.

First prize in the men's division of the straight 14.1 continuous billiards competition is $5,000. The women's crown is worth $1,500 in prize money. The U.S.

Open is considered as billiard's most prestigious event. The men will play 150 point games in the double elimination tournament while the women's matches will be based on 75 points. Two losses in competition automatically eliminates a player from the tournament.

The BCA, which was incorporated in 1948, is the sole judge and exclusive governing body over players, rules and official tournaments. The organization assumed responsibility for the sponsoring of the World Pocket Billiards Championships, which date back to 1878. In 1968, the U.S. Open was adapted to allow any player in the U.S. to compete through organized tournament play.

Umpiring As Way Of Life; Tom Gorman Loves His Job

by MURRAY OLDERMAN
SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — The play was a lightning flash of action at first base, the runner, the ball and the fielder all arriving in the same split-second. And Tom Gorman, in the black suit of his trade, was right on top of it. He was so intent in fact that when the runner careened over the fielder, both tumbled into Tom and the three bodies tangled in the dust of the infield.

Gorman heard the crack and felt the stab of pain in his leg. Nausea engulfed him. He blacked out. Both managers — Leo Durocher of the Cubs, Danny Murtough of the Pirates — rushed out. The players got up O.K. and dusted themselves off. The Cub runner stood uncertainly.

Dimly, Tom Gorman heard a voice. "What was he?" more plainly. "How'd you call the play?"

"Who's asking?" asked Tom weakly. "Durocher."

"He was out."

Gorman's leg was broken, and he was out of action two months as a National League umpire. This happened two years ago. It was the only major mishap in 21 rollicking years of major-league play-calling for the big Irishman from the Bronx.

Over that period, Durocher has been a major adversary for Gorman.

"I wish," Gorman sighs, we had a play where we could say, 'Tie! He's safe.' I remember I called a guy out and Durocher came running from the dugout who parked a fastball some 330-feet over the rightfield fence. The Lions were eliminated by Bellwood, 4-3.

State Amateur Golf Tourney Begins

The 42nd annual Illinois State Amateur Tournament, sponsored by the Chicago District Golf Association, swings into action today and Wednesday at the Short Hills Country Club in East Moline.

Those amateurs who finish in the top 30 and tie will play 36 holes for the title on Thursday with a 36-hole finale.

Besides the young big name players in

Jay Haas of Belleville and Steve Benson of Country Club Hills, Stan Mikita will also be among the 154 contestants. Mikita fired a qualifying round of 68, one behind the best qualifying score. That's not bad for a man who spends most of his year on skates with a hockey stick.

Mills Rendell, former Palatine resident and now from Lincolnshire, will also be challenging for the title.

By 1961, he was promoted to the National League and is second in seniority now to Augie Donatelli. "The big thing about umpiring," he says, "is to think like an umpire. You got to believe you're right all the time. Television, believe it or not, has helped me. The statistics they once took of replays showed we were right 96-97 per cent of the time. The TV people, they blow more plays than we do."

He likes the life; he likes the camaraderie with his umpiring partners — Bill Williams, John McSherry and Frank Pulley; he likes the tight bit of drama.

"Before Babe Pinelli retired," recalls Tom, "he was collecting hats from each club as souvenirs. We got to the Polo Grounds and the Cincinnati Reds were in town. Babe went to Fred Hutchinson and said, 'After the game, send me down a hat.'"

"Sure Babe," said Hutch, a prince of a guy off the field.

"Well, the games goes into the ninth inning, Cincinnati trailing 4-3. They got a runner on second and the batter hits a single to center. The tying run is coming to the plate. It's one of those close plays. Babe calls the runner out. From the dugout Hutch explodes. He's all shades of red. He's out there jawing. Then he throws his hat down."

"From over at third base, Dusty Boggs, who's umpiring there, yells, 'Grab the hat, Babe!'"

(Newsweek Enterprise Assn.)

CATCHER'S CONFRONTATION. Logan Square catcher Tom Chapman has unhappy news waiting for Bellwood's Rick Betti who is gunned down on a perfect throw from Jim Bucaro. Bellwood still managed four other tallies en route to eliminating the Lions, 4-3, in the Cook County Playoffs at Northbrook.

Northwest 'Y' Offers Skin, Scuba Diving

Right now there are 75 men and women involved in the scuba diving program at Northwest Suburban YMCA. The course is run on a 12-week basis continually each year.

Scuba diving averages at least 70 non-members and members per course, with 10 to 15 instructors. The instructors are certified under the National YMCA Aquatic program and volunteer their time and effort to make the Scuba program the success it is today.

Scuba, which stands for Self-Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus, permits anyone to enjoy the thrills of exploration, travel, and photography of the world beneath the sea. Many interested scuba divers make their living as oceanographers or volunteers for a search recovery unit at fire departments.

At Northwest Suburban the course is divided into two parts — six weeks of skin diving and six weeks of scuba diving. Skin diving participants learn to use masks, fins, and snorkels properly, in scuba they learn how to use a tank of compressed air, a regulator, and related safety equipment.

Scuba equipment allows the swimmer to remain under water for varying periods of time, depending on tank volume and depth of dives.

At Northwest Suburban 'Y' there is a scuba club called the Narcosis Knights. Any interested scuba diver is more than welcome to join the club. Most of the YMCA scuba instructors belong to the club.

Each year they take diving trips to different areas. This year they are going to British Honduras, island of Cozumel in Mexico, Hawaii and the Bahamas. Anyone who is interested in becoming a "scuba-buff" should visit Northwest Suburban YMCA and register for the next scuba session, which begins Sept. 15 from 7 to 10 p.m. There is a whole new world waiting for you in scuba diving, everyone is invited to join the fun.

The Northwest Suburban YMCA is located at 300 E. Northwest Hwy., in Des Plaines. For more information call 296-3376.

Heating Team Holds 1-2 Spots

The Scotty's Heating unit of Scotty Clelland, Tom Glessner, Dave Polancic, Bob Sutton and John Murray shows a 13-point advantage after play last week in the Hoffman Estates Men's Wednesday Night Golf League.

Scotty's has 130 points while second place Rice Heating has 117. Ewald Specialties is third in the 12-team alignment with 114.

Team low net was a 193 by Ewald. In the individual categories Tony Montikas had low net of 32, John O'Connell low gross 38, and, among the alternates, Joe

Olympic Feats Of 1932

(One of a series on extraordinary happenings in each of the 16 modern Olympic Games.)

LOS ANGELES, 1932 — The appealing heroine of the Los Angeles Games was the slim, 17-year-old Mildred Didrickson, who competed in three events, broke the world and Olympic records in each event and yet wound up with only two gold medals and a silver.

She set a world record of 143 feet 4 inches with her first throw in the javelin and another in the final of the 80-meter hurdle with 11.7 seconds.

In the high-jump she shared a new world record of 5 feet 5 inches with Miss Jean Shiley (USA) but, in a jump-off with Miss Shiley, although she again cleared the same height, she was placed second. The judges by then had ruled her style was illegal.

Later as Mrs. Mildred "Babe" Zaharias, she became perhaps the greatest woman golfer ever.

One of the most amusing stories — or tragic, if you prefer — was fate that befell some of the Brazilian Olympic team. Their Olympic Committee had selected 69 competitors for the Games but, unfortunately the government of the country just didn't have the money to sponsor the team.

The government, however, did offer a ship and 50,000 bags of coffee. The coffee could be sold en route. This would have been fine — only there was a glut of coffee at that time.

Sales were negligible and when the ship arrived at Los Angeles, only 24 members of the team were able to land. The others had to put to sea again in the hope that someone, somewhere wanted coffee. But it was all in vain.

AH Driver In Drag Crash

UNION GROVE, Wis. (UPI) — Driver Paul Bovacanti, 23, of Arlington Heights, suffered minor injuries Sunday in a two-car accident during time trials at the Great Lake Dragway.

Track officials said Bovacanti's auto rolled over at least three times after it crossed into the other lane, glancing off another car driven by Joe Ross of Chicago.

Bovacanti was taken to a Kenosha hospital where he was treated and released. Ross was not injured. Both cars received extensive damage.

Gary Drenk of Arlington Heights won the Day Modified Eliminator, finishing the quarter mile at 120.32 miles per hour in 11.33 seconds.

Unit stock honors went to Daryl Groesch of Chicago with a speed of 106.04 and a time of 12.40; and Paul Topczewski of Niles, Ill., was overall stock eliminator with a speed of 106.26 and a time of 13.10.

Banks Twice Most Valuable

Ernie Banks is the only player in National League history to have won back-to-back Most Valuable player awards. Banks accomplished the feat in 1956-59 at shortstop for the Chicago Cubs. Five different players have won MVP honors in consecutive years in the American League. Jimmy Foxx was the first (1932-33), followed by Hal Newhouser (1944-45), Yogi Berra (1954-55), Mickey Vernon (1956-57), and Roger Maris (1960-61).

BLIND BIND. Unable to see the "out" call by the umpire behind him, Logan Square second baseman Steve Bowski pivots on attempted double-play. The relay was late and so were the Lions while bowing out of the Cook County Playoffs, 4-3.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Jenkins Calls Current Law 'Vague'

Officials To Study, Revise Village Gambling Ordinance

Elk Grove Village officials are reviewing the village's gambling ordinance in an attempt to make the laws more specific and enforceable, Police Chief Harry Jenkins said last week.

"The current gambling ordinance is quite vague so we're proposing an entire revision of the local law to make it more readily enforceable," he said.

According to the current ordinance, "It shall be unlawful to gamble or attend any gambling resort or to make any bet, lottery or gambling hazard, or to buy or sell any chances or tickets in any gambling game, arrangement or device." It also prohibits possession of any gambling device with the intent of using it illegally or to advertise, maintain or patronize a gambling house.

Jenkins said he would discuss a proposal for revising the ordinance with Village Atty. Edward Hofert. He said the proposed ordinance is divided into two sections. The first part defines gambling and the second part lists exceptions to the ordinance.

THESE EXCEPTIONS include bingo games licensed by the state, pari-mutuel betting authorized by state law, bona fide contests of skill and insurance of health, life and property.

Jenkins said the village also will review its laws on disorderly conduct.

The village has separate ordinances on disorderly conduct, intoxication, fighting, disturbing assemblies and false alarms, he said.

Jenkins said the ordinances appear to be duplicative and he will ask Hofert if separate ordinances were needed on each offense. He added that another ordinance on cheating, covered by an ordinance on theft by deception, would also be considered for elimination on the grounds it was repetitive.

At Frost, Jay Schools

Boundaries May Change

Attendance boundaries for Robert Frost and John Jay schools, both in Mount Prospect, may be changed for the coming school year.

James Erviti, Elk Grove Township Dist 59 superintendent, outlined the proposed changes in a letter July 26 to principals at Holmes, Dempster, Frost, Jay, Brentwood, Forest View and High Ridge Knolls schools.

The changes were outlined in the letter as:

"John Jay Area: Remove the DeMucci Apartment complex located along Golf Road and attach the area bounded on the east by Oakwood Drive, on the south by Palm Drive, to Tamarack (Drive) and Tamarack (Drive) to Thornwood (Lane), and along the line of Thornwood Lane to Goebbert Road, and the west by Goebbert Road to Forest View School. Remove the area of Gate House and Village Green (apartments), the area west of Goebbert Road and south of Seeger Road and attach it to Forest View.

"Robert Frost (School) Area: Remove the area east of Linneman Road and east of a line described by the center of South Church Road from Linneman Road to Ash Drive, and then along the rear lot line of homes facing Lancaster Avenue to Golf Road. (This will detach all of Diamond Point (subdivision), all of the Huntington Commons (development), and all of Pickwick (housing area), plus some older homes)."

"ATTACH TO Brentwood (School) all the territory north of a line from Linneman Road along the center of Huntington Commons Road to Elmhurst Road."

"Attach to High Ridge Knolls (School) all territory east of Linneman (Road), south of the center line of Huntington Commons (Road), west of Elmhurst (Road), and north of Dempster (Street)."

The letter states, "All changes are effective August 15, 1972."

Free transportation will be furnished to the K-5 buildings from areas remote to the schools and where hazardous street crossings are involved.

Students who would shift to different schools may apply to stay in their present school under the district's open transfer policy. Under this policy, a student may ask to attend a school outside his attendance area.

Erviti said that none of the children now attending Jay School and only about 20 children attending Frost School will be affected by the changed boundaries.

In the letter, Erviti said, "I believe the junior highs will experience no change."

The changes were made in anticipation of residential construction now going on which will bring more students into the present attendance boundaries than the schools can handle.

Under the Illinois School Code, all changes in school boundaries must be approved by the school board. Erviti said the proposed changes were an administrative decision. He said the school board had been advised of the proposed changes.

3-Year-Olds Now Eligible For St. Nicholas Preschool

St. Nicholas Preschool, 1072 Ridge Ave., Elk Grove Village, will include in this year's program children who were three years old as of June 1, 1972.

The preschool operates a program of interest centers using a mixture of age groups, similar to the British Infant School. At St. Nicholas, interest centers include, housekeeping areas, dress-up corner, block corner, library, puppet play theater, creative material table, point easels, science table, sand table, large and small indoor and outdoor equipment and number and letter development material.

Mrs. H. F. Kroeger, a graduate of Maryville College, St. Louis, will return for her third year as director of St. Nicholas.

Registration is now being accepted for the fall semester beginning Sept. 13. Further information may be obtained by calling 593-5878.

Parks Sponsor Program For Handicapped

by STEVE BROWN

Cooperation between two area park districts has resulted in a recreational and swimming program for about 25 emotionally and physically handicapped children in Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village.

The program was originated by Jeff Fox of the Schaumburg Park District and Rich Ludovissy of the Elk Grove Village Park District. Both said they had been approached by other park officials to start a large scale program encompassing many communities, but they felt the traveling distance made such a program prohibitive.

"We would have lost too much program time with the transportation," Ludovissy said.

ONCE A WEEK the children enrolled in the program are taken to either the indoor pool at Elk Grove or to the Schaumburg Park District's community center for a recreation program.

HANGING BY her heels is what Vicky Klechzkowski likes to do during the recreational program sponsored by the Schaumburg and Elk Grove

Eight Aliens Seized In Elk Grove

Eight illegal aliens from Mexico were arrested Friday in Elk Grove Village and turned over to U.S. Immigration and Naturalization authorities after a village patrolman observed three of the men acting suspiciously.

Authorities said the three were sitting in a parked car behind a house at 1610 Landmeier Rd. shortly after midnight. Police said when the three were questioned as to their activities, they could not speak English nor could they produce identification papers.

Authorities said the men told them they lived in the house on Landmeier Road, and the trio was given a chance to retrieve passports from their rooms. When the men were unable to produce identification, police entered the house and found a total of eight aliens hiding in closets and under stairs and beds.

Arrested were: Miguel Morales, 48; Broylio Guzman, 19; Miguel Guzman, 48; Pedro Guzman, 20; Fernando Arias, 17; Raphael Munoz, 18; Refugio Cardoza, 26, and Joe Gutierrez, 40. All lived at 1610 Landmeier Rd.

Police, Trustees Schedule 'Shoot Out'

The Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees "sharp shooters" will meet the village police department's pistol team Monday to inaugurate the new police firearms range in the village hall.

The range, recently completed at a cost of $20,000, features sliding targets that can be adjusted to 21, 50 or 75 feet from a panel in a control room.

Power Failure At Shopping Center

A power failure at the Grove Shopping Center at Arlington Heights and Biesterfield roads in Elk Grove Village caused a minor fire in an electric motor at the Jewel Food store late Friday.

Fire Chief Allen Hulett said no major damage was sustained, but patrons had to be evacuated 20 minutes before the store's closing at midnight. He said firemen had to pump smoke from the fire out of the building.

Commonwealth Edison Co. repair crews worked through the night to repair a burned out transformer, and power was restored to the shopping center by morning, Hulett said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

It will cost the nation $187.1 billion in this decade — an average of $100 a year for every man, woman and child — to control pollution, the government's annual report on the environment said. The Council on Environmental Quality's report said the nation's air is getting a little cleaner but water pollution is probably as bad as ever.

The Senate decisively defeated a proposal to outlaw private possession of pistols and revolvers. The vote was 84 to 7 against an amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to a bill to ban the sale of so-called Saturday Night Specials, cheaply made handguns that have no sporting purpose.

The Justice Department filed civil suits charging the city of Los Angeles

with discriminating in the hiring of firemen and the city of Montgomery Ala., with discrimination in public jobs. The two suits are the first to be filed under the 1972 Equal Employment Opportunity Act.

In the face of heavy mail from Congress and the public, the Justice Department's Internal Security Division is "looking into" antiwar statements made by Actress Jane Fonda in Hanoi to determine if she violated the 1940 Sedition Act.

House Democrats unanimously endorsed Sen. George McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as vice presidential candidate. The Democratic National Committee will formally nominate Shriver to the ticket today.

The World

While British farmers warned they faced a critical shortage of animal feed, striking dockworkers called a temporary halt to their 11-day-old walkout to unload 15 rhinoceroses being shipped to English zoos. The National Farmers Union said it would ask the government to send in troops to unload cargo and get the docks operating again.

The State

A group of independent Democrats led by Chicago Ald. William Singer and the Rev. Jesse Jackson said it intends to continue the delegate challenge to forces led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. The challenge focuses on six Illinois representatives to the Democratic National Committee who were elected with the help of Daley and his followers during a caucus of the state's delegation to the national party convention at Miami Beach.

The War

Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving toward the market town of Kompong Trabek in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak — the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said the United States will not halt its bombing campaign in North Vietnam until Hanoi ends its invasion across the Demilitarized Zone.

Barrington Hills Exec Was Upset: Landscaper

by DOUG RAY

Dan Palenske, a sandy-haired, part-time landscaper, may have been the last person to talk to Barrington Hills executive Paul M. Corbett before he was murdered Friday night.

"I spoke to him at 7:25 that night," said Palenske. "He acted upset . . . or something, like he was shook up or drinking."

Palenske telephoned Corbett to apologize for not being able to work on the grounds Friday evening as Mrs. Corbett had requested.

"I was having a house full of people . . .

so I couldn't do it," he said.

The 27-year-old man, who manages a service station in Arlington Heights during the day, and is a free-lance landscaper, mused on the chance he could have been at the scene during the mass murder Friday night. "She (Mrs. Corbett) asked if I could start that (Friday) night," he said. "But we had company so I told her no."

PALENKE HAD toured the manicured grounds of Corbett's Barrington Hills estate Friday afternoon with Mrs. Corbett. "It was about 4:30 and she came outside and showed me the work to be done."

They walked to the front of the grey-brick home atop a steep hill and also viewed landscaping behind the house near a large patio area. "I arranged to do it Sunday," he said.

Palenske had last worked for the Corbett family about two years ago, he said, and had done a series of lawn work for the family amounting to some $3,000 over the past five years.

He attended Northwestern Military Academy in Wisconsin with Corbett's stepson Anthony Boand and thus met the Corbett family. Boand discovered the gangland-style murders Friday when he returned a borrowed car to the family home at about 9:30. Gunned down were Corbett, 67; his wife Marian, 57; Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 65, sister of Mrs. Corbett, and Mrs. Corbett's daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara Boand, 22.

Attempting to secure another tree-trimming job at the Corbett home, Palenske visited the estate about a week ago. "I went to the door and someone opened an eye hole and then there was no answer," Palenske then placed his business card in the door and left.

He contacted the Corbetts again Wednesday to inquire about the landscaping work and they accepted the offer.

He strode the grounds with Mrs. Corbett Friday afternoon to find out the details of the $200 landscaping job and said he would do it Sunday, rather than Friday evening as she had suggested.

Palenske said he was contacted by a law enforcement agency yesterday morning and was scheduled to appear at the Barrington Hills police station to recount his Friday visit to the Corbett home.

HAVING LAST been inside the 14-room mansion about four years ago, Palenske recalled "it was gorgeous . . . Mr. Corbett brought out a steak and offered it to me after I finished work."

His landscaping duties enabled him to know casually most of the wealthy homeowners on Bateman Circle where Corbett and a dozen or so other executives lived.

"Mr. Corbett was up on business . . . others said do the work while you can but he wanted it done right away," Palenske said. "The people who live up there seem overly nice," he added.

Dan Palenske's recollection of that sunny Friday evening, he said, will ever be clear. "I just wonder," he added, "what would have happened if I would have been there working."

SCHOOL IS OUT for the summer in Schaumburg, Francis Campanelli School on Springinsguth Road. Getting ready for the new semester is all part of the job for Miss McCann who starts her 30th year as a principal this fall.

Schools Let $39,835 Parking Lot Contract

The Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education last week let parking areas in 12 of the districts schools. The contract price is $39,835.

The paving will be done at the Addams and Frost junior high schools and at Blackhawk, Churchill, Collins, Dirksen, Fairview, Hale, Hanover Highlands, Hoffman, Schaumburg and Twinbrook elementary schools.

In other action, the board entered into a three-year contract with Mass Feeding Corp. for meals served at Jane Addams, Robert Frost and Helen Keller junior high schools.

The board, upon the recommendation of both the administration and finance committees, raised the lunch price for students from 45 cents a meal to 50 cents.

MFC submitted a financial report that showed a per-meal cost increase from 40.5 cents to 46.95 cents. The committees noted a board subsidy of $7,300 would result unless the selling price were increased to 50 cents a student and 55 cents per adult.

During the past three years MFC served 543,804 meals in the junior high schools, at a total expenditure of $175,333. The total of sales receipts was $168,686, leaving a deficit of $6,647.

Other expenditures approved by the board included:

—Purchase of a 1972 Ford Econoline Van from Woodfield Ford for $2,908.

—Purchase of 42 lunch room tables to be located in four schools. Low bidder was Prairie State School Equipment Co. with a bid of $12,748.

—An increase in salary for lunchroom and playground supervisors from $2 to $3 an hour. The board said part-time workers are exempt from the wage price freeze.

—An increase in substitute teachers pay from $25 a day to $27.

—An increase in the present business mileage from 11-cents a mile to 12.

Former Rider Declares:

Agent Can 'Make' A Jockey

by DOUG RAY

Thoroughbred jockeys are like movie stars — a good agent can make them famous.

At least that's Jerry McGrath's observation after having been in the saddle for seven years and in the horse racing business all of his adult life.

"Some of these guys (jockeys) have been around for 15 years and all of a sudden they hit it lucky . . . an agent gets him the right mount. It's like show business, they get a break and have it made."

Admittedly too plump to ride today, McGrath, 36, makes his home in Palatine, where hanging on the wall of the

Retired as a jockey in 1965 he now works as an exercise rider at Arlington Park and other Chicago tracks during the racing season. During the off-season McGrath trains horses for a Barrington rancher.

The function of an exercise rider is the opposite of race riding, he said. "You get all you can out of a horse during the race, but during exercise he shouldn't be tested. Just kept in shape."

"There is as much pride in seeing a horse win that you trained as in riding a winner," he says. "But you never know if a horse will be a winner while breaking him in."

HE RECALLS a particular incident a few years ago, when he was asked an opinion on the future of a young thoroughbred named Promised Land.

"A wealthy trainer asked me what I thought about the horse . . . I said not much," McGrath laughed. "The horse went on to earn a half million dollars."

Horse racing he feels, is as much a gamble for the trainers as for those placing wagers at Arlington Park's mutual windows. "Horses have been bought for $40,000 and only won one race in a lifetime. It's hard to tell how good they're gonna be."

And McGrath says a horse's ability to win changes from day to day. "You have to play it by ear . . . you can't overtrain and then you have to keep them in shape."

Horse racing has changed over the years. "There has been reform . . . it used to be that another jockey could bump a horse" or "jostle a competitor." "Filing of the races has taken the roughness out of the game."

His winter job breaking in thoroughbreds in Barrington is, however, less rough and tumble than most would believe. "A horse seldom gives much trouble," he said. "By the time you mount, they already know the basics."

HORSES ARE his first love but chess ranks a close second. He plays at least three times a week and is a member of the United States Chess Federation.

He takes chess seriously. On a table sits a thick book devoted entirely to the opening moves.

"A good chess player is a lot like a thoroughbred," he said. It takes the right attitude, emotional stability and intelligence to be a winner.

Continuances Given In Marijuana Cases

Continuances to Aug. 22 were granted last week in the cases of three area men charged with possession of marijuana and controlled substances.

William A. Winkelhake, 23, and James T. Rutt, 21, both of 612 Dempster St. in unincorporated Mount Prospect, and James E. Dal Cerro, 19, of 924 Busse Rd., Elk Grove Village, were arrested July 21 by members of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group, an undercover area-wide police force.

For 30 years, Miss Susan McCann of Schaumburg, in her role as a school principal, has had to deal with other people's children.

Her years of experience don't make her an expert, she said. "But maybe I'm doing something right; my pupils and I have a mutual respect for one another."

As Miss McCann walked the empty corridors of Francis Campanelli School where she begins her seventh year as a principal with Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54, she gave this recipe for turning out a good student.

"However, curriculum wise, I believe each child should be given the freedom to explore and grow freely," said the principal.

Campanelli's classes are empty of students this summer, but the school is a beehive of activity. Miss McCann, who works all year, takes interruptions in stride as she talks to parents of new students and confers with some of her teachers.

"School might be out for the summer, but many of my teachers come in and set up their classes early," she said.

Kindergartners from Campanelli will attend class at Thomas Dooley, Blackhawk and Everett Dirksen Schools and two of the school's sixth grade classes will be at Jane Addams Junior High School. Miss McCann said parents in the area have been understanding about the busing.

"We just don't have room at Campanelli, but things are getting better," she said.

"FOUR YEARS AGO we were on double shift. In about two years this school should be able to handle all the youngsters here," said Miss McCann. "The neighborhood is stabilizing and not too much new construction is coming in," she added.

Jaycees To Hold Fertilizer Sale

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees will hold their fall fertilizer sale at the end of this month.

Jaycee members will be going through the village taking orders during the last two weeks of August. Delivery will be made in early September.

At the regular meeting held last Thursday, the Jaycees:

—Agreed to hold a "Fall Fest" in early October. The festival will feature sausage, bratwurst and sauerkraut served in an open-air tent.

—Will attempt to set up a "Haunted House" for village children on Halloween.

—Voted approval on a ballot to change the state constitution to permit men between 18-21 to become members.

—Voted approval of a request for the national Jaycee organization to encourage full adult citizen privileges for persons 18 and over.

'Excellent' Chance To Win Election, Says John Nimrod

by BOB LAHEY

Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll is a cinch for reelection in the eyes of the man who will replace him as the republican candidate for the state Senate in the November election.

Niles Township Republican committeeman John Nimrod, selected last week by fellow committeemen to replace the retiring Carroll on the GOP ticket, declared yesterday that his chances of election were "excellent."

Nimrod faces Democratic newcomer Thomas W. Flynn of Niles, an employee of the Chicago Planning Department, in the election for the Senate.

"The voters in this district certainly would have reelected Bill Carroll," Nimrod said. He added that the question of the November election is one of political philosophy, rather than of any specific issue.

"The question is one of adequate representation of the area," he said.

ANY REPUBLICAN with identity among the voters who espouses a conservative viewpoint similar to Carroll's is a sure bet for election, according to Nimrod.

"I will present my candidacy as a Republican, and I believe the people of the 4th District will prefer to be represented by a Republican," he said.

Nimrod ran for Congress in the 1968 Republican primary election in which U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane won the party's nomination, finishing seventh in a field of seven candidates.

He seeks to replace Carroll, a veteran of six years in the Senate who previously served 10 years in the state House of Representatives. Carroll, who said he will retire because of health problems, will finish out his current term in the Senate, which ends Jan. 1.

Nimrod was selected by township committeemen from the four townships included in the 4th District. In addition to himself, they include Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, Richard A. Cowen of Arlington Heights, and William Bringham of Wilmette.

pals in spite of its huge size," said Miss McCann.

"BUT COOPERATION seems to be an attitude of the community too," said Miss McCann. "Of course I think my teaching staff and clerks here at the school are responsible for what one parent described as 'a nice feeling school,' but without the parents' support this would not be possible," she added.

"Maybe things will get a little noisier around here in September, but the first day of school won't be bedlam," promised Miss McCann.

Bids Opened For $6 Million Dundee Road Work Project

by JILL BETTNER

Bids were opened Friday by the Illinois Division of Highways for the widening of Dundee Road between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53.

Al Sifer, project engineer, said he expects contracts for the $6 million project to be awarded in about three weeks. To date, the low bidders are the Dipallo Co. of Niles for drainage work and the Rosemont firm of Greco Contractors, Inc. for paving.

Sifer said the drainage work will probably begin in about a month. No paving will be done until next spring, he said.

Plans for the project also call for the elimination of two dangerous intersections in Buffalo Grove. Arlington Heights Road and Buffalo Grove Road will be re-routed to meet their already existing extensions on the north side of Dundee Road. The state is also scheduled to install traffic lights at both new intersections.

IN CONJUNCTION with the drainage work that will be done when Dundee Road is widened, the village is also planning to construct a storm sewer along the route and build a 50 acre-foot detention basin on the Arlington Golf Club course.

Buffalo Grove and the Metropolitan Sanitary District will each pay a portion of the costs of the $300,000 basin. The Illinois Division of Highways will also fund part of the project, scheduled to begin about Nov. 1.

Dundee Road will remain open during construction, under a reduced speed limit. Several village residents have expressed concern that after the newly-repaired Arlington Heights Road is reopened, the always heavy traffic at that intersection will become even worse once work on Dundee Road begins.

Lou Louchios, civil engineer for the Division of Highways, said the relocation of Arlington Heights Road and Buffalo Grove Road will probably be done in the latter stages of the two-year project.

"IF A TEMPORARY light is installed at Arlington Heights Road, Buffalo Grove will have to pay for it," Louchios said.

Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Dan Larson said bids for the purchase of a temporary signal have ranged from $5,900 to $17,000.

The village trustees have also discussed the possibility of leasing a light, which would cost about $10-13,000, until the state installs the permanent light. Trustee Ed Osmon has also mentioned buying a signal and then transferring it to intersections farther north as the village grows.

Currently, the village pays a Buffalo Grove policeman overtime to direct traffic at the Arlington Heights Road intersection between 7 and 8 a.m.

Library Book Circulation Has Its Ups And Downs

by JEAN CAFARELLA

Just like a business, the Wheeling library has its peak seasons and its low points in distributing books. The librarians can predict when people will flock in, looking for reading matter, and can guess fairly accurately what sort of reading the public wants to do.

High points for circulation occur at the end of July, February, and October. In February and October the school children are starting to get into the swing of the semester. Mrs. Ruth Bussard, head of circulation, speculates. In July the kids are looking for something to do after summer school ends.

Likewise, May, September, and December are the poorest circulation times. In May the children are tired of school books, and in September they aren't quite ready to pick up the burden. When Christmas rolls around, no one has time for reading, except those who check out handier books.

PEOPLE ALSO change the focus of their taste, depending on the season. Mrs. Elaine Burke, adult services librarian, notices Time and Newsweek magazine practically stop circulating in the summer as less junior high school and high school students come in.

Fewer people ask reference questions, since no one is writing term papers. Occasionally businessmen will call and ask her to look up something.

The greatest demand in the summer is for books on hobbies, good vacation spots, and combinations of the two — such as fishing in Canada.

In place of Time and Newsweek, readers would rather concentrate on Better Homes and Gardens, Sports Illustrated, or Popular Mechanics.

Many kids will get hooked on animals and nature in the summer, and look for books identifying the life forms they find in their back yards. "Kids bring in bugs and want to find out what they are," said Mrs. Burke. Spiders are the most frequent intruders. Mrs. Burke said she's had two calls from adults who wanted to identify spiders.

Increased summer leisure also brings an increase in novel reading. The most requested book at the Wheeling library is "I'm O.K., You're O.K." by Harris. It will take four to six weeks for the last person on the list to get it.

Other popular novels are "Wheels" by Haley, "Tracy and Hepburn" by Kanin, "The Word" by Wallace, "Winds of War" by Wouk, "The Exorcist" by Blatty, "Eleanor and Franklin" by Lash, and "Brian Piccolo, a Short Season" by Morris.

LESLIE EDMONDS and Jan Thompson, in the children's library, said kids are always asking for "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory," the story from which the Willie Onka movie was made. Another great favorite is "Peanuts" books.

Craft books, animal books, horror stories and witchcraft books are always in demand, but more so during summer. Favorite biographies include those about Helen Keller, Abe Lincoln, the Kennedys, and sports stars.

Other popular books are the "Henry Huggins" series, "Charlotte's Web," Paul Cindel stories such as "The Pigman," Dr. Seuss, and Sesame Street.

Children between second and eighth grade have been participating in a summer reading program, and Miss Edmonds said the 320 participants have read about 2,500 books.

Circulation in general has been rising steadily, with a 30 per cent increase in juvenile library cards over the last two years and a 25 per cent increase in adult cards in the past year. The library has about 8,000 active book borrowers.

Circulation reached its all-time high for the year last month when 12,637 books and other library materials were lent out. When the library first opened in 1965, circulation for July was 8,669 and only 4,180 in January.

And, if the Wheeling library experience follows true to form, in about six weeks nobody will feel like reading anything.

'The Godfather' BB Vandals Hit At Dog 'n Suds

Vandals with BB guns have taken their toll on Wheeling businesses over the last week.

Seven windows at Dog 'n Suds of Wheeling on Elmhurst Road have been shot with BB's over the past week. Three windows valued at $350 were shot Friday night, and four windows valued at $350 were shot Wednesday night.

The manager at Dog 'n Suds said they had never had this kind of trouble before but suggested that it might be caused by "too many people watching 'The Godfather.'"

More than $900 in damage was done to Toco Toys and Sports, 865 W. Dundee Rd., when five windows were shot with BB's Friday night.

On Wednesday night, vandals with BB guns shot four windows at the Dist. 21 administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd.

In all cases, the damage was done at night when the buildings were closed. Damage was discovered the next morning.

Vandals also damaged the K-Mart building by spraying it with orange paint. The two 10-year-olds responsible were released to their parents, and the head of security at K-Mart asked that they pay for sandblasting the paint from the building.

Driver Ticketed

A Wheeling woman was making a left turn last week when her auto collided with a car driven by Mary Ann Merle of Chicago, police said.

Frank Merle, a passenger, in the Merle auto was taken to Holy Family Hospital with injuries.

WHEELING VILLAGE trustees helped out by cooking more than 3,000 bratwurst consumed at Sunday's "Brat 'n Beer Fest." Fest-goers also downed 40 half barrels of beer while enjoying German music and works of art displayed by Chicago area artists. Plans for next year's fest are already underway by members of the Wheeling Historical Society. The art fair was sponsored by the Wheeling - Buffalo Grove Community Art League.

TORCH Clinic Names Barry Brown As Associate Director

Barry Brown has been appointed associate director of the TORCH Community Mental Health Clinic.

He will have special responsibility in association with Omni-House, a part of the Youth Services Bureau. He will coordinate the work of the TORCH Clinic's therapists with youth referred by officials of the Youth Services Bureau, and will assist in the total management of the clinic. Brown holds degrees in administration and counseling, and has worked with the Hotline group. He is a member of the board of directors of Project HELP, Inc., and of Omni-House.

Brown is a counselor at Wheeling High School, and has conducted group dynamics sessions in the Dist. 214 Young Adult Program.

'Brat 'n Beer' Fest Success Earns $4,100

by LYNN ASINOF

If the number of bratwurst sold at Sunday's "Brat 'n Beer Fest" is any measure, the festival sponsored by the Wheeling Historical Society this year was an unequalled success.

More than 3,000 bratwurst, prepared in the Old World style, were consumed before the concession ran out of the meat at 8:30 p.m. Approximately 40 half barrels of beer were downed, along with corn on the cob and German potato salad.

LONG LINES for the food concessions wound through the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank's parking lot, around the Art Fair exhibits sponsored by the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove community arts league.

"It was a fantastic crowd," said Mrs. Shirley Koeppen of the historical society. "I would even venture to say that it was larger than last year, considering the threatening weather."

Mrs. Koeppen, who estimated the crowd at 5,000, said the historical society has already scheduled next year's festival for the first Sunday in August.

The idea for the fest originated with the German Beer Garden which was part of Wheeling's Diamond Jubilee Celebration in 1968. Conceived as a way to raise funds as well as to promote community feeling, the first "Brat 'n Beer Fest" last year met with such success that it has become an annual event.

Plans for next year's fest include enlarging the bratwurst concession. "It will probably take up the whole back of the parking lot," Mrs. Koeppen said.

According to Mrs. Lorraine Lark, who worked on the festival, the historical society grossed $4,100. The profit from the festival will be used to support the operation of the historical society as well as to finance community projects. The festival is the society's only fund-raising activity.

GERMAN ATMOSPHERE at the fest was provided by the Jim Campbell Group, and the First Illinois Drum and Bugle Corps also put in an appearance.

Chicago area artists exhibited their work at the fest. According to Buffalo Grove resident Mrs. Sylvia Westgard of the art league, most of the artists did very well selling their work. "Many told me that more people came this year than they really expected," she said.

Prizes were awarded to several of the artists participating in the art fair. First place awards went to Milvi Wheeler of River Woods (oils), Jack Schmitt of Palatine (water colors), John Runion of Oak Park (water colors), Dallas Galbraith of Cicero (sculpture), and Barbara Wisniewski of West Dundee (jewelry).

A $50 purchase award from the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank went to Fred Stueckemann of Wheeling, for an oil painting of boats. Another $50 award from Don Roth's Restaurant went to Cathy Bouchard of Des Plaines for a pencil drawing.

Set Pool Repairs

Neptune's Pool is scheduled for a face-lifting starting Aug. 11. The Wheeling Park District plans to repaint the pool, decks and locker rooms, and install new pool ladders.

In order to make the repairs easier, the pool will be closed to the public.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

It will cost the nation $187.1 billion in this decade — an average of $100 a year for every man, woman and child — to control pollution, the government's annual report on the environment said. The Council on Environmental Quality's report said the nation's air is getting a little cleaner but water pollution is probably as bad as ever.

The Senate decisively defeated a proposal to outlaw private possession of pistols and revolvers. The vote was 94 to 7 against an amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to a bill to ban the sale of so-called Saturday Night Specials, cheaply made handguns that have no sporting purpose.

The Justice Department filed civil suits charging the city of Los Angeles

with discriminating in the hiring of firemen and the city of Montgomery, Ala., with discrimination in public jobs. The two suits are the first to be filed under the 1972 Equal Employment Opportunity Act.

In the face of heavy mail from Congress and the public, the Justice Department's Internal Security Division is "looking into" antiwar statements made by Actress Jane Fonda in Hanoi to determine if she violated the 1940 Sedition Act.

House Democrats unanimously endorsed Sen. George McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as vice presidential candidate. The Democratic National Committee will formally nominate Shriver to the ticket today.

The World

While British farmers warned they faced a critical shortage of animal feed, striking dockworkers called a temporary halt to their 11-day-old walkout to unload 15 rhinoceroses being shipped to English zoos. The National Farmers Union said it would ask the government to send in troops to unload cargo and get the docks operating again.

The State

A group of independent Democrats led by Chicago Ald. William Singer and the Rev. Jesse Jackson said it intends to continue the delegate challenge to forces led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. The challenge focuses on six Illinois representatives to the Democratic National Committee who were elected with the help of Daley and his followers during a caucus of the state's delegation to the national party convention at Miami Beach.

The War

Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving toward the market town of Kompong Trabek in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak — the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said the United States will not halt its bombing campaign in North Vietnam until Hanoi ends its invasion across the Demilitarized Zone.

The Market

Stocks scored a slight gain as a late flurry of buying activity among glamor issues capped a mixed, sluggish trading pattern on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average moved ahead 1.35 to 953.12 as advances led declines 714 to 667 among the 1,745 issues on the tape. Volume fell to 13,220,000. Prices finished mixed to slightly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Slain Executive 'Was Upset'

by DOUG RAY

Dan Palenske, a sandy-haired, part-time landscaper may have been the last person to talk to Barrington Hills executive Paul M. Corbett before he was murdered Friday night.

"I spoke to him at 7:25 that night," said Palenske. "He acted upset . . . or something, like he was shook up or drinking."

Palenske telephoned Corbett to apologize for not being able to work on the grounds Friday evening as Mrs. Corbett had requested.

"I was having a house full of people . . . so I couldn't do it," he said.

The 27-year-old man, who manages a service station in Arlington Heights during the day, and is a free-lance landscaper, mused on the chance he could have been at the scene during the mass murder Friday night. "She (Mrs. Corbett) asked if I could start that (Friday) night," he said. "But we had company so I told her no."

PALENKE HAD toured the manicured grounds of Corbett's Barrington Hills estate Friday afternoon with Mrs. Corbett. "It was about 4:30 and she came outside and showed me the work to be done."

They walked to the front of the grey-brick home atop a steep hill and also viewed landscaping behind the house near a large patio area. "I arranged to do it Sunday," he said.

Palenske had last worked for the Corbett family about two years ago, he said, and had done a series of lawn work for the family amounting to some $3,000 over the past five years.

He attended Northwestern Military

Academy in Wisconsin with Corbett's stepson Anthony Board and thus met the Corbett family. Board discovered the gangland-style murders Friday when he returned a borrowed car to the family home at about 4:30. Gunned down were Corbett, 67; his wife Marian, 57; Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 65, sister of Mrs. Corbett, and Mrs. Corbett's daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara Board, 22.

Attempting to secure another tree-trimming job at the Corbett home, Palenske visited the estate about a week ago. "I went to the door and someone opened an eye hole and then there was no answer," Palenske then placed his business card in the door and left.

He contacted the Corbetts again Wednesday to inquire about the landscaping work and they accepted the offer.

He strode the grounds with Mrs. Corbett Friday afternoon to find out the details of the $200 landscaping job and said he would do it Sunday, rather than Friday evening as she had suggested.

Palenske said he was contacted by a law enforcement agency yesterday morning and was scheduled to appear at the Barrington Hills police station to recount his Friday visit to the Corbett home.

HAVING LAST been inside the 14-room mansion about four years ago, Palenske recalled "it was gorgeous . . . Mr. Corbett brought out a steak and offered it to me after I finished work."

His landscaping duties enabled him to know casually most of the wealthy homeowners on Bateman Circle where Corbett and a dozen or so other executives lived. "Mr. Corbett was up on business . . . others said do the work while you can but he wanted it done right away," Palenske said. "The people who live up there seem overly nice," he added.

Dan Palenske's recollection of that sunny Friday evening, he said, will ever be clear. "I just wonder," he added, "what would have happened if I would have been there working."

Agent Can 'Make' A Jockey

by DOUG RAY

Thoroughbred jockeys are like movie stars — a good agent can make them famous.

At least that's Jerry McGrath's observation after having been in the saddle for seven years and in the horse racing business all of his adult life.

"Some of these guys (jockeys) have

Scouting News

Cub Scout Pack 47 in Wheeling had a family picnic at Gages Lake recently. Games were conducted for the scouts and adults, and the pack had its annual Scout Olympics.

Free food was provided, and local merchants donated gifts for door prizes.

The winners of the Scout Olympics were:

First place, eight-year olds — Tim Sennett, discus; Kenny Kraus, high jump; Steve Todd, javelin; Kenny Kraus, shotput; and Tim Sennett, 50-yard dash.

First place nine- and 10-year-olds were:

Steve Kendzior, discus; Rob Dubbs, high jump; Mike Busse, javelin; Rob Dubbs, shotput; and Scott Felde and Rob Dubbs, 50-yard dash.

WALKING THE BEAMS, workmen check the partially completed roof of the addition at River Trails Junior High School in Mount Prospect. Construction is behind schedule on the $525,000 addition at 1000 Wolf Rd. Dist. 26 officials expect a construction progress report at a school board meeting Aug. 15. Assistant Supt. James Ratzlaff said the board would discuss what steps may be taken because of the delay.

been around for 15 years and all of a sudden they hit it lucky . . . an agent gets him the right mount. It's like, show business, they get a break and have it made."

Admittedly too plump to ride today, McGrath, 36, makes his home in Palatine, where hanging on the wall of the living room is a photo taken during his jockeying days. Decked out in the stable colors, he stands in the winner's circle.

McGRATH'S LIFE of horse racing began when he was a boy in Brooklyn. He visited a nearby race track, "saw a race" and knew it was for him. He admits jockeying is "sometimes heart-breaking, and disenchanted. But when you're a winner it's great."

Retired as a jockey in 1965 he now works as an exercise rider at Arlington Park and other Chicago tracks during the racing season. During the off-season McGrath trains horses for a Barrington rancher.

The function of an exercise rider is the opposite of race riding, he said. "You get all you can out of a horse during the race, but during exercise he shouldn't be tested. Just kept in shape."

"There is as much pride in seeing a horse win that you trained as in riding a winner," he says. "But you never know if a horse will be a winner while breaking him in."

HE RECALLS a particular incident a few years ago, when he was asked an opinion on the future of a young thoroughbred named Promised Land.

"A wealthy trainer asked me what I thought about the horse . . . I said not much," McGrath laughed. "The horse went on to earn a half million dollars."

Horse racing he feels, is as much a gamble for the trainers as for those placing wagers at Arlington Park's mutual windows. "Horses have been bought for $40,000 and only won one race in a lifetime. It's hard to tell how good they're gonna be."

And McGrath says a horse's ability to win changes from day to day. "You have to play it by ear . . . you can't overtrain and then you have to keep them in shape."

Horse racing has changed over the years. "There has been reform . . . it used to be that another jockey could bump a horse" or "jostle a competitor." "Filing of the races has taken the roughness out of the game."

His winter job breaking in thoroughbreds in Barrington is, however, less rough and tumble than most would believe. "A horse seldom gives much trouble," he said. "By the time you mount, they already know the basics."

HORSES ARE his first love but chess ranks a close second. He plays at least three times a week and is a member of the United States Chess Federation.

He takes chess seriously. On a table sits a thick book devoted entirely to the opening moves.

Bids Opened For $6 Million Dundee Road Work Project

by JILL BETTNER

Bids were opened Friday by the Illinois Division of Highways for the widening of Dundee Road between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53.

Al Sifer, project engineer, said he expects contracts for the $6 million project to be awarded in about three weeks. To date, the low bidders are the Dipallo Co. of Niles for drainage work and the Rosemont firm of Greco Contractors, Inc. for paving.

Sifer said the drainage work will probably begin in about a month. No paving will be done until next spring, he said.

Plans for the project also call for the elimination of two dangerous intersections in Buffalo Grove. Arlington Heights Road and Buffalo Grove Road will be re-routed to meet their already existing extensions on the north side of Dundee Road. The state is also scheduled to install traffic lights at both new intersections.

IN CONJUNCTION with the drainage work that will be done when Dundee Road is widened, the village is also planning to construct a storm sewer along the route and build a 50 acre-foot detention basin on the Arlington Golf Club course.

Buffalo Grove and the Metropolitan Sanitary District will each pay a portion of the costs of the $300,000 basin. The Illinois Division of Highways will also fund part of the project, scheduled to begin about Nov. 1.

Dundee Road will remain open during construction, under a reduced speed limit. Several village residents have expressed concern that after the newly-repaired Arlington Heights Road is reopened, the always heavy traffic at that intersection will become even worse once work on Dundee Road begins.

Lou Louchios, civil engineer for the Division of Highways, said the relocation of Arlington Heights Road and Buffalo Grove Road will probably be done in the latter stages of the two-year project.

"IF A TEMPORARY light is installed at Arlington Heights Road, Buffalo Grove will have to pay for it," Louchios said.

Buffalo Grove Village Mgr. Dan Larson said bids for the purchase of a temporary signal have ranged from $5,000 to $17,000.

The village trustees have also discussed the possibility of leasing a light, which would cost about $10-15,000, until the state installs the permanent light. Trustee Ed Osman has also mentioned buying a signal and then transferring it to intersections farther north as the village grows.

Currently, the village pays a Buffalo Grove policeman overtime to direct traffic at the Arlington Heights Road intersection between 7 and 8 a.m.

'Brat 'n Beer' Fest Success Earns $4,100

by LYNN ASINOF

If the number of bratwurst sold at Sunday's "Brat 'n Beer Fest" is any measure, the festival sponsored by the Wheeling Historical Society this year was an unqualified success.

More than 3,000 bratwurst, prepared in the Old World style, were consumed before the concession ran out of the meat at 6:30 p.m. Approximately 40 half-barrels of beer were downed, along with corn on the cob and German potato salad.

LONG LINES for the food concessions wound through the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank's parking lot, around the Art Fair exhibits sponsored by the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove community arts league.

"It was a fantastic crowd," said Mrs. Shirley Koeppen of the historical society. "I would even venture to say that it was larger than last year, considering the threatening weather."

Mrs. Koeppen, who estimated the crowd at 5,000, said the historical society has already scheduled next year's festival for the first Sunday in August.

The idea for the fest originated with the German Beer Garden which was part of Wheeling's Diamond Jubilee Celebration in 1969. Conceived as a way to raise funds as well as to promote community feeling, the first "Brat 'n Beer Fest" last year met with such success that it has become an annual event.

Plans for next year's fest include enlarging the bratwurst concession. "It will probably take up the whole back of the parking lot," Mrs. Koeppen said.

According to Mrs. Lorraine Lark, who worked on the festival, the historical society grossed $4,100. The profit from the festival will be used to support the operation of the historical society as well as to finance community projects. The festival is the society's only fund-raising activity.

In order to make the repairs easier, the pool will be closed to the public.

Library Book Circulation Has Its Ups And Downs

by JEAN CAFARELLA

Just like a business, the Wheeling library has its peak seasons and its low points in distributing books. The librarians can predict when people will flock in, looking for reading matter, and can guess fairly accurately what sort of reading the public wants to do.

High points for circulation occur at the end of July, February, and October. In February and October the school children are starting to get into the swing of the semester, Mrs. Ruth Bussard, head of circulation, speculates. In July the kids are looking for something to do after summer school ends.

Likewise, May, September, and December are the poorest circulation times. In May the children are tired of school books, and in September they aren't quite ready to pick up the burden. When Christmas rolls around, no one has time for reading, except those who check out handcraft books.

PEOPLE ALSO change the focus of their taste, depending on the season. Mrs. Elaine Burke, adult services librarian, notices Time and Newsweek magazine practically stop circulating in the summer as less junior high school and high school students come in.

Fewer people ask reference questions, since no one is writing term papers. Occasionally businessmen will call and ask her to look up something.

The greatest demand in the summer is for books on hobbies, good vacation spots, and combinations of the two — such as fishing in Canada.

In place of Time and Newsweek, readers would rather concentrate on Better Homes and Gardens, Sports Illustrated, or Popular Mechanics.

Many kids will get hooked on animals and nature in the summer, and look for books identifying the life forms they find in their back yards. "Kids bring in bugs and want to find out what they are," said Mrs. Burke. Spiders are the most frequent intruders. Mrs. Burke said she's had two calls from adults who wanted to identify spiders.

Increased summer leisure also brings an increase in novel reading. The most requested book at the Wheeling library is "I'm O.K., You're O.K." by Harris. It will take four to six weeks for the last person on the list to get it.

Other popular novels are "Wheels" by Haley, "Tracy and Hepburn" by Kanun, "The Word" by Wallace, "Winds of War" by Wouk, "The Exorcist" by Blatty, "Eleanor and Franklin" by Lash, and "Brian Piccolo, a Short Season" by Morris.

LESLIE EDMONDS and Jan Thompson, in the children's library, said kids are always asking for "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory," the story from which the Willie Onks movie was made. Another great favorite is "Peanuts" books.

Craft books, animal books, horror stories and witchcraft books are always in demand, but more so during summer. Favorite biographies include those about Helen Keller, Abe Lincoln, the Kennedys, and sports stars.

Other popular books are the "Henry Huggins" series, "Charlotte's Web," Paul Candel stories such as "The Pigman," Dr. Seuss, and Sesame Street.

Children between second and eighth grade have been participating in a summer reading program, and Miss Edmonds said the 320 participants have read about 2,500 books.

Circulation in general has been rising steadily, with a 30 per cent increase in juvenile library cards over the last two years and a 25 per cent increase in adult cards in the past year. The library has about 8,000 active book borrowers.

Circulation reached its all-time high for the year last month when 12,637 books and other library materials were lent out. When the library first opened in 1965, circulation for July was 8,669 and only 4,100 in January.

And, if the Wheeling library experience follows true to form, in about six weeks nobody will feel like reading anything

'The Godfather' BB Vandals Hit At Dog 'n Suds

Vandals with BB guns have taken their toll on Wheeling businesses over the last week.

Seven windows at Dog 'n Suds of Wheeling on Elmhurst Road have been shot with BB's over the past week. Three windows valued at $350 were shot Friday night, and four windows valued at $350 were shot Wednesday night.

The manager at Dog 'n Suds said they had never had this kind of trouble before but suggested that it might be caused by "too many people watching 'The Godfather.'"

More than $900 in damage was done to Toco Toys and Sports, 865 W. Dundee Rd., when five windows were shot with BB's Friday night.

On Wednesday night, vandals with BB guns shot four windows at the Dist. 21 administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd.

In all cases, the damage was done at night when the buildings were closed. Damage was discovered the next morning.

Vandals also damaged the K-Mart building by spraying it with orange paint. The two 18-year-olds responsible were released to their parents, and the head of security at K-Mart asked that they pay for sandblasting the paint from the building.

Driver Ticketed

A Wheeling woman was making a left turn last week when her auto collided with a car driven by Mary Ann Merle of Chicago, police said.

Helen Kyriakos of 931 Indian Springs Ln., Wheeling was charged with failure to yield while making a left turn.

Frank Merle, a passenger, in the Merle auto was taken to Holy Family Hospital with injuries.

TORCH Clinic Names Barry Brown As Associate Director

Barry Brown has been appointed associate director of the TORCH Community Mental Health Clinic.

He will have special responsibility in association with Omni-House, a part of the Youth Services Bureau. He will coordinate the work of the TORCH Clinic's therapists with youth referred by officials of the Youth Services Bureau, and will assist in the total management of the clinic.

Brown holds degrees in administration and counseling, and has worked with the Hotline group. He is a member of the board of directors of Project HELLE, Inc., and of Omni-House.

Brown is a counselor at Wheeling High School, and has conducted group dynamics sessions in the Dist. 214 Young Adult Program.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

It will cost the nation $187.1 billion in this decade — an average of $100 a year for every man, woman and child — to control pollution, the government's annual report on the environment said. The Council on Environmental Quality's report said the nation's air is getting a little cleaner but water pollution is probably as bad as ever.

The Senate decisively defeated a proposal to outlaw private possession of pistols and revolvers. The vote was 84 to 7 against an amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to a bill to ban the sale of so-called Saturday Night Specials, cheaply made handguns that have no sporting purpose.

The Justice Department filed civil suits charging the city of Los Angeles

with discriminating in the hiring of firemen and the city of Montgomery Ala., with discrimination in public jobs. The two suits are the first to be filed under the 1972 Equal Employment Opportunity Act.

In the face of heavy mail from Congress and the public, the Justice Department's Internal Security Division is "looking into" antiwar statements made by Actress Jane Fonda in Hanoi to determine if she violated the 1946 Sedition Act.

House Democrats unanimously endorsed Sen. George McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as vice presidential candidate. The Democratic National Committee will formally nominate Shriver to the ticket today.

The World

While British farmers warned they faced a critical shortage of animal feed, striking dockworkers called a temporary halt to their 11-day-old walkout to unload 15 rhinoceroses being shipped to English zoos. The National Farmers Union said it would ask the government to send in troops to unload cargo and get the docks operating again.

The State

A group of independent Democrats led by Chicago Ald. William Slinger and the Rev. Jesse Jackson said it intends to continue the delegate challenge to forces led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. The challenge focuses on six Illinois representatives to the Democratic National Committee who were elected with the help of Daley and his followers during a caucus of the state's delegation to the national party convention at Miami Beach.

The War

Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving toward the market town of Kompong Trabek in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak — the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said the United States will not halt its bombing campaign in North Vietnam until Hanoi ends its invasion across the Demilitarized Zone.

The Market

Stocks scored a slight gain as a late flurry of buying activity among glamor issues capped a mixed, sluggish trading pattern on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average moved ahead 1.36 to 953.12 as advances led declines 714 to 667 among the 1,745 issues on the tape. Volume fell to 13,220,000. Prices finished mixed to slightly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Slain Barrington Hills Executive Was Upset: Landscaper

by DOUG RAY

Dan Palenske, a sandy-haired, part-time landscaper may have been the last person to talk to Barrington Hills executive Paul M. Corbett before he was murdered Friday night.

"I spoke to him at 7:25 that night," said Palenske. "He acted upset... or something, like he was shook up or drinking."

Palenske telephoned Corbett to apologize for not being able to work on the grounds Friday evening as Mrs. Corbett had requested.

"I was having a house full of people... so I couldn't do it," he said.

The 27-year-old man, who manages a service station in Arlington Heights during the day, and is a free-lance landscaper, mused on the chance he could have been at the scene during the mass murder Friday night. "She (Mrs. Corbett) asked if I could start that (Friday) night," he said. "But we had company so I told her no."

PALENKE HAD toured the manicured grounds of Corbett's Barrington Hills estate Friday afternoon with Mrs. Corbett. "It was about 4:30 and she came outside and showed me the work to be done."

They walked to the front of the grey-brick home atop a steep hill and also viewed landscaping behind the house near a large patio area. "I arranged to do it Sunday," he said.

Palenske had last worked for the Corbett family about two years ago, he said, and had done a series of lawn work for the family amounting to some $3,000 over the past five years.

He attended Northwestern Military Academy in Wisconsin with Corbett's stepson Anthony Boand and thus met the Corbett family. Boand discovered the gangland-style murders Friday when he returned a borrowed car to the family home at about 9:30. Gunned down were Corbett, 67; his wife Marian, 57; Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 65, sister of Mrs. Corbett, and Mrs. Corbett's daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara Boand, 22.

Attempting to secure another tree-trimming job at the Corbett home, Palenske visited the estate about a week ago. "I went to the door and someone opened an eye hole and then there was no answer," Palenske then placed his business card in the door and left.

He contacted the Corbetts again Wednesday to inquire about the landscaping work and they accepted the offer.

He strode the grounds with Mrs. Corbett Friday afternoon to find out the details of the $200 landscaping job and said he would do it Sunday, rather than Friday evening as she had suggested.

Palenske said he was contacted by a law enforcement agency yesterday morning and was scheduled to appear at the Barrington Hills police station to recount his Friday visit to the Corbett home.

HAVING LAST been inside the 14-room mansion about four years ago, Palenske recalled "it was gorgeous... Mr. Corbett brought out a steak and offered it to me after I finished work."

His landscaping duties enabled him to know casually most of the wealthy homeowners on Bateman Circle where Corbett and a dozen or so other executives lived. "Mr. Corbett was up on business... others said do the work while you can but he wanted it done right away," Palenske said. "The people who live up there seem overly nice," he added.

Dan Palenske's recollection of that sunny Friday evening, he said, will ever be clear. "I just wonder," he added, "what would have happened if I would have been there working."

Study Retention Basin Uses With Eye On Safety

The Palatine Environmental Control Board (ECB) is undertaking a study of the present and potential uses of retention basins in the village.

The matter has been considered previously, but discussion was renewed recently with the death of a 16-year-old Palatine youth who drowned after saving two children whose raft was drifting in Lake Louise.

Richard A. Dawson, Palatine environmental health director, said yesterday the ECB study will focus on safety hazards posed by the numerous retention basins in Palatine.

HE ESTIMATED there are "at least 12 or 15" large basins in the village, which are easily accessible to children.

The retention ponds are provided by developers, in accordance with village ordinance, to retain storm water.

Dawson said that in many cases, the ponds also could be used for recreation, if proper safety precautions were provided.

The ECB will take water samples this week, he said, to determine the bacterial content of the various basins. The group also will study the effect of salt and other contaminants which drain into the basins, Dawson indicated.

Palatine currently does not require that retention ponds be fenced, but Dawson said such an ordinance "is not inconceivable."

He described the ECB study as "a long-range kind of thing," but said it also could provide short-range effects, such as recreation, safety and mosquito control. Standing water is considered essential for the breeding of mosquitoes.

LWV Obtains 1,500 Petitions

Some 1,500 signatures have been obtained on petitions challenging the retention of Palatine Township government.

The Palatine League of Women Voters (LWV), which is leading the effort to put the issue on the Nov. 7 general election ballot, is attempting to obtain 2,000 signatures by Aug. 21. Some 1,710 signatures are required to place the item on the ballot.

The league contends that township government is outmoded and no longer necessary. Many of its functions have been taken over by other levels of government, notably municipalities, and the remaining functions could be better handled by other agencies, according to the LWV.

Both Township Supv. Howard I. Olsen and Town Clerk Ruth Ellen Blowney have indicated their opposition to the league's effort to dissolve the township.

Similar efforts are being undertaken in other townships by local League of Women Voters chapters, notably in Maine and Niles townships.

Cash, Camera Thieves Here

Contents of three autos in Palatine were the targets for thefts last week.

An 8-mm. movie camera and two automatic garage door openers were stolen from the auto of Mrs. Raymond Wilgen, 510 W. Sigwalt, Arlington Heights. The contents, valued at $230, were taken while the car was parked at 133 E. Palatine Rd.

Master keys to an apartment complex and tools worth approximately $180 were missing from Peter Sammers' car, at 245 W. Johnson, Palatine.

portedly taken after 9:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A tape deck, two speaker and two eight-track tapes were removed from his auto and the antenna broken, Richard Hillier, 1106 E. Paddock Dr., Palatine told police.

ONE OF THE OWNERS of Yoga Here 'n' Now, Jack Frankenthal, in Algonquin Plaza in Schaumburg, sits in the lotus posture, the most stable sitting position, which keeps the back perfectly straight. The women stretched out on the floor are in the corpse position, so called "because they are as good as dead." It is considered one of the hardest postures as it requires total relaxation. (See story and other pictures in Section 1, Page 2.)

3-Car Crash Is Fatal To Woman

A chain reaction involving three cars resulted in the death of a Palatine woman, Mrs. Bernice A. Vaughan, 549 Echo Ln., Friday afternoon.

The driver of the first auto in the chain, Mrs. Freddie J. Gill, 4700 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, turned onto Palatine Road from Winston Drive and struck the left rear side of an auto driven by Mrs. Barbara Rogner, 2305 N. Huron Ct., Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Rogner's auto went out of control, crossed the center line and struck the west-bound Vaughan vehicle head-on. Mrs. Vaughan, 49, died at Northwest Community Hospital. Her 13-year-old daughter, Reina, a passenger in the car, was treated and released.

Mrs. Rogner, alone in the car, is listed in fair condition at Northwest Community Hospital after sustaining cuts and bruises in the accident.

Palatine police ticketed Mrs. Gill for failure to yield the right of way at a stop sign intersection. A fourth car was damaged during the accident when flying debris from the Vaughan auto struck the window of a car on Frontage Road, driven by Maryirene H. O'Connor, 32 N. Linden, Palatine. No injuries in the O'Connor car were reported.

Regional Champs Beat Palatine All-Stars

The Palatine North Little League all-star squad was stopped in its drive for the regional championship last week, but its conquerors in the Elgin tournament went on to win the title.

Whitcap National, District 12 champs, downed the Palatine North troop 7-3 July 30 in Elgin. The new regional champs will play in the state championship tournament this week in Clear Ridge. The winner of the state championship will advance to the Little League World Series at Williamsport, Pa.

Model Home Looted

Nearly $2,200 in property was stolen from a Palatine model home at 1120 Topanga Ln., late Thursday night.

Palatine police report the burglars broke a rear window of the home to get inside. Drapes, lamps, tables and pictures were removed from the home, owned by Morwell Builders of Chicago.

THREE-AND-A-HALF year-old Jay Gould, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gould of 3100 Swallow Ln., and two-year-old Tammy Gajewski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Gajewski of 2604 Sigwalt, took top honors Saturday as the cutest 2 to 3 year olds in the Rolling Meadows Jaycees' CUTE KIDS Contest.

Boys And Girls Together

Cute Kids Named In Jaycee Contest

The Topp's parking lot on Kirchhoff Road in Rolling Meadows was the site of a beauty contest Saturday. But there was not the usual array of beauty queens in bathing suits. Half the entries were boys and all were 5 years old or under.

The event was the Rolling Meadows Jaycees' CUTE KIDS Contest, held in conjunction with the annual Jaycees carnival. There were two divisions of entrants, one for two and three year olds and another for four and five year olds. The winners — Tammy Gajewski, Jay Gould, Alison Young and David Andrew Wurfel — are in our photographs. Second place honors went to Dianne Cloper and Lance Andrew Maltby in the 2 and 3 year old division and to Kim Horcaer and David Tuegel in the 4 and 5 year old division. Third place winners were Lisa Wignall and Tony Gillig for the 2 and 3 year olds and Christine Vetterli and Joseph Miller for the older group.

Jesse James Strikes Again—At Library

Jesse James arrived at the Palatine Public Library this week, in legend if not in person. "The Life, Times and Treacherous Death of Jesse James" was originally published in 1882 by Frank Triplet, but it was so severely suppressed by the Missouri governor, who Triplett criticized in his book, that only nine copies exist today.

A new edition, edited by Joseph Snell, retains the original author's style and spelling, and is available at the library, 149 N. Brockway, Palatine.

Other new arrivals include "The Hapsburgs" by Edward Crankshaw, "The Romantic Challenge" by Sir Francis Chichester, and "Great Yachts" by Charles Feversham. A collection of photographs by Austin Post is featured in "Glacier Ice," with the text by Edward LaChapelle. "The Passion to Know," another recent addition to the library, was written by Mitchell Wilson.

Pedestrian Killed Crossing Rand Rd.

A Palatine Township man was killed over the weekend after being struck by a car while walking across Rand Road.

John C. Coatsney, 39, of 2275 Rand Rd., died Sunday at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

According to Illinois State Police, Coatsney was crossing Rand Road, about one-tenth of a mile south of Lake-Cook Road at 11:15 p.m. Saturday, when he was hit by a northwest bound car driven by Anthony D'Alaird, 18, of 642 N. Hawk St., Palatine.

Police said visibility was poor because of heavy rain, and because of poor lighting in the area.

D'Alaird was not ticketed.

THESE TWO CUTIES were chosen Saturday as the cutest 4-year-olds in the Rolling Meadows Jaycees' CUTE KIDS Contest. They are David Andrew Wurfel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wurfel of 2400 Maple Lane, and Alison Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young of 2605 Sigwalt. First place winners in both contest divisions will receive free portraits.

The Big Question Is Why?

"The big question is: Why?" Police Chief Ralph L. Hummel said investigators would have to answer that question before they could find the killers of retired insurance executive Paul M. Corbett, his wife, stepdaughter and sister-in-law.

The four were shot in the head at close range Friday night in the 'Corbetts' $100,000 mansion in Barrington Hills.

Nearly three days after the slayings, Hummel said investigators had found no motive and had no suspects under questioning.

Lt. Jerry Harmon of the Cook County sheriff's police said officers were checking out a report that two young men tried unsuccessfully Friday afternoon to buy a .25 caliber pistol at a sporting goods shop in Woodstock, about 15 miles northwest of Barrington Hills. The operator of the shop said he refused to sell the gun because the men acted "suspicious."

POLICE RAN through the Chicago Police Crime Laboratory several sets of fingerprints taken from the pantry where the bodies — shot with a .30 caliber carbine and a .25-caliber pistol — were found.

Hummel said the check was routine and its results "negative so far."

Police said the apparent use of a rifle in the slayings triggered speculation that the family died at the hands of intruders who came to the home specifically to kill. That kind of weapon rarely is used in an armed robbery, investigators said.

Investigators said they found no forced entry, thus suggesting that the Corbetts may have known their killers and admitted them. The main burglar alarm system for the home had not been activated Friday, police said, but they noted that three hidden alarm buttons — one in the pantry, where the bodies were found — were "on 24 hours a day." No alarm had been sounded in the village police station, Hummel said.

SEVERAL FRIENDS and relatives of the victims took lie detector tests during the weekend. Police said all passed the tests.

Killed with Corbett, 47, were his wife Marian, 57, her daughter by a former marriage, Barbara S. Boand, 22, and Mrs. Corbett's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Deery, 60, who had gone to the home for a visit.

'Excellent' Chance To Win Election, Says John Nimrod

by BOB LAHEY
Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll was a cinch for reelection in the eyes of the man who will replace him as the republican candidate for the state Senate in the November election.

Niles Township Republican committeeman John Nimrod, selected last week by fellow committeemen to replace the retiring Carroll on the GOP ticket, declared yesterday that his chances of election were "excellent."

Nimrod faces Democratic newcomer Thomas W. Flynn of Niles, an employee of the Chicago Planning Department, in the election for the Senate.

"The voters in this district certainly would have reelected Bill Carroll," Nimrod said. He added that the question of the November election is one of political philosophy, rather than of any specific issue.

"The question is one of adequate representation of the area," he said. ANY REPUBLICAN with identity among the voters who espouses a conservative viewpoint similar to Carroll's is a sure bet for election, according to Nimrod.

"I will present my candidacy as a Republican, and I believe the people of the

by JERRY THOMAS
For 30 years, Miss Susan McCann of Schaumburg, in her role as a school principal, has had to deal with other people's children.

Her years of experience don't make her an expert, she said, "But maybe I'm doing something right; my pupils and I have a mutual respect for one another."

As Miss McCann walked the empty corridors of Francis Campanelli School where she begins her seventh year as a principal with Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54, she gave this recipe for turning out a good student.

"LOVE THEM and season that love with good common sense, two things every child is in dire need of," she said.

Miss McCann approves of Dist. 54's curriculum and calls the open court reading method and creative writing classes for elementary students stimulating educationally.

"You could call me a traditional educator. I don't believe in a lot of excessive behavioral freedom for young children within these school walls. I run a tight ship," said Miss McCann. "However, curriculum wise, I believe each child should be given the freedom to explore and grow freely," said the principal.

Campanelli's classes are empty of students this summer, but the school is still a beehive of activity. Miss McCann, who works all year, takes interruptions in stride as she talks to parents of new students and confers with some of her teachers.

"School might be out for the summer, but many of my teachers come in and set up their classes early," she said.

Kindergartners from Campanelli will attend class at Thomas Dooley, Blackhawk and Everett Dirksen Schools and two of the school's sixth grade classes will be at Jane Addams Junior High School. Miss McCann said parents in the area have been understanding about the busing.

"We just don't have room at Campanelli, but things are getting better," she said.

"FOUR YEARS AGO we were on double shift. In about two years this school should be able to handle all the youngsters here," said Miss McCann. "The neighborhood is stabilizing and not too much new construction is coming in," she added.

Miss McCann, a Chicago girl, came to Schaumburg to live several years ago and shares her home with "Stormy," a boxer dog. "Woodfield in Schaumburg is a favorite spot of the principal's."

"The shopping center has something for everyone and walking around the place is a favorite form of recreation for me," said Miss McCann. Travel and studies abroad usually take up her vacation time, she said.

A gardening and landscape course at Harper College didn't turn Miss McCann into an avid gardener "but it taught me a lot and I was able to make my garden interesting. I just don't like working in the yard every day," she said.

Miss McCann achieved a master's degree in music and administration and taught music in schools and at the American Conservatory for several years before becoming a principal.

FINISHED WITH THEIR last minute packing, three Rolling Meadows girls took off Friday for a two-week cultural exchange program in Mexico. The girls, from left, Sue Swenson, Kim Pearson and Pam Bailey, will spend the trip visiting cities representative of different facets of Mexican culture. The girls are traveling with 17 other Chicago area Camp Fire Girls and eight adults.

Bill Authorizing Funds For Nike Site Housing OK'd

Another step was taken Friday to earmark 165 units of Naval housing for the Arlington Heights Nike Base as the U.S. Senate passed the Military Construction Authorization bill of 1973.

The bill authorizes funds for the construction of 350 housing units in the Great Lakes-Glenview Naval Complex, which includes the Arlington Heights Nike Base.

According to Comdr. Karl Mueller, public works officer at Glenview Naval Air Station, 165 of the 350 units will be constructed at the Arlington Heights base. He said the Navy hopes to break ground for the project in April, 1973 and have the units ready for occupancy in April, 1974.

If the units are constructed, hopes for making a regional park out of the area would be nearly extinguished, according to Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation of the Arlington Heights Park District.

The park district has been instrumental in attempting to create a regional park out of 98 of the 137 acres at the site, which includes all 51 Navy acres. Sen. Charles Percy, who gave his endorsement to the park program in January, was absent when the authorization bill was voted on Friday.

The final vote on the bill was 67 to 1, with Sen. Adlai Stevenson voting for the bill. The measure passed the House on July 20 by a vote of 371 to 17.

According to Sen. Percy's office, the appropriations bill to finalize the project will be voted on in late August or early September.

The Navy housing plan for the local site dates back several years in its original version. Four years ago the Navy proposed the construction of housing for its personnel in Arlington Heights, but last minute shifts in government funding delayed the project. Navy spokesmen say the local housing proposal was never abandoned, only delayed pending authorization from Congress for the expenditure of funds.

Approve Memorial

Establishment of a memorial book shelf at the Rolling Meadows Public Library has been approved by the library board.

The memorial shelf will house books presented to the library in memory of a person or event.

CORN HUSKERS were kept busy Saturday as more than 2,700 people showed up for the 15th annual corn fest at the Community Church in Rolling Meadows. The corn fest features "all the corn you can eat" and hamburgers. Proceeds from the Corn Fest, which is sponsored by the Men of the Yoke, will be used for improvement of the church property.

Council To Act Tonight On LWV Plan

The Rolling Meadows City Council is expected to take action tonight to either endorse or oppose the proposed League of Women Voters (LWV) referendum on the dissolution of Palatine township government agencies.

A resolution on the issue will be presented to the council, but it is not yet known if the aldermen will merely vote on the concept of the referendum or if they will be asked to take a stand for or against township government.

The LWV asked the city council last month to take some kind of stand on the issue.

Basically the league is trying to get a spot on the November ballot in order to ask township residents if they feel township government should be retained or phased out.

Mayor Rosland Meyer feels this is "an important issue" and one on which the city's elected officials should take a position.

Rolling Meadows Man Charged With Exposure

A Rolling Meadows man, 34, last week was arrested by Des Plaines police after he allegedly exposed himself to two 16-year-old girls.

According to reports, Donald R. Brueckner, of 4718 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, allegedly exposed himself to the Des Plaines girls while he was sitting in his car in the 1000 block of Howard Street, Des Plaines.

The girls reportedly told police they were walking down the sidewalk when a man pulled his auto up to the curb and exposed himself. The girls wrote down the license number of the auto before running home and calling police.

Police said they traced the auto to Brueckner through the license number and that he admitted to the action when questioned by police.

Brueckner was released on $1,000 bond and scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook county circuit Court Aug. 24 at 1:30 p.m.

3-Car Crash Is Fatal To Woman

A chain reaction involving three cars resulted in the death of a Palatine woman, Mrs. Bernice A. Vaughan, 540 Echo Ln., Friday afternoon.

The driver of the first auto in the chain, Mrs. Freddie J. Gill, 4700 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows, turned onto Palatine Road from Winston Drive and struck the left rear side of an auto driven by Mrs. Barbara Rogner, 2306 N. Huron Ct., Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Rogner's auto went out of control, crossed the center line and struck the west-bound Vaughan vehicle head-on. Mrs. Vaughan, 48, died at Northwest Community Hospital. Her 13-year-old daughter, Reina, a passenger in the car, was treated and released.

Mrs. Rogner, alone in the car, is listed in fair condition at Northwest Community Hospital after sustaining cuts and bruises in the accident.

Palatine police ticketed Mrs. Gill for failure to yield the right of way at a stop sign intersection. A fourth car was damaged during the accident when flying debris from the Vaughan auto struck the window of a car on Frontage Road, driven by Maryvrene H. O'Connor, 32 N. Linden, Palatine. No injuries in the O'Connor car were reported.

The Nation

It will cost the nation $187.1 billion in this decade — an average of $100 a year for every man, woman and child — to control pollution, the government's annual report on the environment said. The Council on Environmental Quality's report said the nation's air is getting a little cleaner but water pollution is probably as bad as ever.

The Senate decisively defeated a proposal to outlaw private possession of pistols and revolvers. The vote was 84 to 7 against an amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to a bill to ban the sale of so-called Saturday Night Specials, cheaply made handguns that have no sporting purpose.

The Justice Department filed civil suits charging the city of Los Angeles

with discriminating in the hiring of firemen and the city of Montgomery Ala., with discrimination in public jobs. The two suits are the first to be filed under the 1972 Equal Employment Opportunity Act.

In the face of heavy mail from Congress and the public, the Justice Department's Internal Security Division is "looking into" antiwar statements made by Actress Jane Fonda in Hanoi to determine if she violated the 1940 Sedition Act.

House Democrats unanimously endorsed Sen. George McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as vice presidential candidate. The Democratic National Committee will formally nominate Shriver to the ticket today.

While British farmers warned they faced a critical shortage of animal feed, striking dockworkers called a temporary halt to their 11-day-old walkout to unload 15 rhinoceroses being shipped to England. The National Farmers Union said it would ask the government to send in troops to unload cargo and get the docks operating again.

The State

A group of independent Democrats led by Chicago Ald. William Singer and the Rev. Jesse Jackson said it intends to continue the delegate challenge to forces led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. The challenge focuses on six Illinois representatives to the Democratic National Committee who were elected with the help of Daley and his followers during a caucus of the state's delegation to the national party convention at Miami Beach.

The War

Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving toward the market town of Kompong Trabek in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak — the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said the United States will not halt its bombing campaign in North Vietnam until Hanoi ends its invasion across the Demilitarized Zone.

A Look At Schools: It's Quiet Now As Controversy Wanes

(Editor's Note: To many, credibility became an all-too-rare commodity in Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 this year. The controversy over the district's credibility was one that began early this year and stretched into the summer, fading down only with the appointment of Richard Percy as the new superintendent. In a two-part series the Herald examines the district's credibility problems and looks at the man many feel will solve these problems, Richard Percy.)

by KAREN BLECHA
It's quiet now in Mount Prospect Dist. 57. School is out, and the loud rumblings of resident discontent have apparently waned.

Three months ago, the picture wasn't so serene. School was in session, and many residents were openly hostile to school board members. They crowded into board meetings to act as watchdogs over the board they no longer trusted to make satisfactory decisions. As one PTA president put it: "The credibility gap between the board and the public was so big you couldn't jump across it."

The controversy erupted in January when Eric Sahlberg, then Dist. 57 superintendent, presented a 1972-73 staffing plan calling for program cutbacks as well as a 30-cent tax hike referendum. More than 300 came to a board meeting to protest the plan. Until then, some had complained about the district, but few had bothered to attend board meetings.

After Sahlberg's plan was unveiled, the situation grew worse. The board in a closed meeting drew up its own plans for staffing and the tax hike referendum. One plan, which board members insisted would be put into effect if the referendum failed, would severely cut non-academic programs as well as 22 teachers. The other, which would make few cutbacks, would become reality only if the issue passed.

MANY PEOPLE WERE dissatisfied with the plans and the board to such an extent that some even urged defeat of the referendum. The community showed its dislike for the proposed hike in defeating it by a margin of almost 3-1, the largest defeat in the district's history.

The issue came to a head once more when the board decided to hold a public hearing on staffing and reversed some of its previous decisions. Board members voted to add back some of the teachers and programs they promised would be cut if the referendum failed. And later, they decided to keep a proposed $150,000 expansion program for Fairview School under consideration, despite the more than $400,000 deficit that was predicted.

Adding to the controversy, the board found out in June the district might end up with a surplus instead of the enormous deficit board members were talking about in February. Although final 1972-73 budget figures are not yet in, board members know now they will receive an increase in state aid — a proposed increase they chose not to include in last February's financial projection.

Complaints during the controversy were frequent. Several PTA presidents said they felt the board was afraid to answer resident's questions. Jack Ronchetto, former board member said the board was unwilling to ask "hard questions" of the administration. Instead, he said, board members "ridiculed their critics and hid behind a feeling of a

Inability To Get Basin Work Done Saves $24,000

Mount Prospect's inability to get West Park Retention Basin work done by the contracted firm may have saved taxpayers $24,000, according to Village Engineer Leonard H. Dicke.

Village officials currently are attempting to have Rock Road Construction Co. complete the work called for in their contract by Sept. 1. At that time, the land will be turned over to the Mount Prospect Park District for landscaping.

Dicke said the village saved money by having its own public works crews remove dirt from the basin. Under the contract, such material was to be removed by Rock Road at 60 cents a cubic yard. An estimated 40,000 cubic yards have been removed this summer by village crews.

"It cost the people less because we have used our own trucks and men," Dicke said.

HOWEVER, the village does not have all the equipment needed to complete the basin work. Thus, it is pressing Rock Road to complete the basin outlet structure, drag the bottom of the basin, construct an island for the park district and spread a layer of blacktop soil.

Village Mgr. Robert J. Eppley summed up the village's position this way: "Rock Road really hasn't done much of anything."

The original contract, for about $50,000, was signed with Rock Road in 1970, according to Dicke. Under its terms, Rock Road was given a monopoly on use of the dirt taken from the basin. At the time, Rock Road officials foresaw several projects for which they could use the dirt.

But trouble developed in late 1971 when Rock Road failed to get some projects they had hoped for, Dicke said, and in early 1972 they asked for — and got — a one year's extension from the village on the work completion date.

Both Eppley and Dicke agree the extension was a mistake. Dicke explained that the last six months of the extension were unnecessary because it covered five months of wintry weather when no work could be done. "A six months extension would have been better," he said.

Eppley agreed, "You can't get tough on a contract that has not expired."

THE VILLAGE BEGAN using its manpower, Eppley said when they realized nothing was being done by the contractor. "We got worried as nothing was happening," he said.

With Rock Road unable to use the dirt, it became "unsuitable material" and thus subject to the cubic yard fee.

The five-acre retention basin is designed to help alleviate flooding in the Busse and Golf roads area of the village. Money for the adjacent 18-acre park (some $2.4 million) came from a park district bond issue passed in a February, 1969, referendum.

WALKING THE BEAMS, workmen check the partially completed roof of the addition at River Trails Junior High School in Mount Prospect. Construction is behind schedule on the $525,00 addition at 1000 Wolf Rd.

Dist. 26 officials expect a construction progress report at a school board meeting Aug. 15. Assistant Supt. James Retzlaff said the board would discuss what steps may be taken because of the delay.

School Board Officially OKs Budget

The Elk Grove Township District 59 Board of Education officially adopted its 1972-73 budget last night.

Adoption was made after 30-day display and opportunity for public hearing on the budget. No one offered testimony on the budget.

Total levies of $10,712,362 were approved by the board. Of this total, $279,851 is for the bonded interest fund which has to be approved by the county clerk. The board action in effect requests the clerk to approve the bonded interest levy.

This year's total tax rate is estimated at 0.251, down from last year's actual rate of 0.265. The tax rate is based on an estimated equalized assessed valuation of $402 million. The only change in the adopted budget was reduction of $19,424 for educational field trips revenue.

THIS REDUCTION was made by administrative recommendation after a policy recommendation from the policy committee. The district will now assume the cost of these field trips.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said that state aid for special education will offset revenue loss. Total state aid for the coming school year is figured at more than $3 million.

General state aid reflects both an increase under the new state aid to education bill and a decrease in special supplements since the district's student population is no longer growing by over 2 per cent yearly.

The district is planning to reduce its tax anticipation warrants by $50,000 from last year.

The education fund, which includes teacher and administrative salaries, is budgeted at $9,073,494.

A NEW TEACHERS' contract approved by the board calls for a total 6.8 per cent hike in salaries. The rate is figured as a 2.8 per cent cost of living hike and a four per cent increment based on education and experience.

Principal and assistant principal salaries were raised by 5.5 per cent.

Consultant and supervisor salaries were also raised 5.5 per cent. One new consultant position is being added for the coming school year.

Overtaken Truck Blocks Rte. 53

An overturned tractor-trailer truck blocked Rte. 53 traffic in Mount Prospect for over an hour yesterday.

The truck, operated by Gary Taylor, 20, of Gurnee, Jackknifed after it was struck on the side by an oncoming car which crossed over into the truck's lane, police said. The accident occurred shortly after 11 a.m. where Rte. 53 and Lincoln Street meet.

The only person hurt was the driver of the car, George Kouretsos, 22, of 910 Beau Dr., Des Plaines. He was released from Northwest Community Hospital after treatment for a cut finger.

Police theorize that Kouretsos, driving in the center northbound lane, crossed over and struck Taylor's truck, then veered to the right and struck a second truck travelling in the northbound curb lane. The driver of this truck, which was only slightly damaged, was Joseph Maycink, 37, of Chicago.

Police rerouted both north and southbound traffic because the truck blocked three lanes.

Police said Kouretsos was charged with driving too fast for conditions, crossing a yellow line and improper lane usage. He was released on $25 bond and will appear Sept. 6 in Mount Prospect Court.

Slain Barrington Hills Executive Was Upset: Landscaper

by DOUG RAY

Dan Palenske, a sandy-haired, part-time landscaper may have been the last person to talk to Barrington Hills executive Paul M. Corbett before he was murdered Friday night.

"I spoke to him at 7:25 that night," said Palenske. "He acted upset . . . or something, like he was shook up or drinking."

Palenske telephoned Corbett to apologize for not being able to work on the grounds Friday evening as Mrs. Corbett had requested.

"I was having a house full of people . . . I couldn't do it," he said.

The 27-year-old man, who manages a service station in Arlington Heights during the day, and is a free-lance landscaper, mused on the chance he could have been at the scene during the mass murder Friday night. "She (Mrs. Corbett) asked if I could start that (Friday) night," he said. "But we had company so I told her no."

PALENESKE HAD toured the manicured grounds of Corbett's Barrington Hills estate Friday afternoon with Mrs. Corbett. "It was about 4:30 and she came outside and showed me the work to be done."

They walked to the front of the grey-brick home atop a steep hill and also viewed landscaping behind the house near a large patio area. "I arranged to do it Sunday," he said.

Palenske had last worked for the Corbett family about two years ago, he said, and had done a series of lawn work for the family amounting to some $3,000 over the past five years.

He attended Northwestern Military Academy in Wisconsin with Corbett's stepson Anthony Board and thus met the Corbett family. Board discovered the gangland-style murders Friday when he returned a borrowed car to the family home at about 9:30. Gunned down were Corbett, 67; his wife Marian, 57; Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 65, sister of Mrs. Corbett, and Mrs. Corbett's daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara Board, 22.

Attempting to secure another tree-trimming job at the Corbett home, Palenske visited the estate about a week ago. "I went to the door and someone opened an eye hole and then there was no answer," Palenske then placed his business card in the door and left.

He contacted the Corbetts again Wednesday to inquire about the landscaping work and they accepted the offer.

He strode the grounds with Mrs. Corbett Friday afternoon to find out the details of the $200 landscaping job and said he would do it Sunday, rather than Friday evening as she had suggested.

Palenske said he was contacted by a law enforcement agency yesterday morning and was scheduled to appear at the Barrington Hills police station to recount his Friday visit to the Corbett home.

HAVING LAST been inside the 14-room mansion about four years ago, Palenske recalled "it was gorgeous . . . Mr. Corbett brought out a steak and offered it to me after I finished work."

His landscaping duties enabled him to know casually most of the wealthy homeowners on Bateman Circle where Corbett and a dozen or so other executives lived. "Mr. Corbett was up on business . . . others said do the work while you can but he wanted it done right away," Palenske said. "The people who live up there seem overly nice," he added.

Dan Palenske's recollection of that sunny Friday evening, he said, will ever be clear. "I just wonder," he added, "what would have happened if I would have been there working."

Eight local families returned this weekend from a week-long family camp at Conference Point at Lake Geneva, Wis. Sponsored by Community Presbyterian Church of Mount Prospect, the week's activities included study, recreation, and fellowship with other families.

Participating in the camp were Frank and Joyce Auwater, Norman and Kitt Elliott, Carl and Virginia Maas, Bill and Eileen McElligatt, Marvin and Lorna Metge, Charles and June Way, Amos and Jean Wilkie, and Bill and Claire Wright, along with their children.

Other campers were Betty Hokias, director of Christian Education at the church; Judy Paulus; Joyce Hemm-brough; and Ladeha Arunchochai, a student from Thailand who is staying with the Metges this summer.

Charlene Chang Gottlieb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Chang of 320 S. Maple St., has received the doctor of medicine degree from Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis.

Dr. Gottlieb graduated from Niles West High School in Skokie and received her B. A. degree from Radcliffe College, Cambridge, Mass. She is now interning at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis.

WITH UNCLE SAM . . . William Schiesser, 316 S. Hi-Lusi Ave., was commissioned as a U.S. Navy ensign upon graduation from Naval Officer Candidate School at Newport, R. I. He is currently assigned to the Service School Command at Great Lakes, Ill., where he teaches mathematics and physics. Schiesser is a graduate of Knox College in Galesburg, Ill.

James Lux has received his discharge from the U.S. Air Force. He completed his basic training at the Air Training Command's Lackland Air Force Base in Texas. He is the son of Mrs. Dale Williams of 506 N. Russell St.

Timothy Wald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Wald of 504 N. Maple St. in Prospect Heights, is serving with the 72nd field artillery group near Wertheim, Germany. A helicopter crew chief in the group's headquarters battery, Pfc. Wald was previously assigned to Fort Lewis, Wash., and Fort Rucker, Ala. He is a 1971 graduate of Hersey High School.

Michael Hirz, 311 N. Dale Ave., has completed the basic training phase of his service in the U.S. Army at Fort Polk, La. Now that he is back home, he will serve in the U.S. Army Reserves. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Hirz.

From Joe Demma, president of the Senior Citizens' Club of St. Raymond Catholic Church, comes the news that the club will receive its charter tomorrow afternoon. It will be presented by a representative of the United Catholic Charities of Metropolitan Chicago. Village mayor Robert Teichert has been invited to the ceremony.

Other club officers this year are Edna Bowler, vice president; Lucille Emmerring, secretary; and Frank Jachin, treasurer.

Joe says the club's meetings are open to any local resident 50 years or older.

CAMPUS HONORS . . . Wayne Meier, 747 S. Meier Rd., has received an award as the outstanding sophomore physics major at Western Illinois University. Kathleen Mueller, 221 N. Maple St., received a freshman chemistry award from the same university.

Howard Brasch was recognized as a Superior Scholar during the annual honors convocation at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. To receive this honor, a senior student must be in the upper three per cent of his class or have been on class honor lists each year.

Robert Bruhl, 618 Dresser Dr., has been elected a member of the NU Garde at Northwestern University in Evanston. NU Garde helps incoming students get acquainted with the school and sponsors other activities.

RESIDENTS IN Mount Prospect School Dist. 57 in the early months of 1972. More than 300 people views on staffing and a proposed 39-cent tax hike were quick to protest actions by the school board came to this board meeting in February to air their referendum.

A Look At Our Area's Schools

greater knowledge." That knowledge, he said, didn't really exist.

The board's reversal of its decision on staffing after the referendum also aroused feelings both pro and con. Many residents felt the reversal was good for the district. Others disagreed. Dawn Rebeck, co-chairman of the committee working to pass the referendum, said she felt the board made a mistake in reversing its decision.

"It would be hard to sell a referendum again after what the board did, although I feel they honestly believed their dire predictions," Mrs. Rebeck said.

Some people felt a lack of communication added to the rage of the controversy.

"We weren't getting honest communication in the past, and it finally came to a head with staffing and the referendum," said Lori Hellickson, past Lions Park PTA president.

MUCH OF THE credibility problem has been blamed on former Dist. 57 Supt. Eric Sahlberg, who left in July to become superintendent in Des Plaines Dist. 62. Sahlberg had been Dist. 57 superintendent for seven years.

He wasn't a public relations man and couldn't deal with people, some complained.

"He was certainly not an incompetent individual, but I think in this day and age a superintendent should be a public relations man," said former board member Leo Floros.

"He just couldn't mingle with the teachers," said David Metalar, teacher. Several principals indicated they felt Sahlberg was unable to communicate with those who worked under him.

Board members have landed Sahlberg and the job he did in the district, but some admit he may have had a "personality problem."

"Because of his reserved manner, maybe some people thought he was talking down to them and that he was cold," said Harrison Hanson, past board president. Robert Novy, current board president, said: "Maybe he didn't cow-tow to residents enough."

Board members don't agree with the other charges that came up during the last several months. Board member Edith Freund admitted the board made some mistakes.

"One of them was that we were too nice to the community who just didn't understand the scope of the problem," she said.

Mrs. Freund and Novy blame past school boards for the problems in the district, charging that former boards didn't cut staff expenditures when they saw a financial problem looming in the future. Novy said the referendum should have been tried at least a year ago.

"We were unpopular because we did what other boards declined to do," Novy said. "We had no choice." As Mrs. Freund put it: "We were just lancing the boil."

Novy admitted the board made mistakes in staffing decisions. He said the board probably took too much of the staffing decision away from the superintendent.

"We should have asked Dr. Sahlberg to come back with another plan, instead of drawing up our own," he said. "It looked to the public like we were disorganized and didn't document things."

Novy and other board members readily admit there is a credibility gap between the board and the public. But they say the board has narrowed that gap in the past few months.

"We had a public hearing on the budget which helped our credibility," said Michael Ward, a board member elected in April.

"One of the best things we did was to appoint Dr. Percy as superintendent," said Ward. Most people agree with Ward. Residents and teachers believe Percy is easy to talk to and will close the communication gap. Some see him as the answer to all of the district's problems.

"He has a way with people," said Floros. "If the board lets Percy run the district, he can be their savior." (Tomorrow: A profile of Richard Percy.)

'Excellent' Chance To Win Election, Says John Nimrod

by BOB LAHEY

Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll was a cinch for reelection in the eyes of the man who will replace him as the republican candidate for the state Senate in the November election.

Niles Township Republican committeeman John Nimrod, selected last week by fellow committeemen to replace the retiring Carroll on the GOP ticket, declared yesterday that his chances of election were "excellent."

Nimrod faces Democratic newcomer Thomas W. Flynn of Niles, an employee of the Chicago Planning Department, in the election for the Senate.

"The voters in this district certainly would have reelected Bill Carroll," Nimrod said. He added that the question of the November election is one of political philosophy, rather than of any specific issue.

"The question is one of adequate representation of the area," he said.

ANY REPUBLICAN with identity among the voters who espouses a conservative viewpoint similar to Carroll's is a sure bet for election, according to Nimrod.

"I will present my candidacy as a Republican, and I believe the people of the 4th District will prefer to be represented by a Republican," he said.

Nimrod ran for Congress in the 1968 Republican primary election in which U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane won the party's nomination, finishing seventh in a field of seven candidates.

He seeks to replace Carroll, a veteran of six years in the Senate who previously served 10 years in the state House of Representatives. Carroll, who said he will retire because of health problems, will finish out his current term in the Senate, which ends Jan. 1.

Nimrod was selected by township committeemen from the four townships included in the 4th District. In addition to himself, they include Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, Richard A. Cowen of Arlington Heights, and William Bringham of Wilmette.

School Boundary Change In Works For Jay, Frost

Attendance boundaries for Robert Frost and John Jay schools, both in Mount Prospect, may be changed for the coming school year.

James Ervitt, Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 superintendent, outlined the proposed changes in a letter July 26 to principals at Holmes, Dempster, Frost, Jay, Brentwood, Forest View and High Ridge Knolls schools.

The changes were outlined in the letter as:

"John Jay Area: Remove the DeMucci Apartment complex located along Golf Road and attach the area bounded on the east by Oakwood Drive, on the south by Palm Drive, (to Tamarack (Drive) and Tamarack (Drive) to Thornwood (Lane), and along the line of Thornwood Lane to Goebbert Road, and the west by Goebbert Road to Forest View School. Remove the area of Gate House and Village Green (apartments), the area west of Goebbert Road and south of Seeger Road and attach it to Forest View.

"Robert Frost (School) Area: Remove the area east of Linneman Road and east of a line described by the center of South Church Road from Linneman Road to Ash Drive, and then along the rear lot line of homes facing Lancaster Avenue to Golf Road. (This will detach all of Diamond Point (subdivision), all of the Huntington Commons (development), and all of Pickwick (housing area), plus some older homes)."

"ATTACH TO Brentwood (School) all the territory north of a line from Linneman Road along the center of Huntington Commons Road to Elmhurst Road."

"Attach to High Ridge Knolls (School) all territory east of Linneman (Road), south of the center line of Huntington Commons (Road), west of Elmhurst (Road), and north of Dempster (Street)."

The letter states, "All changes are effective August 15, 1972."

Free transportation will be furnished to the K-5 buildings from areas remote to the schools and where hazardous street crossings are involved.

Students who would shift to different schools may apply to stay in their present school under the district's open transfer policy. Under this policy, a student may ask to attend a school outside his attendance area.

Ervitt said that none of the children now attending Jay School and only about 20 children attending Frost School will be affected by the changed boundaries.

In the letter, Ervitt said, "I believe the junior highs will experience no change."

The changes were made in anticipation of residential construction now going on which will bring more students into the present attendance boundaries than the schools can handle.

Under the Illinois School Code, all changes in school boundaries must be approved by the school board. Ervitt said the proposed changes were an administrative decision. He said the school board had been advised of the proposed changes.

Paper Drive Raises $70; Another Set

Nearly eight tons of old newspaper were collected in a Boy Scout troop 153 July paper drive. The troop raised about $70 for the old newspapers which were then turned over to paper recycling plants.

Another drive has been scheduled for Aug. 28. Paper may be delivered to Gregory School, 409 E. Gregory St. in Mount Prospect from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Also, papers left on curbs will be picked up between Elmhurst and Mount Prospect Roads.

Persons interested in having papers picked up in other areas may contact Paul Pichal, CL 3-5492; Leonard Mosher, 258-8043, or Ed Melzner, 228-3824.

by DOUG RAY

Dan Palenske, a sandy-haired, part-time landscaper, may have been the last person to talk to Barrington Hills executive Paul M. Corbett before he was murdered Friday night.

"I spoke to him at 7:25 that night," said Palenske. "He acted upset . . . or something, like he was shook up or drinking."

Palenske telephoned Corbett to apologize for not being able to work on the grounds Friday evening as Mrs. Corbett had requested.

"I was having a house full of people . . . so I couldn't do it," he said.

The 27-year-old man, who manages a service station in Arlington Heights during the day, and is a free-lance landscaper, mused on the chance he could have been at the scene during the mass murder Friday night. "She (Mrs. Corbett) asked if I could start that (Friday) night," he said. "But we had company so I told her no."

PALENKE HAD toured the manicured grounds of Corbett's Barrington Hills estate Friday afternoon with Mrs. Corbett. "It was about 4:30 and she came outside and showed me the work to be done," he said.

They walked to the front of the grey-brick home atop a steep hill and also viewed landscaping behind the house near a large patio area. "I arranged to do it Sunday," he said.

Palenske had last worked for the Corbett family about two years ago, he said, and had done a series of lawn work for the family amounting to some $3,000 over the past five years.

He attended Northwestern Military Academy in Wisconsin with Corbett's stepson Anthony Board and thus met the Corbett family. Board discovered the gangland-style murders Friday when he returned a borrowed car to the family home at about 9:30. Gunned down were Corbett, 67; his wife Marian, 57; Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 65, sister of Mrs. Corbett, and Mrs. Corbett's daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara Board, 22.

Attempting to secure another tree-trimming job at the Corbett home, Palenske visited the estate about a week ago. "I went to the door and someone opened an eye hole and then there was no answer," Palenske then placed his business card in the door and left.

He contacted the Corbetts again Wednesday to inquire about the landscaping work and they accepted the offer.

He strode the grounds with Mrs. Corbett Friday afternoon to find out the details of the $200 landscaping job and said he would do it Sunday, rather than Friday evening as she had suggested.

Palenske said he was contacted by a law enforcement agency yesterday morning and was scheduled to appear at the Barrington Hills police station to recount his Friday visit to the Corbett home.

HAVING LAST been inside the 14-room mansion about four years ago, Palenske recalled "it was gorgeous . . . Mr. Corbett brought out a steak and offered it to me after I finished work."

His landscaping duties enabled him to know casually most of the wealthy homeowners on Bateman Circle where Corbett and a dozen or so other executives lived. "Mr. Corbett was up on business . . . others said do the work while you can but he wanted it done right away," Palenske said. "The people who live up there seem overly nice," he added.

Dan Palenske's recollection of that sunny Friday evening, he said, will ever be clear. "I just wonder," he added, "what would have happened if I would have been there working."

Bill Authorizing Funds For Nike Site Housing OK'd

Another step was taken Friday to earmark 165 units of Naval housing for the Arlington Heights Nike Base as the U.S. Senate passed the Military Construction Authorizations bill of 1973.

The bill authorizes funds for the construction of 350 housing units in the Great Lakes-Glenview Naval Complex, which includes the Arlington Heights Nike Base.

According to Cmdr. Karl Mueller, public works officer at Glenview Naval Air Station, 165 of the 350 units will be constructed at the Arlington Heights base. He said the Navy hopes to break ground for the project in April, 1973 and have the units ready for occupancy in April, 1974.

If the units are constructed, hopes for making a regional park out of the area would be nearly extinguished, according to Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation of the Arlington Heights Park District.

The park district has been instrumental in attempting to create a regional park out of 98 of the 137 acres at the site, which includes all 51 Navy acres. Sen. Charles Percy, who gave his endorsement to the park program in January, was absent when the authorization bill was voted on Friday.

The final vote on the bill was 67 to 1, with Sen. Adlai Stevenson voting for the bill. The measure passed the House on July 20 by a vote of 371 to 17.

According to Sen. Percy's office, the appropriations bill to finalize the project will be voted on in late August or early September.

Board Delays Fender Hearing

The School Dist. 25 board of education hearing on the dismissal of teacher John D. Fender was postponed until Aug. 22 last night in compliance with a request by Fender's attorney.

Atty. Edward Jackson contended that he had not had enough time to prepare the case and find witnesses.

"We have only had 19 days since the notice of the hearing, and out of 21 witnesses we have tried to contact, we have been unable to reach 16 of them," Jackson said. He blamed summer vacation schedules for his inability to reach potential witnesses.

Jackson also said that he doubted that he would be able to reach the witnesses until Labor Day and requested Sept. 21 as the hearing date. His motion to continue the hearing until that date was denied, however, on grounds that six weeks was an excessive amount of time to prepare the case.

CONTINUING THIS hearing until Sept. 21 is unreasonable, a few weeks would be a sufficient amount of time to prepare the defense," said Ralph Miller, attorney for the school board.

Jackson said he was not sure if two weeks was enough time. "We have no control over the witnesses," he said.

Attorneys for Fender also entered several motions in an attempt to delay the proceedings including contentions that:

—The types of charges are remediable, therefore the board has no jurisdiction in the matter.

—The hearing should be held before an impartial arbitrator in compliance with legislation that is pending.

—Fender's constitutional rights are being denied because there has been in-

My Chances Excellent, Says Nimrod

by BOB LAHEY

Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll was a cinch for reelection in the eyes of the man who will replace him as the republican candidate for the state Senate in the November election.

Niles Township Republican committeeman John Nimrod, selected last week by fellow committeemen to replace the retiring Carroll on the GOP ticket, declared yesterday that his chances of election were "excellent."

Nimrod faces Democratic newcomer Thomas W. Flynn of Niles, an employee of the Chicago Planning Department, in the election for the Senate.

"The voters in this district certainly would have reelected Bill Carroll," Nimrod said. He added that the question of the November election is one of political philosophy, rather than any specific issue.

"The question is one of adequate representation of the area," he said.

ANY REPUBLICAN with identity among the voters who espouses a conservative viewpoint similar to Carroll's is a sure bet for election, according to Nimrod.

"I will present my candidacy as a Republican, and I believe the people of the 4th District will prefer to be represented by a Republican," he said.

Nimrod ran for Congress in the 1968 Republican primary election in which U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane won the party's nomination, finishing seventh in a field of seven candidates.

He seeks to replace Carroll, a veteran of six years in the Senate who previously served 10 years in the state House of Representatives. Carroll, who said he will retire because of health problems, will finish out his current term in the Senate, which ends Jan. 1.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

It will cost the nation $187.1 billion in this decade — an average of $100 a year for every man, woman and child — to control pollution, the government's annual report on the environment said. The Council on Environmental Quality's report said the nation's air is getting a little cleaner but water pollution is probably as bad as ever.

The Senate decisively defeated a proposal to outlaw private possession of pistols and revolvers. The vote was 84 to 7 against an amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to a bill to ban the sale of so-called Saturday Night Specials, cheaply made handguns that have no sporting purpose.

The Justice Department filed civil suits charging the city of Los Angeles

with discriminating in the hiring of firemen and the city of Montgomery Ala., with discrimination in public jobs. The two suits are the first to be filed under the 1972 Equal Employment Opportunity Act.

In the face of heavy mail from Congress and the public, the Justice Department's Internal Security Division is "looking into" antiwar statements made by Actress Jane Fonda in Hanoi to determine if she violated the 1940 Sedition Act.

House Democrats unanimously endorsed Sen. George McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as vice presidential candidate. The Democratic National Committee will formally nominate Shriver to the ticket today.

The World

While British farmers warned they faced a critical shortage of animal feed, striking dockworkers called a temporary halt to their 11-day-old walkout to unload 15 rhinoceroses being shipped to England zoos. The National Farmers Union said it would ask the government to send in troops to unload cargo and get the docks operating again.

The State

A group of independent Democrats led by Chicago Ald. William Singer and the Rev. Jesse Jackson said it intends to continue the delegate challenge to forces led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. The challenge focuses on six Illinois representatives to the Democratic National Committee who were elected with the help of Daley and his followers during a caucus of the state's delegation to the national party convention at Miami Beach.

The War

Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving toward the market town of Kompong Trabek in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak — the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said the United States will not halt its bombing campaign in North Vietnam until Hanoi ends its invasion across the Demilitarized Zone.

The Market

Stocks scored a slight gain as a late flurry of buying activity among glamor issues capped a mixed, sluggish trading pattern on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average moved ahead 1.36 to 953.12 as advances led declines 714 to 667 among the 1,745 issues on the tape. Volume fell to 13,220,000. Prices finished mixed to slightly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

He Glides Through The Air With The Greatest Of Ease

Fifty years ago Jim Kendell would have been called one of those daring young men in their flying machines. Today he's one of thousands of enthusiasts promoting the exciting sport of sky soaring.

Kendell, who has lived in Arlington Heights for six years, was cited recently for soaring to an altitude of 35,000 feet over Pike's Peak in Colorado at a temperature approaching 55 degrees below zero.

The Diamond Altitude Award presented to him by the Soaring Society of America is one of the sport's most coveted trophies.

Besides the personal enjoyment he gets from powerless flight, Kendell is committed to training young people and is working currently with teenaged Civil Air Patrol cadets at a soaring club near Crystal Lake.

THE SECRET TO altitude flying is riding thermals, warm currents of air that rise from the ground like air bubbles in a glass of soda pop.

The Rocky Mountains are ideal for high altitude flights because strong thermal updrafts occur there when warm breezes are forced rapidly upward by the mountain wall.

The altitude record for glider flight is 46,000 feet, Kendell said, well above the heights at which most jets travel.

"On those flights you put on several thermal flight suits, take along a radio which won't work because it freezes, oxygen, a parachute, a rabbit's foot and a rosary," he said.

In addition to his licenses for piloting and instructing in glider planes, Kendell holds licenses for just about everything, including single and multiengine aircraft, seaplanes and even balloons.

He is a member of the Soaring Society of America, the Illinois wing of the Civil Air Patrol, the Chicago Glider Council, Sky Soaring, Inc., the American Aerostatic Club and numerous other aviation organizations.

He also holds a reserve officer's commission in the U.S. Air Force.

KENDALL, 35, traces his interest in flying back to his boyhood days in Dayton, Ohio, where, he recalls proudly, he delivered newspapers to Orville Wright.

"My mother used to tell me that he was a very famous man and I saved a whole stack of receipts with his signature on them," he said.

Kendell soloed in a glider at age 13 and has been flying ever since. He was graduated from Bradley University and later did graduate work at Roosevelt University. He is employed by the Enjay Chemical Co. in Des Plaines.

The gliders he loves and flies cost anywhere from $3,000 to $24,000. Most of today's models are made of fiberglass or aluminum, though earlier gliders were often made of wood and canvas.

Kendell is devoted to sky soaring and it is not surprising that his enthusiasm for the sport rubs off, not only on his students but on his 12-year-old daughter, Lora, as well.

"She'll get her glider license at 14," Kendell says confidently. And with her father for a teacher, she'll probably be a darn good pilot.

Probe Deaths Of Four

The Big Question Is Why?

"The big question is: Why?" Police Chief Ralph L. Hummel said investigators would have to answer that question before they could find the killers of retired insurance executive Paul M. Corbett, his wife, stepdaughter and sister-in-law.

The four were shot in the head at close range Friday night in the Corbetts' $100,000 mansion in Barrington Hills.

Nearly three days after the slayings, Hummel said investigators had found no motive and had no suspects under questioning.

Lt. Jerry Harmon of the Cook County sheriff's police said officers were checking out a report that two young men tried unsuccessfully Friday afternoon to buy a .25 caliber pistol at a sporting goods shop in Woodstock, about 15 miles northwest of Barrington Hills. The operator of the shop said he refused to sell the gun because the men acted "suspicious."

POLICE RAN through the Chicago Police Crime Laboratory several sets of fingerprints taken from the pantry where the bodies — shot with a .30 caliber carbine and a .25-caliber pistol — were found.

Police said the apparent use of a rifle in the slayings triggered speculation that the family died at the hands of intruders who came to the home specifically to kill. That kind of weapon rarely is used in an armed robbery, investigators said.

Investigators said they found no forced entry, thus suggesting that the Corbetts may have known their killers and admitted them. The main burglar alarm system for the home had not been activated Friday, police said, but they noted that three hidden alarm buttons — one in the pantry where the bodies were found — were "on 24 hours a day." No alarm had been sounded in the village police station, Hummel said.

SEVERAL FRIENDS and relatives of the victims took lie detector tests during the weekend. Police said all passed the tests.

Killed with Corbett, 87, were his wife Marian, 57, her daughter by a former marriage, Barbara S. Boand, 22, and Mrs. Corbett's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Deery, 60, who had gone to the home for a visit.

Board Delays Fender Hearing

adequate time to prepare a defense, and he has not been able to determine the extent of the charges against him.

All the motions were denied by the board on the grounds that the matters were discussed in an emergency federal district court hearing Thursday in which the judge denied the arguments.

FENDER WAS FIRED by the school board June 29 on charges of a continuing inability to exercise mature judgment in the classroom and a continuing pattern of cruelty and violence in relationships with students.

A language arts teacher at Miner Junior High School, Fender has also been charged with battery by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Calvert who allege that their daughter was beaten about the head by Fender.

Fender, president of the Arlington

Teachers Association, said that he is ready to wait the cases out. He is now in the real estate business, which he calls a true merit-pay job because "you must either sell or go broke."

"I know of a similar case in which a teacher fought a school board for eight years and won," he said.

Horizon Club Hosts Paper Drive Saturday

A paper drive will be sponsored Saturday by the Arlington Heights Horizon Club from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at three different locations in the village.

Drop boxes will be located at Park School, 306 W. Park, Patton School, 1616 N. Patton, and the First United Methodist Church, 1803 E. Euclid.

The 21 high school girls in the Horizon Club plan to use the money made on the paper drive to pay for transportation to their national conference in 1973.

Tickets Available For Ball Game Trip

Tickets are now available for an Arlington Heights Park District trip to White Sox Park to watch the annual Cubs - White Sox baseball game, which will leave Hasbrouck Park, 333 W. Maude, at 6 p.m. Aug. 14.

The cost of a general admission ticket plus bus transportation is $2.75, and sign up will be held at Frontier Park, 1933 N. Kennicott.

Alan Kane Gets Wings

Second Lt. Alan S. Kane, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kane, 1515 E. Central Rd., Arlington Heights, has been awarded his silver wings following graduation from U.S. Air Force navigator training school. Kane will be assigned to McCoy Air Force Base in Florida for flying assignments with the Strategic Air Command.

School Board Officially OKs Budget

The Elk Grove Township District 59 Board of Education officially adopted its 1972-73 budget last night.

Adoption was made after 30-day display and opportunity for public testimony on the budget. No one offered testimony on the budget.

Total levies of $10,712,362 were approved by the board. Of this total, $279,851 is for the bonded interest fund which has to be approved by the county clerk. The board action in effect requests the clerk to approve the bonded interest levy.

This year's total tax rate is estimated at 0.251, down from last year's actual rate of 0.255. The tax rate is based on an estimated equalized assessed valuation of $402 million. The only change in the adopted budget was reduction of $19,424 for educational field trips revenue.

THIS REDUCTION was made by administrative recommendation after a policy recommendation from the policy committee. The district will now assume the cost of these field trips.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administrative services, said that state aid for special education will offset revenue loss. Total state aid for the coming school year is figured at more than $3 million.

General state aid reflects both an increase under the new state aid to education bill and a decrease in special supplements since the district's student population is no longer growing by over 2 per cent yearly.

The district is planning to reduce its tax anticipation warrants by $60,000 from last year.

The education fund, which includes teacher and administrative salaries, is budgeted at $9,073,004.

A NEW TEACHERS' contract approved by the board calls for a total 6.8 per cent hike in salaries. The rate is figured as a 3.3 per cent cost of living hike and a four per cent increment based on education and experience.

Principal and assistant principal salaries were raised by 5.5 per cent.

'Clean Operation' Of Landfill Being Studied

Designs for making "a good clean operation" out of the Arlington Heights sanitary landfill are now in the works, according to Darryl Kenning, assistant village manager.

The landfill, was licensed to operate under a 1960 Department of Public Health permit. Since 1970, however, when landfill licensing was switched to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the landfill has not met the standards.

"Part of the problem is that the standards set by the EPA keep changing," said Kenning. EPA officials agree that their standards are in a state of flux.

"There is no divergence of viewpoints between EPA and village officials, however," Kenning said. "We both want a good clean landfill operation, we just have to get together to determine what it will take to do the job."

KENNING, ALONG with the village engineer and director of public works, went to Springfield last Thursday to discuss procedures to make the landfill conform to EPA standards. According to Douglas Andrews, manager of the permit section of the land pollution division of the EPA, ground water and gas monitoring devices are among equipment needed at the landfill.

"None of the solutions to the problems are extremely difficult or expensive to install," Andrews said.

Before the village installs any equipment at the site, however, the EPA will have to approve plans, Kenning said.

"We will do whatever is required to obtain an EPA permit," Kenning said.

According to Kenning, there has been no estimate of the cost of new monitoring equipment at the landfill, because a tentative list of the type of equipment has not yet been determined.

Muscular Dystrophy Carnival Set Today

Vivian Rudy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rudy, 122 N. Harvard Ave., Arlington Heights, will host a backyard carnival today to raise money for the fight against muscular dystrophy.

The carnival will last from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Rudy residence and will feature a bowling game, Bingo, a fortune wheel and bike rides for children 5 years old and under.

Parish School Signup Slated

Registration will begin this weekend for the first weekly parish preschool class at St. James Catholic Church in Arlington Heights.

The religious education program for three and 4-year-olds will begin early in September.

Parents may enroll their children on Saturday after the 5 p.m. Mass at the Parish Center or on Sunday from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the elementary school basement, 821 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

Tuition for the preschool program is $7 per year. Parents of the children play a key role in the educational classes, attending four meetings per year. The first parents meeting is set for Oct. 2.

Interested persons may obtain more information on the preschool classes by calling the St. James Religious Education Center at 394-3698.

FUELING UP for another inning, John Urban, 6, pauses for a little refreshment during a hot summer day's baseball clinic. There isn't much shade to offer comfort on a baseball field, and John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Urban, 251 Mohawk Tr., Buffalo Grove, seems content with the cool liquid.

Board To Inspect Tennis Construction Bids

The inspection of bids for the construction of an indoor tennis facility on park property near Forest View High School will be the highlight of the Arlington Heights Park District Board Meeting tonight.

The bids will be closed today. Therefore there will not be time to analyze them and award a contract tonight, according to Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation.

"We expect a bid will be approved at the Aug. 28 meeting," he said.

Acquisition of the Nike Base as a regional park will also be discussed at the meeting. A recent move by the U.S.

Navy to obtain housing at the Arlington Heights site could squelch plans to turn part of the base into a park.

In January mayors and park district officials from the area obtained the endorsement of Sen. Charles Percy for turning the site, located along Central Road, into a park.

"We hope to pass a resolution tonight, much like the one that was passed in 1965," said Thornton.

In the fall of 1966 Naval housing was first proposed for land at the base. The proposal fell through, however, when Naval funds were needed more urgently on another project.

At the time, however, the park passed a resolution citing the urgent need for open space "to assure a decent living environment . . . and curb suburban sprawl." According to the resolution, "The proposed housing would destroy one of the few remaining natural resources in the community and cause congestion and overcrowding."

11 Arrested In Marijuana Case

Eleven persons, including seven juveniles, were charged with possession of marijuana early Monday after Arlington Heights police received a telephone complaint of a loud party.

Police say they confiscated 2.5 grams of marijuana, several pipes apparently used for smoking marijuana, and a collection of amphetamine and barbiturate tablets after they stopped to investigate a party at 2315 E. Lillian Ln.

Charged with possession of marijuana were John Hinch, 21, 2315 E. Lillian Ln., Arlington Heights; Thomas Cozart, 17, of 103 Elaine Circle East, Prospect Heights; Richard W. Buchanan, 20, no permanent address; and Steven G. Millham, 18, of 610 E. Crestwood Dr., Arlington Heights.

Buchanan was also charged with possession of amphetamines.

All four men were released on $1,000 bond and are scheduled to appear in Circuit Court Sept. 15.

The seven juveniles were referred to the police youth division for a station adjustment with their parents.

Park District Seeks Grid Teams, Players

Individual players or complete teams are welcome to join the fall football league of the Arlington Heights Park District.

It is expected that between 8 and 10 teams will play in the league. All games will be played on Sunday mornings. Registration fee per team, which should include about 15 men, is $100.

Sign up is being held at Olympic Park

City Hall Meeting Tonight

Wall Of Solid Opposition To MSD Plant Forms Cracks

Cracks apparently are forming in the wall of solid opposition put up by Des Plaines officials to a proposed Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) sewage treatment plant on the city's west side.

City council members and representatives of the MSD will meet tonight to discuss a sanitary district request for closing a part of Wille Road to facilitate construction of the plant at Oakton Street and Elmhurst roads.

The meeting, which will begin at 8 p.m. in city hall, 1412 Miner St., is expected to draw a large crowd of west side 8th Ward residents opposed to the 100 million gallon per day plant.

While both 8th Ward aldermen remain adamant in their opposition to the sewage plant and the proposed vacation of the city-owned portion of Wille Road, Mayor Herbert Behrel yesterday indicated the city should have an "open mind" on the Wille Road request.

FORREST NEIL, chief MSD engineer and one of the representatives expected tonight, said yesterday the sanitary district will build the plant whether it gets the road or not. Wille cuts through the middle of the 106-acre MSD-owned site at the southeast corner of Oakton and Elmhurst.

"It's not essential. It's desirable. We can build around it but it's more costly," Neil told the Herald. Mayor Behrel this week estimated the extra cost at $1 million.

In return for vacating the roadway, the MSD has offered to widen and improve Marshall Drive south of Oakton and to grant an easement that will allow the city to drain Oakton Street storm sewers onto the plant property.

"I would say that I think we ought to have an open mind on the subject," Behrel said yesterday. He pointed out the MSD intends to build the plant with or without the road.

"I'm not saying Wille Road should be closed or should remain open. The sanitary district is saying that if it is closed, it will be a little less costly for them to build the plant," the mayor said.

MSD officials had said in the past closing the road is essential and had threatened to sue if the city does not voluntarily give up the right-of-way.

BECAUSE OF THE massive improvements scheduled by the MSD for Higgins-Willow Creek, which runs through the site and drains much of the west side area, the plant will greatly reduce flooding in the city, Behrel said.

The city could continue to stall the plant by refusing to give up the road, the mayor said, "but in the meantime, we have many people, residents of the City of Des Plaines, who are suffering hardships from flooding, many of which could be alleviated, I believe, once this plant is in operation."

The mayor also disclosed yesterday that City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi has prepared a draft of a lawsuit against the MSD, which was authorized late last year after the city suffered several setbacks in legal efforts to halt the $48 million plant. Details of the suit were not disclosed.

The city lost a six-year court battle against the MSD early in 1971 when the Illinois Supreme Court ruled the plant does not have to conform to local zoning regulations or city ordinances.

Although Behrel apparently is now less than totally opposed to the sewage plant, 8th Ward aldermen Robert Michaels and Alan Abrams say the city should refuse to give up Wille Road and continue to battle the MSD.

"I don't have an open mind on the subject. My mind is simply that I don't want the sewage treatment plant there and the city," Behrel said.

1,450 Protest Overpass Plan

Petition Opposes Forest Land Use

The chairman of a Des Plaines citizen's group yesterday presented the Cook County board with more than 1,450 signatures of Des Plaines residents opposed to the use of county forest preserve land to solve the city's traffic problems.

Burt Kosmen, 709 River Rd., chairman of the Citizens' Action Committee, presented the signatures opposing "any infringement of public lands."

In presenting the petition, Kosmen encouraged the county commissioners, sitting as the forest preserve board, to support the position of the forest preserve administrative staff in refusing to provide district land to the city. The city had requested the land for its plans to construct an overpass connecting River Road and Miner Street and a bridge connection for Dempster and Thacker streets near the river.

PREVIOUSLY the forest preserve administration rejected a request by the city for the land for the overpass. Both projects are considered essential by many officials to the success of plans for the redevelopment of the city's downtown area.

Kosmen told the commissioners he and the residents who signed the petition were opposed to the use of county land because the projects would create traffic, pollution and safety hazards and would infringe on lands designated for public recreational use.

IN ADDITION, Kosmen said, the residents object to a proposed north-south connection of Mill Street and River Road on forest preserve land.

"The Mill-River 33-foot forest preserve strip to connect these streets is totally unacceptable," Kosmen told the commissioners. "The land was never intended for that purpose. It would detract from the present 'Sleepy Hollow' atmosphere which I enjoyed as a boy and which I hope countless others boys will enjoy."

In regard to the proposed overpass of River Road over Miner Street and the Chicago & North Western Ry. tracks, Kosmen said, "It is obvious to a layman's inspection that all this 'Rube Goldberg's creation does is to carry the traffic over the North Western Railroad and move the bottleneck one block south."

FOREST PRESERVE Commission chairman George W. Dunne told Kosmen the petition and his remarks would be referred to the forest preserve district staff and the Citizen's Advisory Committee for further study and review.

Arthur Janura, forest preserve superintendent, recently said the request for the Mill-River connection was "flatly rejected" because the city can obtain private land west of the forest preserve to use for the connection. A city request for a second piece of land, needed for the Dempster-Thacker connection was also denied because it would isolate 1.8 acres of forest preserve land, officials said.

The overpass and the Dempster-Thacker connection are designed to relieve massive rush-hour traffic congestion in the downtown area. The plans to reduce the congestion and therefore make the downtown area more attractive for shoppers are part of an overall program for redevelopment, sponsored by the city and private business groups.

The Illinois Division of Highways has refused to grant funds for the overpass portion of the plan unless the Dempster-Thacker bridge is included — a connection the state feels is needed to reduce the traffic congestion.

Council To Get City Hall Plans

The Des Plaines City Council last night voted to complete plans for a new eight-story city hall building, authorizing preparation of architectural designs for the structure both with and without a basement Civil Defense center.

The $1.7 million building, to be constructed in partnership with a private developer, under a proposed condominium ownership arrangement, would be at 1422-24 Miner St., east of the present municipal building.

In giving the go-ahead for final architectural plans, the council apparently left itself open to make final decisions at some future date on the condominium ownership concept and on the fallout shelter-Civil Defense center.

The shelter, by requiring construction of an otherwise unused basement, would add an estimated $188,000 to the construction cost. It would receive 50 per cent financing through federal-state Civil Defense programs, with the remaining half paid by the city.

FOUR FLOORS OF the building would be owned by the city and four by Smith-Pipenhagen, Inc., the private developer, under the proposed condominium plan.

City officials have indicated the fourth city-owned floor initially would be virtually empty.

Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st), head of the council's buildings and grounds committee, said the extra cost of the shelter is "a buy at this rate." The city will seek bids for construction both with and without the shelter. The federal state Civil Defense program would pay half of the extra cost, Szabo said.

The shelter, designed as a communications and operations center for time of extreme emergency, was questioned by Ald. Charles Bolek (3rd), who said he wanted to reserve the opportunity to vote again on it at some future date.

"I'm not particularly in favor of that in view of the many other expenditures that we have and th many other expenses that we are taking on," Bolek said.

ALD. ROBERT MICHAELS (8th) questioned the proposed condominium arrangement but joined the other council members in authorizing final plans when it was agreed the city could still back out of the uncompleted agreement in the future.

In other action, the council formally approved purchase of one of nine properties that will be used for parking facilities under a recently passed $825,000 revenue bond issue.

The site, a strip of Chicago and North Western Railway right-of-way north of Ellinwood Street between Lee and Pearson Streets will cost $72,500. City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi said. The parking project is planned as part of efforts to redevelop the downtown business district.

HE SAID THE purchase had been delayed because the C&NW, which was negotiating with other buyers for portions of the downtown right-of-way west of Lee Street and east of Pearson, had wanted to sell the right-of-way parcels in a package.

The council also voted to accept Mayor Herbert Behrel's choice of former Ald. Robert Hinde to replace Ald. Morgan O'Brien (4th), who died July 9. Hinde, who held the other Fourth Ward seat until resigning last year, was given O'Brien's committee posts, including chairmanship of the streets and traffic committee.

Pediatrics Academy Accepts Dr. Shakibi

Dr. Jami G. Shakibi, of 3923 Knight St., Des Plaines was recently elected to the American Academy of Pediatrics at its spring session in San Diego, Calif.

The academy is the Pan-American Association of Physicians certified in the care of infants, children and adolescents. The academy now has approximately 13,500 members.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

It will cost the nation $187.1 billion in this decade — an average of $100 a year for every man, woman and child — to control pollution, the government's annual report on the environment said. The Council on Environmental Quality's report said the nation's air is getting a little cleaner but water pollution is probably as bad as ever.

The Senate decisively defeated a proposal to outlaw private possession of pistols and revolvers. The vote was 84 to 7 against an amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to a bill to ban the sale of so-called Saturday Night Specials, cheaply made handguns that have no sporting purpose.

The Justice Department filed civil suits charging the city of Los Angeles

with discriminating in the hiring of firemen and the city of Montgomery Ala., with discrimination in public jobs. The two suits are the first to be filed under the 1973 Equal Employment Opportunity Act.

In the face of heavy mail from Congress and the public, the Justice Department's Internal Security Division is "looking into" antiwar statements made by actress Jane Fonda in Hanoi to determine if she violated the 1940 Sedition Act.

House Democrats unanimously endorsed Sen. George McGovern's choice of Sargent Shriver as vice presidential candidate. The Democratic National Committee will formally nominate Shriver to the ticket today.

The World

While British farmers warned they faced a critical shortage of animal feed, striking dockworkers called a temporary halt to their 11-day-old walkout to unload 15 rhinoceroses being shipped to English zoos. The National Farmers Union said it would ask the government to send in troops to unload cargo and get the docks operating again.

The State

A group of independent Democrats led by Chicago Ald. William Singer and the Rev. Jesse Jackson said it intends to continue the delegate challenge to forces led by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley. The challenge focuses on six Illinois representatives to the Democratic National Committee who were elected with the help of Daley and his followers during a caucus of the state's delegation to the national party convention at Miami Beach.

The War

Three thousand Communist troops backed by a huge force of 30 Russian-built tanks were reported moving toward the market town of Kompong Trabek in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak — the gateway to South Vietnam's strategic Mekong Delta.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said the United States will not halt its bombing campaign in North Vietnam until Hanoi ends its invasion across the Demilitarized Zone.

The Market

Stocks scored a slight gain as a late flurry of buying activity among glamor issues capped a mixed, sluggish trading pattern on the New York Stock Exchange. The Dow Jones industrial average moved ahead 1.36 to 563.12 as advances led declines 714 to 667 among the 1,745 issues on the tape. Volume fell to 13,220,000. Prices finished mixed to slightly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Oakton Officials Face New Battle For Campus Site

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Officials at Oakton Community College once again are faced with an uphill fight to obtain a piece of property they have picked out for a permanent campus.

The college this spring gave up efforts to buy a vacant cemetery site in Niles after opposition from citizens groups, the Illinois Junior College Board and the owner, the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese, proved to be too much to overcome.

Last week, the Oakton board of trustees announced its new choice — a 52-acre site on Beckwith Road in Morton Grove now occupied by a horse farm and several single-family residences.

Slain Exec Was Upset: Landscaper

by DOUG RAY

Dan Palenske, a sandy-haired, part-time landscaper may have been the last person to talk to Barrington Hills executive Paul M. Corbett before he was murdered Friday night.

"I spoke to him at 7:25 that night," said Palenske. "He acted upset . . . or something, like he was shook up or drinking."

Palenske telephoned Corbett to apologize for not being able to work on the grounds Friday evening as Mrs. Corbett had requested.

"I was having a house full of people . . . so I couldn't do it," he said.

The 27-year-old man, who manages a service station in Arlington Heights during the day, and is a free-lance landscaper, mused on the chance he could have been at the scene during the mass murder Friday night. "She (Mrs. Corbett) asked if I could start that (Friday) night," he said. "But we had company so I told her no."

PALENSEK HAD toured the manicured grounds of Corbett's Barrington Hills estate Friday afternoon with Mrs. Corbett. "It was about 4:30 and she came outside and showed me the work to be done."

"They walked to the front of the grey-brick home atop a steep hill and also viewed landscaping behind the house near a large patio area. 'I arranged to do it Sunday,' he said.

Palenske had last worked for the Corbett family about two years ago, he said, and had done a series of lawn work for the family amounting to some $3,000 over the past five years.

He attended Northwestern Military Academy in Wisconsin with Corbett's stepson Anthony Board and thus met the Corbett family. Board discovered the gangland-style murders Friday when he returned a borrowed car to the family home at about 9:30. Gunned down were Corbett, 67; his wife Marian, 57; Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 65, sister of Mrs. Corbett; and Mrs. Corbett's daughter by a previous marriage, Barbara Board, 22.

Attempting to secure another tree-trimming job at the Corbett home, Palenske visited the estate about a week ago. "I went to the door and someone opened an eye hole and then there was no answer," Palenske then placed his business card in the door and left.

He contacted the Corbetts again Wednesday to inquire about the landscaping work and they accepted the offer.

He strode the grounds with Mrs. Corbett Friday afternoon to find out the details of the $200 landscaping job and said he would do it Sunday, rather than Friday evening as she had suggested.

Palenske said he was contacted by a law enforcement agency yesterday morning and was scheduled to appear at the Barrington Hills police station to recount his Friday visit to the Corbett home.

HAVING LAST been inside the 14-room mansion about four years ago, Palenske recalled "It was gorgeous . . . Mr. Corbett brought out a steak and offered it to me after I finished work."

His landscaping duties enabled him to know casually most of the wealthy homeowners on Bateman Circle where Corbett and a dozen or so other executives lived. "Mr. Corbett was up on business . . . others said do the work while you can but he wanted it done right away," Palenske said. "The people who live up there seem overly nice," he added.

Dan Palenske's recollection of that sunny Friday evening, he said, will ever be clear. "I just wonder," he added, "what would have happened if I would have been there working."

Cyclist's Death Ruled Accidental

A Cook County Coroner's jury last week ruled accidental the death of a Northbrook youth, 17, who died Sunday from injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident last week.

James Reddington, 2147 Scotchpine, Northbrook, died last Sunday at Holy Family Hospital from head injuries. According to reports, Reddington was driving a motorcycle in the rear lot of Miller Supply Co., 1367 Golf Rd., Des Plaines, Thursday when the motorcycle crashed into a loading dock. The motorcycle reportedly was going 20 m.p.h. at the time of the accident.

At the meeting when the announcement was made, Paul Gilson, Oakton trustee and head of the site selection committee, summed up what may be the feeling of other college officials on the Morton Grove location.

"WE'VE DONE the best job we could possibly do without waiting 10 years to select a site," Gilson said.

The site's good points, are many, according to college officials:

—It is centrally located within Oakton's Maine Township-Niles Township district and easily accessible. Of the three next best sites, two were in the extreme northwest corner of Maine Township and the third, at Milwaukee Avenue and the Tri-State Tollway, was entirely outside the college district.

—Construction of the campus will involve relatively small developmental costs, such as site grading or drainage facilities. In addition, utilities are available and can be easily extended to the site.

—Beckwith Road, which runs through the middle of the proposed campus, has already been shown in surveys to need widening because of increased traffic in the area. If improvements to the road have been planned, those plans could probably be tailored easily to meet the college's traffic circulation needs.

—The adjacent forest preserve lands on the south and east would provide a recreation and green-space area for the campus.

BUT THE difficult task of obtaining the needed land may be complicated by several factors, including:

—Possible community opposition. The site is one of the few open areas remaining in Morton Grove, according to Village Administrator Fred Huber. In addition, its 52-acre size, which includes a two-acre pond, is the minimum area for an Oakton campus, according to a college consultant. The relatively small size will require higher buildings than would otherwise have to be constructed on a larger campus, something that may also prompt community opposition.

—Multiple ownership. In addition to the DeLain Horse Farm, 5531 Beckwith, there are a number of individually owned homes on the site, which will no doubt complicate purchase negotiations.

Neil King, college real estate consultant, Friday told the herd that most of the seven owners of property included in the Beckwith site are not interested in selling their land to the college. He said talks with the Hubert Silberman family, owners of the DeLain farm, have been going on for some time through their lawyers, and other property owners included in the site have been notified. King said the DeLain farm comprises from 65 to 70 per cent of the total site.

King said that of the houses located on the site, four are north of Beckwith Road and the rest are to the south. The west boundary of the site is Nashville Avenue, the north boundary is the Eldorado housing subdivision, Narragansett Avenue is the east boundary and the forest preserve and Commonwealth Edison right-of-way land comprise the southern boundary.

Formal negotiations with property owners will begin if the Illinois Junior College Board approves the site at its next meeting Sept. 15. Gilson said possible sites have been discussed with the state board "many times and in great detail."

Huber said some homeowners near the site have expressed concern that the open area around Beckwith Road may be turned into buildings. He said the area has been zoned by the village as residential housing but that schools are allowed to build in that zoning.

Huber said the village of Morton Grove has an ordinance that forbids buildings more than 45-feet high. Gilson said architects are planning to construct buildings on only six to 10 acres of the site and they will probably not be more than three or four stories in height, well within the village height limitation.

ALTHOUGH THE site is easily accessible from existing roads, Beckwith Road, which bisects the site, will probably have to be improved. A study recently made by a traffic research firm shows that Beckwith would probably have to be widened whether or not the college was built there because of population growth in the area.

College trustees announced last November that the permanent campus would be built on a vacant 106-acre site at Maryhill Cemetery in Niles. The Archdiocese refused to sell and proceedings for a condemnation suit began. Community opposition and the state board's withdrawal of its approval helped stir a controversy that ended with the defeat of incumbent Board Pres. Milton Falkoff and a subsequent board vote to drop the suit.

Board Pres. LeRoy Wauck was reelected to the board last April for a one-year term on a campaign centered on getting a suitable site for the campus before his term expired.

THE BECKWITH Road property is among 23 sites given consideration by college officials since site investigations began two years ago. It is one of four sites which were under primary consideration in recent weeks.

According to Stanton Leggett, Oakton's educational planner, the new campus should be open by the fall of 1975. The Illinois Junior College Board suggests a maximum junior college enrollment which is equivalent to 6,000 full-time students. Leggett's enrollment projections show the college with 4,000 full-time students by 1980. The state board suggests that when the enrollment reaches 6,000 a new campus should be built.

Body Shop Owner Is Blue-Like Paint Job

Des Plaines police are looking for a freshly painted metallic blue 1967 Chevrolet automobile that was taken by its owner from a local auto body shop before the new paint job was paid for.

According to reports, an unidentified middle-aged man with a van dyke beard and gray hair left his auto at Ridge Motors body shop, 1533 River Rd., Des Plaines last week. Police said the $145 paint job was finished when the man returned Friday and drove from the body shop without paying.

Police said a check at the address given by the man as his home showed he had never lived there. Police doubt that the name he gave, John Harris, is right either.

Cameras Stolen

Cameras and camera lenses valued at $1,278 were stolen from the auto of a west side Des Plaines man yesterday.

Wayne Carge, 940 Beau Dr., told police his auto was parked in a lot behind his apartment. He said the burglary occurred sometime between midnight and 7:30 a.m.

According to reports, thieves used a coat hanger to reach through a side window on the auto and pull open the door.

'Excellent' Chance To Win: Nimrod

by BOB LAHEY

Sen. John W. (Bill) Carroll was a cinch for reelection in the eyes of the man who will replace him as the republican candidate for the state Senate in the November election.

Niles Township Republican committeeman John Nimrod, selected last week by fellow committeemen to replace the retiring Carroll on the GOP ticket, declared yesterday that his chances of election were "excellent."

Nimrod faces Democratic newcomer Thomas W. Flynn of Niles, an employee of the Chicago Planning Department, in the election for the Senate.

"The voters in this district certainly would have reelected Bill Carroll," Nimrod said. He added that the question of the November election is one of political philosophy, rather than of any specific issue.

"The question is one of adequate representation of the area," he said.

ANY REPUBLICAN with identity among the voters who espouses a conservative viewpoint similar to Carroll's is a sure bet for election, according to Nimrod.

"I will present my candidacy as a Republican, and I believe the people of the 4th District will prefer to be represented by a Republican," he said.

Nimrod ran for Congress in the 1968 Republican primary election in which U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane won the party's nomination, finishing seventh in a field of seven candidates.

He seeks to replace Carroll, a veteran of six years in the Senate who previously served 10 years in the state House of Representatives. Carroll, who said he will retire because of health problems, will finish out his current term in the Senate, which ends Jan. 1.

Nimrod was selected by township committeemen from the four townships included in the 4th District. In addition to himself, they include Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines, Richard A. Cowen of Arlington Heights, and William Bringham of Wilmette.

Sewage Plant Meet Tonight

this would be giving them something I don't want to give them," said Michaels when informed of Behrel's remarks.

ABRAMS LAST WEEK said he regards any lessening of opposition to the plant as "most unfortunate."

"It's not only an issue that's local to the west side of Des Plaines, the 8th Ward and its residents, one chiefly of environmental considerations, but in the long range view, it's an issue vital to the entire City of Des Plaines," said Abrams.

"My own personal view as an engineer is that it's going to give them serious limitations on that property if they are unable to close Wille Road," he said, declaring that the city should absolutely refuse to give up the right-of-way.

Abrams also said he can "envision" the MSD seeking additional land east of Marshall Drive to expand the plant in the future. An MSD plant in Hanover Park with a daily capacity of five million gallons, he said, now needs 200 acres of land. Because the Des Plaines plant would have a capacity 20 times greater, Abrams said, he believes the 105-acre property will prove too small.

He also said he will ask city council to urge Elk Grove Township, which also owns a portion of Wille Road near the plant site, to join the city in refusing to vacate any right-of-way.

Neil of the MSD said the Hanover plant requires more area because sewage solids are processed there. Solids from the proposed Des Plaines plant, he said, will be piped to another plant on Salt Creek near Elk Grove Village for processing.

IN ADDITION to Neil, Ben Sosewitz, MSD general superintendent, and several members of the district's legal staff will attend the meeting tonight, Neil said.

Both Abrams and Michaels also stressed that the plant would take away valuable industrial land from the city's tax roles. In prefacing his remarks yesterday, Behrel also noted that the MSD took more than 100 acres of "very fine" industrially zoned land off the tax roles.

"I don't think anybody in the city council will ever forgive them for that act, including me," the mayor said.

Maine GOP Oppose Abolition Of Township Government

The Maine Township Regular Republican Organization unanimously passed a resolution Friday opposing the abolition of township government.

The resolution came as a reaction to the township abolition movement led by the League of Women Voters. If the league can get 5,000 signatures on petitions it is circulating, the Nov. 7 ballot will include a referendum vote to abolish township government.

Republican committeeman Floyd Fulle acknowledged that a referendum to abolish township government was permitted by the 1970 Illinois Constitution. However, he said the legislature "failed to put in the law what happens after you abolish it."

Fulle said the county does not have "the money or the wherewithal" to take over voter registration or the temporary general assistance public aid system operated by the township.

Fulle said that while the abolition of the township would eliminate township taxes, it would mean increases in other taxes. Citizens in unincorporated areas would come to suburban municipalities for aid, he said, and Cook County government would want an increased tax levy to handle unincorporated areas.

Mrs. Richard D'Hondt, president of the Des Plaines League of Women Voters, said, "It's speculation on either side whether taxes would be increased."

Mrs. D'Hondt said Saturday that duties performed by the township government could be picked up by another existing government body. Whether an unincorporated area would depend on the closest municipality or the county "would depend on the township," she said.

If the referendum to abolish township government is on the ballot, she said, it will be up to the public to decide the issue. Asked what she thought the outcome might be, the league president said, "It is not a question of marshalling forces" to win. She said the league wanted only to advise the public.

Six Join Dietetic Internship Program

Six students are enrolled in the dietetic internship program this summer at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge. This is the sixth year the program has been offered. It provides practical educational experience in hospital dietetics for juniors and seniors in college.

Participating in the program are Susan Henley, Michigan State University; Rose Marie Holmes, Iowa State University; Cynthia Milner, Purdue University; Christine Nakonezny, Kent State University; Candace Nelson, Iowa State University; and Linda Staab, Mount Marty College, Yankton, S.D.

The program has been developed under guidelines of the American Dietetic Association. Students received planned experience in therapeutic and administrative clinical nutrition.

John Schaefer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Schaefer, 1558 Van Buren Ave., Des Plaines, has been named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Luther College in Decorah, Iowa. He is a junior at the college.

3 Trading Stamp Books, $26 Stolen

Three trading stamp books valued at $21 and $26 in cash were stolen from a Des Plaines home Saturday night. Burglars reportedly cut a hole in an outside window screen, then opened an unlocked window to enter a breezeway porch at the home of Edward Milke, 1649 Greenleaf Ave., Des Plaines.

Police said the thieves then kicked open a door leading from the Milke home to the porch. The stamps and cash were stolen from a bedroom, according to reports.

Theft Was 'Camp'

A tent, three flashlights, two pillows and a sleeping bag all valued at $35 were stolen from the backyard of a Des Plaines home over the weekend.

Earl Groves, 1992 Welwyn Ave., Des Plaines, told police the items, belonging to his daughter, were last seen Saturday morning.

Des Plaines Park District

Program Prepares Tots For Kindergarten

by ELEANOR RIVES

Sometimes the road that leads from crib to kindergarten is a little rocky for tender young feet.

In Des Plaines there is a nice, easy, inexpensive way for parents to help their young children, three and four years of age, bridge the gap from mama's skirts to the beginning of their formal education. It's called the Kindergarten Readiness program and it's provided by the Des Plaines Park District.

The program, now about to begin its second year, was tremendously popular with Des Plaines tots last year. All classes were filled to capacity with 70 3 and 4-year-olds participating in each of three sessions, and more on waiting lists.

Mrs. Jack Graham heads the program this year, with Mrs. Ronald Collier assisting her. Both women have had a great deal of experience in children's activities and in teaching. Mrs. Graham has served the Park District over the past seven years, always in personal contact with children.

THE PROGRAM aims to provide a safe and happy environment in which each child may share experiences to develop school readiness and increase his abilities for effective participation in kindergarten activities. It is designed to meet the needs of the pre-school child in the following areas:

—To promote reading readiness skills and teach simple math concepts.

—To develop interests in science, music, art, dance, poetry, literature, cooking and drama.

—To increase large and small muscle coordination and develop basic motor skills.

—To develop the use of the senses.

—To promote classification skills.

—To enhance the child's self-concept.

THE DAILY SCHEDULE will consist of free (but meaningful) play; group time, with songs, fingerplays and Show and Tell; active games and rhythms; readiness activities in such areas as numbers and alphabet; and art or a chosen activity. Science, cooking, drama, music, dance, literature and poetry will also be included from time to time.

Last year's field trips were of special delight to the children. They included a trip to Bell's Apple Orchard, a pet store, the library, the fire station and a special outing for 4-year-olds to West School to see exactly what a kindergarten is like.

Field trips, two per session, will also be included in this year's program.

THE FIRST session begins the week of Sept. 11, with 4-year-olds having the option of registering for either the 9 to 11:30 a.m. class or the 1 to 3:30 p.m. class on Mondays and Wednesdays. Classes will be limited to 25 children.

Three-year-olds (one pre-requisite: they must be toilet-trained) will attend class on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 to 11 a.m., with the class limited to 20.

The session for either age group will run for 15 weeks and costs $45 per child. Two more sessions, each 11 weeks in length, will follow during the year, each with a fee of $35.

To acquaint Des Plaines parents and their 3- and 4-year-old children with the program being offered, an open house will be held Monday, Aug. 14, and Tuesday, Aug. 15, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at West Park, Greenview and Wolf Road. It's an opportunity to meet the teachers, see the school and its facilities and familiarize the children with the surroundings.

REGISTRATION WILL take place the following Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 21 and 22, between 9 a.m. and noon on a first-come, first-served basis. If there are openings left, additional registration will be handled after Aug. 22 at the Park District office, 748 Pearson St.

Pam Falt, recreation supervisor of the Des Plaines Park District, said, "Our pre-school program is unique because it's a real learning experience, not just play. The children are taught early number concepts, the alphabet, how to tell time — they engage in science projects, craft projects, cooking experiences. They are even taught some basic Spanish to familiarize them with another language."

At the end of the third session, mini-graduates will partake in graduation exercises to show they have successfully completed the Park District's program and are a little better able to adjust to kindergarten routine.

A "PUT-TOGETHER CALENDAR" combines early number and letter concepts for pre-schoolers in the Des Plaines Park District's Kindergarten Readiness Program. Mrs. Jack Graham and Mrs. Ronald Collier prepare for opening week, Sept. 11, when 3 and 4-year-olds will begin the first session of 15 weeks. Registration will take place Aug. 21 for 4-year-olds, Aug. 22 for 3-year-olds, from 9 a.m. till noon at West Park. Bring proof of age.

Club Invitation To Area Women

Women in the Des Plaines area are invited to attend a "Get-Acquainted Coffee" to be given by the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines Tuesday, Aug. 15, at the home of Mrs. Donald Kellerman, 320 Lance Drive, Des Plaines. It will begin at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Joel Wells, president of the club which is a member of the Illinois and General Federation of Women's Clubs, states that the object of the organization is primarily one of charity and service, rendering community service, education and improvement and supporting both local and national philanthropies of its choice. Prospective members will find opportunities for fellowship in committee work, as well as in bridge and bowling groups, dances and mixers.

Any women interested in the club are urged to attend the afternoon of informal conversation with club members and are asked to bring their own lawn chairs. In the event of rain, the coffee will be held Wednesday, Aug. 16.

The wedding is planned for March, 1973.

Pounds Your Problem? Join TOPS

by MONICA WILCH

When your mouth begins to water at the sight of a chocolate layer cake and you decide it's hopeless to continue trying to lose weight — think again! Members of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) prove daily that dramatic weight loss is possible.

TOPS, which has local chapters in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Buffalo Grove, Schaumburg, and Wheeling, uses both psychological and financial weapons to help its members lose weight. Strictly enforced rules require attendance at all meetings, and the keeping of menu records and calorie counts. Diets are established by each member's doctor.

A ritual weighing-in precedes each meeting, after which members' weight problems are discussed and fines for failure to adhere to one's diet are collected. Penalties may hit a dieter's pocketbook for 25 to 50 cents, while the disapproval of fellow members shames her into improving her performance the next week.

MEMBERS PAY yearly national dues in addition to chapter dues, which are used for prizes and bonuses rewarding special weight losses. Members must consult a physician before entering any national competition.

The key to success in TOPS is total commitment. Those who can't tolerate the regimen drop out, but the club achieves success in 25 per cent of the cases.

Since obesity tends to be a recurring problem, TOPS has a follow-up program called KOPS — Keep Off Pounds Sensibly. Members who reach their weight loss goals graduate into KOPS in order to maintain their reduced weights.

To further aid members in dieting, TOPS clubs often invite experts in such fields as psychology and nutrition to discuss the problem of over-eating and ways to combat it. Members can learn new, low calorie recipes to liven up their diets, or come to a better understanding of the emotional hang-ups that may be causing their weight gains.

Dear Dorothy: When we did our traveling by car, we always had one bag which kept everyone's night clothes, toiletries and one fresh change of clothes. This way, when we stopped at a motel, only one bag had to be taken out for a one night's stop. Since we now often travel by air, we've continued the practice, more or less, and a carry-on bag is always taken along with various necessities. Twice when luggage went astray, this little bag has been a lifesaver. —Mrs. Robert B.

Dear Dorothy: Do you know where one can get free or, if not free, inexpensive booklets on home freezing of fruits and vegetables? Also, where can you get cardboard containers like those most frozen fruits and vegetables come in? Also, do you always have to blanch fruits and vegetables? —Mrs. T. V. McK.

Have no idea where one gets this kind of booklet free. The one published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture is only 20 cents and covers just about any question that might come up on the subject. Send 20 cents to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, asking for HG Bulletin No. 10, Home Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables. Most supermarkets carry the containers you'll need in freezing. You do not have to blanch fruits. You do have to blanch vegetables to maintain good quality.

Dear Dorothy: Thank you a million times for the boric acid treatment for eliminating roaches. We'd fought this battle for some time but were afraid to use various commercial remedies because of the possible danger to our lovely St. Bernard. Now there isn't a roach in sight and our dog is great. —Mrs. F.W.S.

(Mrs. Rita welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006)

Childbirth Film Friday Night

All expectant parents in the area are invited to attend the showing of a film on the Lamaze method of childbirth Friday evening in the Hyperbaric Theater at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge. Entitled "The Story of Eric," it is

WHAT KIND of success can TOPS dieters look forward to? One member, Mrs. Beverly Landinger of Palatine, recently won the club's international division competition, having lost 199 pounds in a year. Mrs. Landinger's diet of 500 calories per day consisted of liver, chicken breasts, fruits and certain vegetables.

You may have to give up the chocolate layer cake to lose weight — but chances are you'll still be allowed to enjoy foods other than soda crackers and water!

Explore Being A Woman During Forest Seminar

Forest Hospital Postgraduate Center is focusing a portion of its energies this fall towards the exploration of what it means to be a woman.

The center has designed a series of sessions that will provide a supportive and intimate environment where women can share their thoughts and feelings about such areas as self-image, marriage and goal direction.

PEER (People Exploring and Expanding their Resources) sessions will deal with three areas of a woman's life. The first weeks of the series will focus on "History." Anita Brown, social therapist who will conduct the programs, will lead participants in a discussion of growing up, how roles are formed and memories of becoming a woman.

The series will then move to "here and now" with discussions centering around self-image, marriage, motherhood, body image, sexuality, the current roles of women, etc. The remainder of the 10 weeks will be spent looking to the future dealing with such questions as "What do I want?" and "What are my goals?"

DURING THESE SESSIONS role playing, psychodrama, encounter and Gestalt therapy will be used as tools to facilitate communications and problem solving, said Miss Brown.

The center invites women interested in the PEER series to attend a free evening Thursday, Aug. 24, from 7:30-10:30 p.m. in the hospital auditorium, 555 Wilson Lane, Des Plaines.

The program is entitled "We As Women: A Night of Exploration." The film "Growing Up Female," a documentary on the lives of six women of varying ages, economic status and ethnic backgrounds, will be shown. The audience will then be divided into small groups to share views on what it means to be a woman today. Group discussions will be led by Miss Brown and the Postgraduate Center's staff of professional racial therapists.

Women interested in attending the Aug. 24 program or who wish further information are asked to contact Miss Brown at Forest, 827-8811 ext. 241.

Turtle Curb

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Pet turtles' movements would be restricted in a proposal by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The importation and interstate shipment of them would be more strictly controlled.

For many years it has been known that turtles transmit salmonella bacteria that cause a diarrheal disease. As many as 300,000 cases of turtle-borne salmonellosis occur each year in the United States.

Three Games Thursday

Arlington Opens With Kankakee In State Legion

The countdown continues toward one of the area's biggest sports stories this year — the American Legion baseball state finals Thursday through Sunday at Recreation Park in Arlington Heights.

Skies were still gray to start the week, but everyone is hoping for a break from the weather — especially hard-working Ninth District baseball Chairman Gene Sackett, who for weeks has been organizing the mountain of details in connection with the tourney.

By Monday, the six-team lineup was complete except for the winner of the Cook County finals, either host Northbrook or Giles.

Of interest to local fans is Arlington Heights' first opponent, which will be Kankakee of the Fourth District. That will be featured opening-day game, starting at 4 p.m.

Starting times each day will be 9 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. except for Sunday when the first game will be at 12:30 and the championship contest following if necessary. The tourney, of course, will be double-elimination as usual.

Other pairings for first-round games Thursday will be Northbrook or Giles vs. Barrington at 9:00 and Limestone vs. Belleville at 12:30.

If Arlington Heights wins its first game it will be idle Friday, playing again at 9:00 Saturday. If Heights loses it will play at 4:00 Friday.

Friday's complete schedule will be the losers of the first and second games (from Thursday) at 9:00, the winners of the first two games at 12:30 and the winners of the first two games at 4:00.

THE BEST IN Sports

ner of game 4 vs. the loser of game 3 at 4:00.

There will be quite a pre-game show Sunday before the championship finals, including appearances of U.S. Representative Phillip Crane, Arlington Heights Village President John Woods, Wheeling President Ted Scanlon and possibly Legion National Commander John Geiger of Des Plaines. There will be performances by the Cavaliers Drill team and the Fourth Marine Air Wing Color Guard and a brief eulogy for C. O. Michaelson, Legion baseball chairman for many years who passed away this summer.

(Watch the Herald throughout the week for more details.)

Umpiring As Way Of Life; Tom Gorman Loves His Job

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO — (NEA) — The play was a lightning flash of action at first base, the runner, the ball and the fielder all arriving in the same split-second. And Tom Gorman, in the black suit of his trade, was right on top of it. He was so intent in fact that when the runner careened over the fielder, both tumbled into Tom and the three bodies tangled in the dust of the infield.

Gorman heard the crack and felt the stab of pain in his leg. Nausea engulfed him. He blacked out. Both managers — Leo Durocher of the Cubs, Danny Murtagh of the Pirates — rushed out. The players got up O.K. and dusted themselves off. The Cub runner stood uncertainly.

Dimly, Tom Gorman heard a voice. "What was he?" more plainly. "How'd you call the play?"

"Who's asking?" asked Tom weakly. "Durocher."

"He was out."

Gorman's leg was broken, and he was out of action two months as a National League umpire. This happened two years ago. It was the only major mishap in 21 redneck years of major-league play-calling for the big Irishman from the Bronx.

Over that period, Durocher has been a major adversary for Gorman.

"I wish," Gorman sighs, we had a play where we could say, 'Tie! He's safe.' I remember I called a guy out and Durocher came running from the dugout screaming. I explained it to him, 'He tagged the base with the wrong foot.' That stopped Leo.

"But after the game he comes to me and asks, 'How long you been in the league?'"

"I answer 'twenty years.'"

"I want to tell you something," says Leo. "In this game, you can tag the bag with any foot."

In the pursuit of such anecdotes, and to justify the salary of $35,000 he gets as an umpire, Tom flies up to 100,000 miles a year. He still can't believe he does it for a living.

He had been an aspiring left-hand pitcher for the old New York Giants in 1939, with five innings in the record book. Five years later he was a discharged war veteran with calcium deposits in his shoulder. He jumped to the Mexican League for one year and then wondered what he'd do for a living.

He was refereeing a basketball game in Madison Square Garden when Neil Mahoney of the Red Sox saw him and said, "I can get you a job." For $100 a month and $75 expenses, he could be an umpire in the Class B, New England League.

"But I never umpired a game in my life," protested Tom.

"Try it," urged his late wife, Margie.

Tom went for an interview to Boston. He was asked if he had a car. He nodded.

"If you haven't got the car," said the league president, "you haven't got the job."

By 1951, he was promoted to the National League and is second in seniority now to Augie Donatelli. "The big thing about umpiring," he says, "is to think like an umpire. You got to believe you're right all the time. Television, believe it or not, has helped me. The statistics they once took of replays showed we were right 96-97 per cent of the time. The TV people, they blow more plays than we do."

He likes the life; he likes the camaraderie with his umpiring partners — Bill Williams, John McSherry and Frank Palley; he likes the light bit of drama.

"Before Babe Pinelli retired," recalls Tom, "he was collecting hats from each club as souvenirs. We got to the Polo Grounds and the Cincinnati Reds were in town. Babe went to Fred Hutchinson and said, 'After the game, send me down a hat.'"

"Sure Babe," said Hutch, a prince of a guy off the field.

"Well, the games goes into the ninth inning, Cincinnati trailing 4-3. They got a runner on second and the batter hits a single to center. The tying run is coming to the plate. It's one of those close plays. Babe calls the runner out. From the dugout Hutch explodes. He's all shades of red. He's out there jawing. Then he throws his hat down."

"From over at third base, Dusty Bogges, who's umpiring there, yells, 'Grab the hat, Babe!'"

Olympic Feats 1904

(One of a series on extraordinary happenings in each of the 16 modern Olympic Games.)

ST. LOUIS, 1904 — A momentary outburst of temper by an official was responsible for a most unusual Olympic record at St. Louis. In the final of the 300 meters, the field broke three times and had to be recalled by the starter.

Following the third false start, one of the judges, irritated by the delay — and perhaps forgetful of the fact that this was an Olympic event — punished all four finalists by ordering them to line up one meter behind the official starting line.

Thus, Archie Hahn (USA) eventually went on to win and to set an Olympic record of 21.6 seconds for 201 meters.

For swimming competition, an artificial lake was dug. It proved disastrous, however. Several swimmers got stuck in the mud and reeds of the shore line. And a raft in the middle of the lake sank when seven swimmers boarded it.

General attitude of most athletes who competed at the third Olympic Games was probably summed up by Emil Breitkreutz (USA), winner of a bronze medal behind J. D. Lightbody (USA) and H. Valentine (USA) in the 800 meters. Writing about the Games some months later, he said, "Our prime interest had been in seeing the World's Fair."

State Amateur Golf Tourney Begins

The 42nd annual Illinois State Amateur Tournament, sponsored by the Chicago District Golf Association, swings into action today and Wednesday at the Short Hills Country Club in East Moline.

Those amateurs who finish in the top 30 and ties will play 36 holes for the title on Thursday with a 36-hole finale.

Besides the young big name players in

Jay Haas of Belleville and Steve Benson of Country Club Hills, Stan Mikita will also be among the 154 contestants. Mikita fired a qualifying round of 86, one behind the best qualifying score. That's not bad for a man who spends most of his year on skates with a hockey stick.

Mills Rendell, former Palatine resident and now from Lincolnshire, will also be challenging for the title.
